BUSINESS PAST CRISIS, FARRELL TELLS CANNERS

Notes Improvement in Last Month.

James A. Farrell, president of the two billion dollar United States Steel corporation, declared yesterday that in his opinion the peak of the financial depression was passed thirty days ago and the pendulum of industrial activity is now swinging back to normal.

In an address before the National Canners and the National Wholesale Grocers associations, in convention at the Stevens hotel, Mr. Farrell asserted that "the last thirty days have given ample evidence of a considerable increase not only in the business of the steel industry but in collateral and unrelated lines."

Discusses Many Topics.

Having chosen to speak on the broad topic "Business," Mr. Farrell took the occasion to express some views on such interrelated subjects as the tariff, the American wage scale, European war debts, and the farm problem. His remarks were at wide variance with views recently advanced by certain New York bankers.

Without using names, he took issue, for example, with a recent statement of Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National bank of New York. In his annual statement to the bank stockholders a week ago Mr. Wiggin advocated a wage reduction and a revision of interallied war debts as a step towards restoration of stability.

The broad shouldered, white haired steel man drew prolonged applause with the remark that "while certain groups believe that our recovery will be retarded until certain factors in the world situation are corrected, there is a larger element who believe that if we will concentrate our activities on the United States and its problems for the time being that business in the United States, with all its potential possibilities, will speed recovery and enlarge opportunity for employment."

Opinion on War Debts.

On the war debts question Mr. Farrell offered this thought:

"The demand for remission of these debts rests upon the proposition, always difficult to grasp, that when one has labored and saved to build up an accumulation he will improve his position still more by giving away part of what he has."

The revisionists, he pointed out, advance the proposition that severe taxation in Europe is curtailing international trade and that remission of the debts would be an incentive to increasing such trade.

Annual Payments Small.

"It is well to remember, however," said Mr. Farrell, "that none of the debtor countries is obligated to pay the entire amount of its debt at once, or within a brief period. Each obligation is spread over many years with small annual installments, and at low interest rates, so that each year's payment is, in itself, not considerable.

"The annual payment, not the total sum, is the whole measure of relief that the taxpayers of any country would obtain from such remission.

"Let us do the things we can," the steel man urged. "Let us cut down the volume of undigested talk that rarely helps but always hampers."

He made further references to "undigested talk" in dealing with wage cuts. Granting that unemployment is considerable and that the national income has been reduced, Mr. Farrell contended it was essential for prosperity to maintain the purchasing power of the working classes.

Against Wage Decrease.

"There are some who urge a reduction in wages corresponding to the drop in prices," he said. "They afford to believe that such a liquidation at labor would hasten a return to normal conditions.

"Apparently those who advocate this solution have not stopped to weigh the implications that, instead of leading to increase consumption of industrial and agricultural products, such wage reductions must inevitably reduce the purchasing power of the wage earner and restrict consumption.

"It is my deliberate judgment that a general reduction of wages in this country would set back the impending recovery by at least two years."

Must Restore Confidence.

General restoration of confidence is a prime factor in restoration of prosperity, Mr. Farrell believes. It is apparent, he said, that the money made during the last four or five years is still in this country, available for use in business enterprise and in general buying as soon as confidence is restored.

To prove his contention the steel man cited the following facts:

"The people of the United States

Hoover Studies Wickersham Report

WILL GIVE IT TO CONGRESS AND PUBLIC TODAY

Nearly 20 Months in the Making.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Exactly 19 months and 23 days after embarking upon its task, the Wickersham law enforcement commission today laid its study of the nation's prohibition problem before President Hoover.

The lengthy document, wrapped in an ordinary brown paper envelope, was carried to the White House early this morning by Chairman Wickersham. Mr. Hoover dropped other tasks to begin his study of it.

The President's engagement list was ordered held to a minimum and, if expectations at the White House are fulfilled, he will be able to send it to congress, probably with some form of message attached, by tomorrow noon. It will then be released for publication.

It's Known to Be Dry.

Days before the long awaited document was placed in Mr. Hoover's hands it became known, through sources close to the commission, that at least the majority report of the eleven members would carry no recommendation for repeal of the 18th amendment or modification of the Volstead act to permit wines or beer.

Despite the few words that have leaked out from behind the commission's long closed doors, however, the main portions of both the majority and individual reports have remained shrouded in a secrecy almost unparalleled in Washington.

There was a general congratulatory air at the commission headquarters during the day that, notwithstanding the nearly two years of deliberations upon a highly controversial subject, the tenor of these agreements and disagreements have been confined mainly to the circle of the eleven members.

Its Delivery Is Secret.

Even the transmitting to President Hoover of the report was accomplished with as much secrecy as possible. The energetic 72 year old commission chairman left his Connecticut avenue home much earlier than has been his custom in recent months.

Instead of walking to his offices by his usual circuitous route that for weeks past has carried him by the White House door, he drove directly to the front door of the executive mansion. He arrived there before 8:45 a. m., and President Hoover had not yet gone to his adjoining offices.

Even with the report gone from his hands, however, the New Yorker did not relax his secrecy. Upon emerging from the White House half an hour later, minus the large brown envelope, Wickersham decreed that word of its submission to the President would have to come from the White House offices. This did not come for nearly an hour.

More Reports to Come.

Wickersham was the only commission member known to be in the capital today, but the members are expected to reassemble, if only in part, from time to time in connection with the other tasks of crime investigation assigned them by the President.

Virtually the entire story of crime in the United States and the steps that should be taken to improve enforcement against it the commission members believe can be written before July 1.

Plans have been made for the publication of reports upon different phases of this field during coming months, with one big report, embracing all the studies, to be published before the end of June.

Nature of the Report.

The report of the commission as a whole has been described as largely factual, but embracing recommendations for improving conditions in connection with Volstead enforcement.

The word has been given that while no recommendation for repeal or modification is included, no effort is made to gloss over facts either favorable of unfavorable to the dry laws.

The report as submitted includes individual opinions from among the eleven commissioners. How many dissented from the majority report is expected to be made known only through publication of the documents themselves.

From the commissioners themselves in recent weeks have come assertions that unanimity could not be hoped for.

Under the plan upon which the re-

$75,000 GEM HOLDUP ON DRIVE DISCLOSED AFTER TWO MONTHS

A daring holdup last Nov. 25 at the outer drive and Montrose avenue, in which a wealthy Philadelphia woman was robbed of $75,000 in jewelry, was disclosed last night.

The victim was Mrs. Cornelia Fox of the Majestic hotel in Philadelphia. Edward J. Powell of 2440 Lake View avenue is reported to have lost a considerable amount of money.

No report was made to police until later because several of Mrs. Fox's friends wished to avoid publicity. Detectives were assigned secretly to the investigation and even the Town Hall station in the district in which the holdup was perpetrated was not notified.

Mrs. Fox was a guest at the home of J. Raymond Murphy, 6107 Kenmore avenue.

The thieves stripped Mrs. Fox of all her jewelry. Her loss consisted of an emerald ring, a turquoise beaded necklace, a diamond solitaire set with a 6½ carat stone, a necklace of 36 pearls, a diamond bracelet, a rope of beaded pearls, a basket shaped pin set with emeralds and rubies, a diamond bar pin, a necklace bearing 60 assorted stones, and a diamond circle pin. All were insured.

NEW YORK SPENT $1,334,000,000 IN THE YEAR 1930

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—New York City's expenditures for all purposes in 1930 amounted to $1,334,122,692, while its receipts aggregated $1,324,223,459 and its bonded debt rose to $2,127,845,572, according to an advance report issued today by the department of finance.

The city derived $447,918,916 of its income from taxes on real estate and personal property, and obtained $28,843,971 additional from assessments on city and borough realty collectible with the taxes.

HAVANA WITHOUT WATER; BOMB WRECKS BIG MAIN

HAVANA, Jan. 20 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Havana was made waterless early today when a bomb exploded at the city's main waterway at Pilar and Desague streets. There was great damage and considerable alarm, but no one was injured. It was believed an anarchist placed the bomb. The explosion was heard all over the city.

County Taught Wifely Way to Buy Drawers

A saving of six and a half cents a garment appealed so strongly to the bargain instinct of three women members that the county board yesterday sent back to its finance committee an order for 400 dozen suits of underwear for the inmates of the Oak Forest infirmary.

A bid of $4,080 for the garments had been submitted by one company while another had bid $4,396. Frank Venecek, superintendent of the infirmary, recommended acceptance of the higher bid on the ground that the merchandise was more suitable and the committee agreed with him.

A Saving of $316.

But when the item reached the board yesterday, Commissioner Amelia Sears took exception and two other women members, Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, and Mrs. Glenn Plumb stood by her. They pointed out that the difference in price was 79 cents a dozen, which was worth saving. In vain the men sought to win them over by arguments.

Commissioner Daniel Ryan pleaded that the underwear is needed in cold weather and that there should be no delay. Mrs. Fleming retorted that she had examined the samples and indicated that she knew goods when she saw them.

"Some of you men should have examined the garments," she added. "There they were out in the other room. Everybody saw them."

A roll call resulted in an 8 to 4 vote in favor of the committee report. Commissioner George A. Miller voting with the three women. Miss Mary McEnerney, the fourth feminine member, voted with the seven men. As ten votes were required for adoption, the matter was referred back to the committee and the three women were victorious.

Legislative Bill Drafted.

The board unanimously approved the draft of a bill to permit the county to issue without a referendum $2,000,000 in bonds to care for the poor. Under the terms of the bill, which is to be presented to the legislature, the board may sell the bonds after its regular expenditures for poor relief exceeded $500,000.

Bids were opened for the delivery of milk to four county institutions, the Capitol Dairy company being low at a rate of 31 to 37 cents a gallon. The Wagner Dairy company, whose bid twice had been rejected, did not submit an estimate.

RED CROSS UPHOLDS HOOVER'S PLAN FOR IT TO HANDLE RELIEF

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—While the senate was passing the $25,000,000 food fund amendment today the central committee of the Red Cross met and voted to uphold President Hoover and his policy. A statement issued following the meeting said in part:

"In our opinion it is best as a question of public policy that the Red Cross should remain a purely voluntary organization. We believe that the interests of the country and of the Red Cross will be best promoted by continuing to rely on the generosity of the nation and by adhering to the fundamental principles on which this organization was founded.

"We consider ourselves charged with the responsibility in the drought area; we are meeting the needs and will continue to do so.

"It is realized that the generosity of the American people is being severely taxed to meet the various acute situations which are developing in our industrial centers. The necessities of the case, however, demand serious sacrifice. It is a situation comparable with that existing during the war, and we urge the people to recognize this responsibility to the end that this money will be forthcoming from voluntary contributions as it has been in every major disaster in the past."

BERGER H. LOMAN SEIZED IN HOTEL ON WIFE'S CHARGE

Berger H. Loman, world war hero and holder of numerous medals for bravery in action and once Republican candidate for county clerk, was arrested early this morning by police of the Shakespeare avenue station on a charge of larceny of $400 preferred by his wife. Loman was seized in the Wilshire hotel, 2525 Milwaukee avenue, in a room with a woman who gave the name of Alice Russell. She and Berger were charged with disorderly conduct on the hotel affair.

According to the police at Town Hall station, where the larceny warrant was obtained, it is the result of domestic strife of some duration. Loman was locked up at the Shakespeare avenue station. Among his decorations for valiant service were the Congressional medal of honor, Legion of Honor, Croix de Guerre, two palms, Montenegrin cross, Belgian, and Italian awards, and a citation for the Victoria Cross. In 1925 he was the Republican nominee Loman was charged with disorderly Robert M. Bweitzer.

Senate Passes Food Fund Bill Hoover Fought

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—By a vote of 56 to 27, the senate today repudiated President Hoover's relief policy and adopted the Robinson amendment appropriating $25,000,000 to be given the Red Cross for the distribution of food, medical supplies, and other necessities.

The amendment is attached to the interior department appropriation bill, so that if it falls the supply bill must fall also. If one is delayed, the other is delayed; and the delay on the appropriation bill cannot continue beyond June 30 or the interior department will be out of funds.

Administration Efforts Fail.

The vote on the amendment was not the only test. Before it was taken, administration leaders made a fruitless effort to postpone a final decision until Feb. 9. An amendment sponsored by Senator David R. Reed [Rep., Pa.] provided that the $25,000,000 should not be appropriated if, by that time, the present Red Cross drive for $10,000,000 had succeeded. The Reed amendment was voted down, 30 to 53.

Three of the regular Republicans—Senator Kean [N. J.], McNary [Ore.] and Shortridge [Cal.]—went with the administration on the Reed amendment, as did one Democrat, Senator Tydings [Md.], but the vote on the main amendment found them with the Democrats, the radical Republicans and with Senators Capper [Kas.], Hatfield [W. Va.], Jones [Wash.], and Thomas [Idaho], voting for the amendment and against the Hoover policy. This despite the fact that Senators Kean and Shortridge are usually regular among regulars, and Senator Mc Nary is assistant majority leader.

There is doubt as to what will happen when the interior bill goes back to the house, trailing its amendment behind it.

Report House Weakening.

A week ago observers said that the house would flatly refuse to touch such a piece of relief legislation. Tonight the reports are that certain house leaders are whispering compromise. March 4 and a new congress, divided almost evenly, are almost at hand. It is no time, it is hinted, for administration leaders anxious to hang on to posts of power and prerogative to antagonize the radical membership or, for that matter, any membership.

If reports from the White House are to be believed, on the other hand, no weakening has yet been noted in Evidence Seized in New Raid.

Secrets of the police protection of west side vice resorts, as revealed by two women, held the attention yesterday of the special grand jury investigating police graft charges.

Mrs. Shirely Kub, once a $300 a month investigator for Acting Police Commissioner Alcock and at other times a sanitary district employe through undisclosed influences, told not only what she knew about police connivance with commercialized vice, but, according to officials, she told what she knew about Miss Bernice Shaw.

Miss Shaw, the former sweetheart of Sergt. Jack Herdegen, whom she accuses of having been not only the collector of police graft but the agent of Jack Zuta when that public enemy was the boss vice monger, likewise told of Mrs. Kub's activities.

"Startling Revelations."

Their joint testimony caused Sergt. Michael Ahern, chief raider for the state's attorney's office, to announce that "startling revelations" had been made. Later Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury, who are in charge of the grand jury's investigation of the police department, admitted that the women had uncovered much evidence of corruption.

Private reports were that the women "knew their stuff" as to vice conditions. It was reported that Miss Shaw's testimony regarding collections at more than 30 places formerly operated as brothels had been corroborated.

Miss Shaw frankly admitted that she was making her revelations because she was scorned by Sergt. Herdegen after years of intimacy. She accused Mrs. Kub of having threatened to kill her if she "squealed." She told of going to a high police official with an offer to tell the truth about Herdegen, only to be told that Mrs. Kub was one of the principal protectors of the sergeant. This official, it was learned, admitted the charge, saying he did not dare take the proper action on the complaint because of the influence of Mrs Kub and others.

Delve Into Woman's Past.

The grand jurors delved into the past of Mrs. Kub. The woman said she was married to a Negro, but said she had left him soon after their marriage 10 years ago. Her city hall affiliations were questioned and it was said her history went back to Zuta's best days. Miss Shaw said that for two days before the murder of Zuta at a Wisconsin resort, Mrs. Kub was seeking the vice lord to give him warning.

Mrs. Kub, the grand jurors were told, was interested in preventing the prosecution of Sergts. Wellington Britten and James Howland, alias Jesse James, Negro policemen now under federal indictment on a dope conspiracy charge that involved an alleged "shakedown" of two dope peddlers.

Mrs. Kub, as a secret investigator for Acting Commissioner Alcock, unearthed considerable on the subject of protected vice and tolerated gambling, the jurors were told, and she was said to have conferred frequently with her city hall "sponsors" as to whether or not this place or that place should be raided or if the owner was "right" politically.

Woman Accuses Woman.

Miss Shaw charged that Mrs. Kub was not averse to "framing" a policeman, public official or private citizen whenever it would serve her individual purpose. Mrs. Kub was able to have Sergt. Herdegen transferred from the traffic division to the North Damen avenue district after he had been banished from the Warren avenue district "for the good of the service," the jurors were told, and she was able to "hold" certain other policemen of higher rank at stations of their choosing, or "move them to the sticks." Others who wished to use her home for love trysts were accommodated, it was reported.

The landlady and the maid of an assignation house on West Adams street testified that Miss Shaw and Sergt. Herdegen lived at her place. Employes of the Plaza hotel told of how the two lived there as a married couple for many months. Officials of a bank testified as to a joint account held by Miss Shaw and Herdegen.

The dovetailing stories of Miss Shaw and Mrs. Kub led to the tracing of graft money to many other policemen, according to attaches of the state's attorney's office, some of them of high rank. For months Mrs. Kub worked with two sergeants who had been removed from the Warren avenue district, supposedly to the traffic section, but in reality to investigate police captains, she told the jury.

Sergt. Herdegan will be given an opportunity to tell his side of the story today and Acting Commissioner Alcock is to be called to tell of reports made to him by Mrs. Kub. He will be asked if it is true that she recently was discharged, and why, the prosecutors announced.

Raid Nets New Evidence.

Further evidence of protected vice on the south side was sought late yesterday in a raid on a fake real estate office at 14 West 22d street, adjacent to the Rex hotel, which was raided early Sunday morning. The raiders left the jury room after having presented the evidence seized at the Rex.

In the place, which was not used as a real estate office, a safe was found, and it was opened. It contained many records bearing the names of Edward Connors and Fred M. Morelli, whose names were also on documents taken from the safe owned by Dennis Cooney, vice lord and Capone ally, who owns the Rex hotel. A counterfeit $20 bill and several unset diamonds were found in the safe.

Assistant State's Attorneys Mueller and Lounsbury spent the evening examining the papers taken in both raids. They said they were seeking proof of police and political protection for a chain of brothels, allegedly operated by Cooney.

A writ of habeas corpus was sought by Attorney John H. Johntry in behalf of George "Tubby" Mueller, manager of the Rex, and four other employés. Judge Joseph Burke permitted the state's attorney's office to have custody of the prisoners until tomorrow, when they are to be taken before the grand jury to tell how they were enabled to continue violating the law.

Writ Sought for Girls.

Before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty a writ was asked in behalf of the five girls captured in the raid. Attorney Charles Horgan told the court the girls could only be charged with being inmates of a disorderly house and that therefore they were entitled to bail. He said they had been in custody two days.

Judge McGoorty continued the hearing until this afternoon.

Assistant State's Attorney Theodore Miller, who was the first to enter the Rex early Sunday morning, and who said he was taken "upstairs to see the girls," tried to take statements from them. The writ gave the names of the girls as Marie Harris, Florence Mitchell, Duddie Gaynor, Dollie Miller, and Billie Miller, but none of the girls would tell the prosecutor which was which.

The girls are to be taken before the grand jurors today, Prosecutor Miller said.

Orders Policemen to Explain.

The jury did not hear evidence regarding the Cooney documents in which the names of Sergts. Peter Bernacchi and James Coleman appeared. The sergeants were not questioned yesterday, but their commanding officer, Capt. John Prendergast, ordered them to make reports to him about their activities at the Rex hotel and also as to why Sergt. Bernacchi went there at the time of the raid, which was made when he was not supposed to be on duty.

Capt. Prendergast recommended the suspension of Patrolmen Albert Hahn and Francis O'Neill, who, he said, were under orders to visit the Rex once an hour to see that vice was not permitted.

No County Money for Quiz.

Money with which to finance the grand jury's investigation of the police was not forthcoming at the county board meeting yesterday. At a previous meeting of the finance committee it was decided to defer action until yesterday. The meeting was nearing its end yesterday when Commissioner Charles Weber asked:

"What about State's Attorney Swanson's request for an appropriation of $50,000 for the police investigation?"

Commissioner William Busse, acting president, said it was understood Swanson was to send a letter outlining his need for the money, and that as no such letter was received there was nothing before the board on which to act.

FALL DEAD IN ELEVATOR.

Edward Anderson Endres, 52 years old, 4566 South Michigan avenue, Spanish American war veteran, fell dead of heart disease yesterday in an elevator of a building at Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard.

SENATE PASSES FOOD FUND BILL HOOVER FOUGHT

the attitude of the President. He continues to be, as he has been from the first, opposed to federal appropriations designed as outright charity or to loan appropriations for food.

They were not kind things which were said about the President, the Red Cross, and the administration policy on the floor of the senate today. It was only last fall that the famous coöperation pledge was signed by the seven Democrats, but its memory seemed to belong to a bygone day.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader, was one of the signers, and this was what he said:

"The senate twice voted loans for food. With unaccountable stupidity this legislation was announced as a dole and rejected. Meantime conditions were growing worse, and those needing assistance were rapidly increasing so that it became apparent that very large sums were necessary. Yet the President and the Red Cross did little and would have continued that policy had not the senate taken the initiative and begun a drive which has forced both the President and the Red Cross to a partial realization of the danger ahead."

Nor was that all. He read the testimony the President, then Mr. Hoover, food administrator, had given before a senate committee a dozen years ago in favor of granting $20,000,000 for the relief of starving Russians.

Charges Indifference.

"It is mysterious political philosophy," said Senator Robinson, "that deems it sound policy to appropriate money for foreigners, but unsound policy to appropriate money for the relief of our own citizens."

He charged the administration with indifference to the sufferings of the people. He termed "as "contemptible" those critics who called the appeal for relief an attempt to embarrass the administration. Once again he referred to that rankling statement given out by the President last December.

"It is a pitiable spectacle," he declared, "to see a man do nothing and then say that we are playing politics when we try to get action with which every one of you senators is in sympathy."

Senator Robinson was but reciting an epilogue to a debate that had gone on for five hours; his criticisms were only an appendix to those that had gone before.

Senator Reed had defended the President and the Red Cross. So had Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.]. Let the senate not abandon the American method, supported by precedent, of administering relief through voluntary contribution, until the Red Cross had had a chance to complete its fund, they urged. If the Red Cross failed, then would be time enough to grant a federal appropriation. Who was going to volunteer money if the government intended to appropriate? The senate's action would wreck the Red Cross. A three weeks' delay was all they asked. Only three weeks, but—

Charges Political Maneuvering.

"The administration's trying to save its face. Smith, Coolidge, and Davis were called on to help not in order to raise an extra dollar, but for political effect, to give a few senators courage to stand against this amendment. But the cries of women and children can be heard above the crack of party lash."

That was Arkansas' senator, Thaddeus H. Caraway [Dem.].

"For shame!" cried Senator Royal S. Copeland in answer to Senator Reed's statement that the income tax returns would be smaller this year than for many previous years. "To consider taxation of those able to pay above the relief of suffering. The country is in danger. These people are not going to lie down and die if by any means they can get the wherewithal to live."

"This plea for delay looks like an attempt to carry over the period when congress is in session," said Senator Couzens [Mich.], independent Republican. "Then when congress is no longer the relief will have to come from private contribution."

FARM BOARD OFFERS TO LEND RED CROSS WHEAT AND COTTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The federal farm board today announced that it was prepared to loan any amount of its surplus wheat and cotton holdings to the Red Cross or any responsible unit of government for alleviation of distress caused by the drought or the economic depression.

According to Alexander Legge, chairman of the board, the stabilization corporations authorized by law to purchase surplus commodities in an attempt to maintain or boost price levels have been advised to make loans of wheat and cotton to responsible organizations on easy terms.

Mr. Legge said that the farm board's commodities will be sold to responsible units at market prices. He indicated no interest would be charged and that the purchasers would be permitted to buy whatever they needed and pay for it at their convenience.

The stabilization corporations have been advised to coöperate in any way possible with the distress alleviation units in exchanging wheat for flour, groceries, or whatever commodities are needed to alleviate distress.

"Under the agricultural act such supplies cannot be donated," Mr. Legge said.

BATTLE IN HOUSE TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Foes of prohibition in the house are ready for the biggest fight of the session tomorrow. They will offer a dozen or more amendments to various items in the prohibition bureau sections of the annual state, justice, commerce, and labor appropriation bill.

While the wets expect to be outnumbered four to one, they propose to stir up an active contest over a number of phases of prohibition enforcement, such as propaganda work, entrapment of violators in government speakeasies, purchase of liquor as evidence and wire tapping, as well as over the proposal to add 500 new agents.

Dry Quota 11 Millions.

Representative George H. Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] will lead the attack of the wets. Mr. Tinkham was a member of the subcommittee of the house appropriation committee which formulated the appropriation bill, and before which Attorney General William D. Mitchell and Prohibition Director Amos W. Woodcock appeared as witnesses.

The bill provides a total of $11,369,500 for the prohibition bureau for the fiscal year 1932, an increase of $2,369,500 over appropriations for the current year. The principal item in the increase is $1,614,260 for new employés, 500 of whom will be prohibition agents.

In case the wets fail to obtain the elimination of the proposed increases they may offer amendments for a large increase. The wets last year offered amendments to increase annual appropriations to 300 million dollars, the amount which Dr. James M. Doran, former commissioner of prohibition and now commissioner of industrial alcohol in the treasury department, said would be necessary for effective enforcement. The drys, however, refused to vote for amendments of this character.

Repeal Asked in Colorado.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A bill to repeal the state prohibition enforcement act was introduced in the lower house of the Colorado legislature today by Representative Edward J. Hoefnagels, [Dem.] of Leadville.

CLARK DRY DECISION COMES UP TOMORROW IN U. S. SUPREME COURT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Preliminary to Wednesday's battle over the validity of the eighteenth amendment, the government today filed with the Supreme court its appeal from the decision of Judge Clark of New Jersey, holding the amendment invalid.

A brief supporting Judge Clark's ruling, based on the contention the amendment should have been ratified by state conventions rather than legislatures, was submitted today by Jeremiah M. Evarts, an attorney of Windsor, Vt.

Solicitor General Thatcher will present the government's contentions. He has already filed a brief outlining his argument.

NO LAW TO CURB GRAIN EXCHANGE AT THIS SESSION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Legislation placing additional restrictions on the Chicago Board of Trade and other grain exchanges will not be enacted at this session of congress. This was the opinion of members of congress who were consulted today by a delegation from the Chicago Board of Trade headed by J. C. Murray, president, and S. C. Harris, vice president. The delegation interviewed Senators Charles S. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn [Reps., Ill.] and other senators as well as a number of members of the house.

The delegation arrived on the same train with Alexander Legge, chairman of the farm board, who has advocated legislation giving additional power to the secretary of agriculture to impose rules upon grain exchanges.

The situation with respect to the Capper-Dickinson bill increasing the power of the secretary of agriculture over grain exchanges was the subject of particular interest to the Chicagoans. They learned that hearings likely are to be held by the senate committee on agriculture at the insistence of Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] but that the house committee on agriculture probably will not take up the bill at this session.

In the house the bill was introduced by Representative L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] who will take his seat in the senate in the new congress.

While Senator Capper may get his bill to the floor of the senate the general expectation is the Chicagoans were told, that the legislation will go over until next winter.

BRITAIN PLEDGES INDIA SELF RULE; PARLEY CLOSES

Negotiations to Continue to Settle Details.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Indian round table conference finished its work today and the fate of India now rests with the Indians themselves. Their leaders tonight admitted they have obtained from the British government far more than they expected. The weeks of work, begun in suspicion, and in some cases dislike, has ended in hearty friendship and the ghosts of the past seem to be fairly laid out.

The one fly in the ointment is that the most vocal and largest single party in India—the all Indian congress, led by Mahatma Gandhi—was not represented. At the beginning of the conference it was hostile. It is now reported to be coolly interested, but no one conceals from himself that on the attitude of the all Indian congress depends the success or failure of the whole plan to give India dominion status. The attitude of the congress will be revealed in a few days.

MacDonald Outlines Work.

Prime Minister MacDonald spoke for an hour today and was applauded partly by the Indians. He outlined the work accomplished by the conference—the plans for a federal dominion with responsible government, both in the states and at the center, with reservations for a time giving the viceroy control of defense and foreign relations, and partial reservations concerning finance. The negotiations will continue without interruption, he said, to settle the details of the proposed new government.

Mr. MacDonald spoke of the failure to secure a complete settlement of the communal quarrel between the Moslems and Hindus, but he expressed confidence that this will be made in India and he promised that within a few days he would confer with the new viceroy, Lord Willingdon, about the machinery for carrying on and completing the work of the conference.

It is understood that this will be done by appointing a commission or commissions to go to India and work out details in conjunction with representative Indians.

Refuses Immediate Amnesty.

Responding to a moving appeal by Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, an Indian leader, to signalize the ending of the conference by granting amnesty to 60,000 political prisoners in India, Mr. MacDonald declared that if the appeal in India was responded to by calling off the civil disobedience movement and proclaiming civil order, the British government in its turn would not be backward in meeting this gesture with amnesty. It is understood that within a day or two the viceroy will make a formal offer to the all-India congress leaders of amnesty in return for the cessation of the civil disobedience.

The surprise of the day was the speech of Lord Peel, leader of the British Conservative delegation and former secretary of state for India. Throughout the conference the attitude of the Conservatives has been critical and hostile. The diehard element, led by Winston Churchill and Lord Rothermere, has done its best to wreck the conference. Lord Peel today threw the extremists overboard and declared for a settlement.

He Asks for Safeguards.

He said that in view of the change of opinion wrought by the conference if safeguards could be made effective with care and good will, and if practical problems are met in a workmanlike spirit as he believed they would, the Conservatives would not hesitate to assent to a new constitution transferring power and responsibility to the Indians.

The setting of the final plenary session this afternoon was almost as picturesque as the opening session. It lacked the presence of the king-emperor, but the gorgeously dressed Indians lent a mass of color to the scene. At one end of the table sat the huge maharajah of Patiala, chancellor of the chamber of princes, with his long black beard plaited and tied back over his ears in Sikh fashion. He wore a pale pink turban. Great drops of pearls hung from his ears and glittering bracelets were on one of his wrists.

Wears Diamond in Hat.

On each side of him sat the most famous princes of India, the maharajah of Bikanir, in European dress, the maharajah of Kashmir in a black frock coat closely buttoned to the chin, and the maharajah of Alwar, wearing a purple three cornered hat with a great diamond in front, and a velvet coat edged in purple.

The gaekwar of Baroda was in British morning dress. The chief sahib of Sangli was in a sack suit. Around the table were Indians of all ranks in all varieties of costumes.

At the conclusion of Mr. MacDonald's speech the Indians spoke. They thanked the premier and his colleagues for all they had done and expressed confidence that the work would be accepted and appreciated in India.

Begum Speaks for Women.

The Begum Shah Nawaz spoke for the women of India. Dressed in a delicate blue sari, with silver spangles and edging, she made a poetic speech thanking the king-emperor and the queen-empress for their hospitality, the British people for their kindness, and Prime Minister MacDonald for his tact and justice. She said that as a result of the conference love had been substituted for hate between the British and Indians.

Several Indian leaders tonight expressed their views on Mr. MacDonald's declaration.

"I consider the proposals a distinct advance and I hope our compatriots in India also realize how far we have advanced," said the Maharajah of Patiala.

Dr. Shafaat Ahmed Khan, secretary of the Moslem delegation, said: "I am completely satisfied with Prime Minister MacDonald's statement. I particularly note that the British government completely committed itself to dominion status."

Gandhi Followers Dissatisfied.

BOMBAY, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald's speech today, pledging responsible self-government to India, drew sharp criticism tonight from members of the all India national congress, or nationalist organization.

Keen disappointment was expressed over Mr. MacDonald's failure to declare for immediate amnesty to the 60,000 congress members now in jail, including Mahatma Gandhi.

"There can be no peace in India," said a prominent congress official tonight, "while these men, who represent the best brains and the most liberal thought of the country, are behind steel bars. "We find little comfort or hope in the premier's speech. Therefore, India's struggle to become mistress in her own house must continue with renewed intensity."

TWO MINNESOTANS MENACE G. O. P. RULE, SPEAKER LONGWORTH

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Standing in opposition to the Republican leadership of the house, Representatives Paul John Kvale, farmer-laborite, and Victor Christgau, Republican, both of Minnesota, gave out a statement tonight which was construed as an initial effort to overthrow the rule of Speaker Longworth, Floor Leader Tilson, and Chairman Snell of the rules committee. The statement bristled with menace to the house leadership.

Mr. Kvale is looked upon as the representative whose vote may be the determining factor in the election of the next speaker. The joint statement read:

"Present rules of the house place a tremendous power in the hands of the leaders. The procedure should be modified so as to permit that power to revert to the house itself, so that members of congress once more will become legislators and no longer will be able to hide behind the rules or to evade their responsibilities."

U. S. BARS RECIPE TO GIVE WALLOP TO FRUIT JUICES

If Seller Is Mum He Escapes Prosecution.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Sales of wine grape juice or grape concentrates in five and ten gallon kegs apparently meets with no objection from the head of the existing federal dry enforcement organization.

But if the agent of any of the many companies now purveying grape concentrates for use in making 7 to 12 per cent wine happens to carry samples of his product or dispenses oral or written information regarding how the fruit juice can be converted into something with a wallop—well, that is something else again.

Issue No Definite Orders.

Inquiry today disclosed that while the prohibition bureau has issued no definite orders to administrators on the subject of wine making in the home, tips have sometimes gone from the capital approving the arrest of grape concentrate salesmen who help their customers convert grape juice into wine. On the other hand, it is said the clients of Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt have not been molested.

The arrest of 22 agents of the Ukiah Grape Products company, Inc., of Kansas City, Mo., was pointed to today in federal dry enforcement circles as a case in point. In that instance the salesmen, according to information reaching Washington, were accused of giving verbal instructions to their customers as to the manner by which wine could be manufactured from grape juice.

In the Kansas City case the initiative in making the arrests was taken by the special agents in the field. It was learned, however, that in certain other cases local federal forces seeking advice on whether to prosecute grape juice salesmen who proffered aid to customers have been advised to go ahead.

Arrests in Four States.

Officials at the bureau of prohibition were unable today to supply any information as to the numbers of persons who have been arrested in connection with the sale of grape concentrates for home wine making. It was learned, however, that arrests have been made in Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, and California.

The impression given out at prohibition headquarters is that federal administrators are permitted to use their own judgment in handling the home wine making situation.

1,300 FLU CASES IN BALTIMORE; 90 OF THEM NEW

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 19.—(AP)—With a total of more than 1,300 cases reported to the health department, ninety of them today, Dr. C. Hampson Jones, health commissioner, today said he anticipated an outbreak of influenza that will "involve the entire city." No steps have been taken to call off public gatherings.

At Annapolis, where 200 midshipmen of the Naval academy were confined to beds by the outbreak, authorities said today all but eighty had been released from the hospital and sick bay.

Not Epidemic, Expert Says.

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The prevalence of influenza in no way approaches that of the real epidemic years, said Dr. Charles F. Bolduan, director of the bureau of health education of the city department of health, today. A total of 226 new cases were reported over the week-end, with 27 deaths.

Three British Air Officers Die in Crash; Eight Hurt

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Three pilots of the royal air force were killed and eight other persons were injured today when a bombing plane crashed into an office building at the Worthy Down airdrome at Winchester.

MISSING TEACHER'S BODY IS RECOVERED FROM ICE OF CANAL

Fort Morgan, Colo., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Encased in a four foot sheet of ice, the body of Miss Enid Marriott, 28 year old Wiggins, Colo., school teacher, missing for more than two months, was found today in a lateral of an irrigation canal near Fort Morgan.

Discovery of the body followed by two days the arrest of Harry E. Moore, a road worker, charged earlier today with abduction. Officers said a murder charge would be filed after discovery of the body.

The finding of a bloodstained shirt, the same size garment Moore wears, and a man's handkerchief with the initial "M" in the irrigation canal, and the fact the shirt answers the description of one found in Moore's automobile Nov. 16, when his car was searched for liquor, were regarded by Sheriff Rufus A. Johnston as circumstantial evidence against the prisoner.

Walter Byron of Denver, head of an investigating agency, discovered the teacher's body in the ice. It was removed to a Fort Morgan mortuary. Numerous articles belonging to Miss Marrott, including some of the contents of her traveling bag, previously have been recovered from the canal.

BOSTON-CAPITAL TRAIN IN WRECK; 80 ARE INJURED

Boston, Mass., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The Colonial Express from Boston to Washington and a local train from Blackstone to Boston crashed in the Readville yards of the New Haven railroad today in a blinding snowstorm, injuring eighty persons.

The engine of the Colonial left the rails, overturned, and took fire, with the engineer pinned in the wreckage. He was extricated by the use of acetylene torches.

Two of the four wooden coaches and the tender of the local were thrown from the rails, the tender and one of the coaches being overturned.

The accident occurred when the express, which left Boston at 9:30 a. m., was preparing to cross onto the south bound main line.

The giant locomotive of the Colonial sliced into the tender of the local as the trains met, hurling it and the two cars behind it off the rails.

None of the cars on the express left the rails, but the sudden halt hurled passengers from their seats. Most of the injured were commuters on the Boston bound locals.

Ex-Professor of History at Yale Killed by Auto

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Dr. Allen Johnson, 61, author, editor and former professor of history at Yale, died here last night soon after being struck by an automobile. The death of Dr. Johnson, interrupted his work on the Dictionary of American Biography, of which he had completed six of 20 volumes designed to incorporate the biographies of 13,000 famous Americans.

SAYS KENTUCKY HAS FAMINE, NOT MERELY DROUGHT

Sorry to Admit It, but Help Is Needed.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—While the blue grass region, center of Kentucky wealth and tradition, is selling its tobacco crop at a fair price and is able to take care of its own distressed people, the reports that come in from the surrounding counties are that "This is a famine, not a drought."

"As a Kentuckian, I am sorry to say that we do need outside help," said Miss Sarah Hayes, chief of the national Red Cross workers in eastern Kentucky. "In the mountain districts, from the mining country down the Big Sandy to the southeast, the conditions are pitiful, although these people are used to a meager living. Thirty chapters have had to have national grants in the last two weeks. Perhaps we should have gone in a little earlier, but we have done everything we could to stimulate the local chapters first. Their limit has now been reached.

"In Perry county the people who have anything are denying themselves a meal a day to raise an emergency fund so they will have something to give without waiting for an investigation.

Help or Starvation.

"In Wolf county 900 have applied for help in the counties reached by the frontier nursing service. Mary Breckenridge says that unless help is sent to the mountains her people will starve.

"In Bath county there are eighteen houses at an abandoned mine. They have no floors or windows, yet thirty-seven families are living in them. They are people who have come back from a fruitless search for work. They have not had jobs in two years.

"The wealthy people are taking care of their tenants and many farmers have shared the last they had.

"We are trying to feed the average family of five on rations for two weeks that cost $5. This may seem small, but it includes canned tomatoes, cabbage, hominy, beans, potatoes, meal, lard, salt, sirup, dried fruit, and rolled oats. We also give food for one cow.

Partly Due to Pride.

"The pride of these people has kept their suffering from being widely known. When we offered to give them rye in the spring they would not take it, but insisted on paying $1 for a sack. Now they are being driven in. As soon as it is known in a valley that food orders are being given the people flock in for miles. I saw a woman who had walked 20 miles with a baby in her arms. Her man, she said, was sick of pneumonia and they had nothing to eat. There are 200,000 of these mountaineers and most of them need help.

"The moonshine industry has been ruined also, as the water supply is gone and the corn crop was burned up.

"A visitor to the valley reported that the fathers of fourteen families had been sent to the penitentiary for making whisky before the drought and now their families must be supported.

"It is estimated that it will take five years to replenish the live stock that has been sold because the bins and lofts on so many farms are empty of food."

"Things are very bad," said T. R. Bryant, head of the agricultural extension bureau of the University of Kentucky.

"The only thing that saved the blue grass was the spring lamb crop and the tobacco which resisted the drought. The crop was reduced and prices have been reduced at the same time. In a normal year the total gross value of crops and live stock is $280 per person only. Perhaps half of this could be sold, giving a cash income of $140 per person. The production is $95,000,000 off this year. That might be called reducing an irreducible minimum. It is famine in many places. Our extension worker in Fulton county said many of the people did not have clothes enough to wear and we are sending clothes from here today."

The depression is augmented in the coal mining region, both in eastern and western Kentucky, as most of the mines are shut down.

SENATE WANTS TO KNOW WHAT KEEPS PRICE OF BREAD UP

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The senate's investigation of food prices opened today with the presentation by Senator Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] of what he called "prima facie" evidence that the retail price of bread has failed to reflect the decline in the prices of wheat and flour.

Wagner said "maybe there is a reason for this failure of the price of bread to reflect the decline in the price of wheat and flour."

"If there is, we ought to know it," he continued. "If it is the result of a conspiracy in restraint of trade appropriate action should be taken."

In support of his "prima facie case," Senator Wagner presented statistics showing the comparative prices of a pound of bread in a large number of cities in 1929 and 1930.

They showed the average price of bread had increased in three cities, Springfield, Ill.; Jacksonville, Fla., and Los Angeles, and had remained the same in Baltimore, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, Mobile, Peoria, Ill.; St. Paul, and Washington.

WOMAN KNOWS WHERE KING BEN HID HIS $700,000

St. Joseph, Mich., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Speculation as to the riches of the late "King" Benjamin Purnell, hidden during his reign over the House of David, religious colony, was renewed here today with the announcement by George Bookwalter, an attorney, that his client knew the hiding place of some of the money.

Bookwalter's client is Mrs. Ada Ross Schneider, who for 25 years was secretary and auditor of the House of David. He said that Mrs. Schneider knew where between $600,000 and $700,000 in $1,000 bills was hidden.

This statement came today as an aftermath of the suit of H. T. Dewhirst, successor to Benjamin as head of the colony, charging Mrs. Schneider with making false statements as to the cult's records. Mrs. Schneider is preparing to file suit to recover for her services with the cult.

Judge Dewhirst sued Mrs. Schneider for an accounting when he learned she was planning to leave the cult and start action to recover for her services.

BROTHERS FACES COURT TOMORROW AS LINGLE KILLER

Leo V. Brothers, indicted for the murder of Alfred Lingle, will be arraigned tomorrow morning before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court. This time was fixed yesterday by the chief justice after a meeting with State's Attorney Swanson. Brothers, according to his attorneys, will plead not guilty to the charge and will try to exonerate himself with an alibi. Judge McGoorty said that he is prepared to assign the Brothers case to some trial judge immediately after the arraignment.

Wanamaker's Penn. Estate Appraised at $71,807,000

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—A gross Pennsylvania estate of $71,807,000 was left by Rodman Wanamaker, New York and Philadelphia merchant, who died March 9, 1928.

SUSAN SAYRE ESTATE IS SET AT $250,000

Letters of administration were issued yesterday by Probate Judge Henry Horner to Josiah Sayre, 135 East 51st street, son of Mrs. Susan Sayre, who died on Jan. 15 without leaving a will. Her estate is estimated to be worth $250,000. Mrs. Sayre's husband, Rockwell Sayre, eccentric real estate operator, was shot and killed last September by another son, Sidney Sayre, wartime aviator.

In addition to Josiah and Sidney, who has been declared insane, there is another son, Paul Sayre, professor of law at the University of Iowa. They are the only heirs to the estate which consists of $200,000 in real estate and $50,000 in personal property. The father left a 36 page will but it was later discovered he was insolvent.

COURT FORBIDS DAISY TO TELL CLARA'S LOVES

She Blames Her Woes on Cowboy Bell.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A judicial damper was placed on the "tell all" contest between Clara Bow, filmdom's "it" girl, and her ex-secretary, Daisy De Boe, today.

Superior Judge William Doran, presiding in the trial of Miss De Boe on charges of appropriating $16,000 from Clara's bank account, ruled out "mud slinging" just before the defendant took the witness stand with the asserted intention of revealing more about the actress' "boy friends" and alleged drinking and gambling.

"The purpose of the trial is to ascertain the truth as speedily and expeditiously as possible," he said. "The defendant in this case is charged with grand theft and has pleaded not guilty. The issue here is clear cut.

A Question of Theft.

"The question is: 'Did she steal the money?' I have in mind that this issue should not be met by generalities and indirections, but by specific proofs."

"Reading the accounts of this trial in the newspapers," he added, "the public might well be in doubt as to who is on trial."

As a result, today's court session was a tepid affair.

Clara was absent from court, being ill.

Rex Bell, former cowboy actor and Clara's "boy friend," who Daisy said replaced her as secretary to the red headed actress, was in court, however.

Daisy, in her testimony, said the jewels found in her safety deposit box were there because Rex Bell wouldn't let her see Miss Bow and given them to her.

Explains Mother's Watch.

A watch said to have been given by Daisy to her mother, and one of the items of the indictment, was purchased at Clara's suggestion, Daisy said. Under questioning Miss De Boe said Clara told her to buy the watch after she, Daisy, told her she could not afford a birthday present for her mother.

Concerning a check for $526.75, which the defendant is charged with having drawn on Miss Bow in favor of a motor company in payment of the balance due on her own car, Miss De Boe said the sum was taken at Clara's suggestion "to avoid payment of interest on the balance."

"Miss Bow wanted me to get a more expensive car than I did, and it was her idea that I get the new one in the first place," she testified.

A fur coat costing $825 and dresses costing $1,262.50 were brought into testimony by Freedman's interrogation.

Miss De Boe admitted she had bought the fur coat and written a check for it, but at Clara's request, she said.

"I took it to Clara's house, but Mr. Rex Bell wouldn't let me in," she told the court.

About Those Dresses.

The dresses, she said, were ordered by her to be held for Miss Bow's approval, and she gave a check covering the cost before the garments were delivered—because, she interpolated, "the store didn't like to send things out on approval unless paid for in advance, because Miss Bow quite often ruined the clothes."

The judge ordered the latter statement stricken from the record.

Further testimony dwelt upon events surrounding her departure from the Bow household and upon her visit to W. I. Gilbert, Clara's lawyer, shortly after her dismissal from Clara's employ.

Gilbert, she stated, asked her "if money would keep my mouth shut and mend my feelings."

"I told him that $125,000 or even $150,000 wouldn't mend my hurt feelings Clara had caused."

NOTES OF THE CANNERS

Francis A. Harding of Watertown, Mass., who was yesterday elected president of the National Canners' association, is an executive of the William Underwood company, a large concern and one of the oldest in the business. One hundred and ten years ago, in 1821, William Underwood, then a resident of Boston, began putting up fruits, pickles and condiments in glass, principally for the export trade. Today's firm is an outgrowth of that activity.

Newcomers to the convention gatherings noted the name of Leonard E. Wood of San Francisco as second vice president of the organization, and were inquiring around as to whether this was the son of the late Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood. They looked disappointed on being reminded that Gen. Wood's son is Col. Osborne C. Wood, lately appointed adjutant general of the New Mexico militia.

Frank E. Gorrell of Washington, D. C., was reelected secretary-treasurer yesterday for the twenty-fourth consecutive year, having occupied the post ever since the inception of the association back in 1907.

Easily one of the most popular spots in the convention was the booth in the exhibition hall in the basement where one company had a water cooler filled with tomato juice, which was dispensed to all comers. Nearby was another where chilled grape juice was on tap.

Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley of Washington, D. C., who will speak on the Wednesday afternoon program, is the widow of the sponsor of the federal pure food law.

Philip Larmon of Libby, McNeill & Libby, and Charles P. Taylor of the California Packing corporation are the local representatives on the board of directors.

Miss Ruth Atwater, director of the home economics division of the association, and one of the comparatively few women attending the sessions, journeyed approximately 25,000 miles last year, interpreting to home economics experts and to schools and clubs the scientific research work done under the auspices of the canners.

Today will mark the opening meeting of the American fruit and vegetable growers' conferences at the Palmer house. Preliminary closed meetings were held yesterday. About 500 are registered.

During the Napoleonic wars, 120 year ago, the first canning processes were worked out in France for the benefit of French sailors in their long seafarings. Ezra Daggett and Thomas Kensett, who canned salmon, lobster, and oysters in New York in 1819, first introduced the method into this country.

C. E. Hume of San Francisco, retiring president of the canners, is convinced that one of the greatest problems confronting the industry today is the invention of a properly efficient can opener as first aid to the country's housewives.

Officers of the Illinois Wholesale Grocers' association were unanimously reelected yesterday at a meeting at the Congress hotel. They include Harry C. Gorin of Litchfield, president; J. H. Bohn of Centralia, vice president; C. P. Russell of Rockford, second vice president, and W. L. Caulkins of Freeport, treasurer.

BUSINESS GOING BACK TO NORMAL, FARRELL ASSERTS

bought more goods at department stores in 1930 than in 1929. There was more money in the savings banks at the close of 1930 than at the end of 1929.

"The electricity output—a very accurate index of improvement in living conditions—is within 1 per cent of 1929. We took out for our own protection only 2½ per cent less life insurance than we did the year before.

Wealth Over 300 Billion.

"In spite of the deflation in stock values, the country's total wealth is still over 300 billion dollars, or just double what it was before the war. This is two or three times the increase in wealth made by any other important country."

It is time, Mr. Farrell declared, for "greater enterprise in trade—for loosening up business. We are quite capable of doing much more than was done in 1930. It must be remembered that the forces which created our immense growth are still operating, and on permanent and basic elements of growth.

"We are capable of helping effectively to stimulate and accelerate the upturn, which I believe has already begun," he said. "In my opinion the peak of the depression passed 30 days ago."

Turning to the tariff and international relations, Mr. Farrell said some of the suggestions advanced on these matters were equally as futile as the proposal to lower wages.

"There is much careless talk about high tariff walls," Mr. Farrell said. "It has been ringing around the world, especially for the last few years, and most of it is aimed at the United States. It comes to our country in large volume from certain countries in which, as in ours, agriculture produces a surplus above their own needs.

"Why is it," he asked, "that such countries persist in their demand that we, who have a surplus of our own production, should add to that surplus by purchasing heavily of the same products from them? Their true problem is to sell their production in markets where it is needed for consumption, not in markets where such purchases only add to an already serious export problem."

Cites Economic Fallacy.

The agricultural situation Mr. Farrell described as a most serious one. But, he said, no lasting gain will be made for agriculture by resort to "quack nostrums and unsound economics."

"The most plausible economic fallacy ever presented to the human race is the old and often exploded one that value can be created by legislation. Through the long years of history every time it had been tried it has resulted in disaster, no matter who tried it, or when or where.

"We couldn't do it with greenbacks; Germany couldn't do it with marks. It cannot be done by the farmer."

"I am confident of our steady progress towards better times," Mr. Farrell avowed, "because of the fundamental soundness of our institutions, of the basic resources of our country, of its wealth and standing as a creditor rather than a debtor nation. The relief given to the unemployed and the general adherence to the payment of fair wages have undoubtedly hastened the recovery which is impending.

"Those leaders of our industry who have insisted on carrying out their budgets of last year and have given employment, even on a part time basis, to their customary number of workers without wage reductions, are to be commended on the results already discernible in the approach to stable conditions.

"The problem involves concentrated activity, intensive solicitation of business by aggressive salesmanship and stimulation of consumptive demand. Buyers and manufacturers must be persuaded that their interest lies not in frugal inventories and hand to mouth purchases. They must realize it is rather in a generous recognition of the fact that normal business cannot be restored until there is a widespread utilization of normal purchasing power to the limit of consumptive capacity, and consistent with credit obligations."

At the outset of his talk, Mr. Farrell paid tribute to the canners' association "for the patient research made in respect to the scientific production of canned foods."

Six per cent of the country's total steel production, representing 1,800,000 tons of steel plate, was consumed by the canning industry during 1930, Mr. Farrell pointed out.

SURVEY SHOWS ILLINOIS' GAIN IN EMPLOYMENT

The first break in the downward trend of employment in Illinois since September, 1929, was reported yesterday. During the period of Nov. 15 to Dec. 15, employment increased .6 per cent, both in manufacturing and nonmanufacturing industries, according to the report of Director Barney Cohen of the Illinois department of labor on a recent survery.

Pay rolls during the same period were cut .1 per cent in manufacturing industries and 2.3 per cent in nonmanufacturing establishments.

20 ALDERMEN UP FOR RE-ELECTION CHIDED BY M.V.L.

Calls Them "Yes Men" for Thompson.

The Municipal Voters' league yesterday made public its report on the record of members of the city council, placing its stamp of approval on aldermen who displayed independence and censuring those who supported political policies of the Thompson administration.

Of the forty aldermen who are candidates for reelection the league's report subjects twenty to criticism, chiefly because they voted to sustain Thompson's efforts to overload the 1930 budget. The league used such caustic terms as "willing yes man for the administration," "slavish follower of Thompsonism," "blind follower of the administration," "subservient to Thompson" in expressing its opinions of the aldermen.

Ald. Coughlin Is Assailed.

Ald. John J. Coughlin, dean of the council after thirty-eight years of service, was censored for voting for Thompson's budget and the league said the veteran First warder "is of little value in promoting the city's interest." Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], whom the league had previously classified as one of four members of the council who stood above mediocrity, was listed among those inclined to "go along" with the administration. Ald. William V. Pacelli [20th] was another drawing the disapproval of the league, which said he lacked capacity and independence and "should be retired from the council."

Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [5th] and Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] were listed among the aldermen who showed independence and opposed the administration's effort to overload the budget.

O'Toole Draws Criticism.

The league said Ald. William R. O'Toole [16th], while voting against the 1930 budget, was chairman of the zoning company which allowed the Jones tower amendment to slip through and censored him for that.

Other members of the council whom the league recognized as independent were Charles S. Eaton [5th], Guy Guernsey [6th], Clement A. Nance [7th], T. F. Moran [16th], Walter W. Harris [18th], O. E. Northrup [19th], John Toman [23d], Frank H. Landmeier [28th], Joseph C. Ross [40th], Albert E. Loescher [44th], John A. Hansen [48th], and George A. Williams [49th].

It was announced yesterday that Capt. Benjamin B. Lipsner, recently appointed member of the Chicago zone commission, had withdrawn as a candidate for alderman in the 48th ward.

Capone Contempt Charge May Be Heard Next Week

Alphonse Capone's contempt of court case, which was originally scheduled for trial yesterday before Federal Judge Wilkerson, probably will not be heard before the latter part of next week. Judge Wilkerson was ill yesterday and before the Capone case is called, he must hear a lengthy civil suit. Capone is charged with feigning illness in Florida to dodge appearance before a federal grand jury investigating booze conditions in Chicago nightspots.

SHOT BY ROBBER

WILLIAM J. VAN SCHAIK.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Edward Nolan, 24 years old, 6043 South Elizabeth street, was shot and captured by police yesterday soon after he had staged two holdups on the south side, in one of which he seriously wounded his victim. The latter was William Van Schaik, 25 years old, 38 East 110th place. Nolan climbed into Van Schaik's car in front of 6234 South Green street and shot Van Schaik when he resisted. Policemen Michael Sullivan and Walter Lyon, notified by radio, captured Nolan after he had attempted to fire at them, but failed because of a defective cartridge. Lyon wounded the robber in the neck.

MAYORALTY HERD HAS A CHANCE TO THIN OUT TODAY

Two G. O. P. Candidates May Hop the Corral.

BY PARKE BROWN.

This is the last day for withdrawals from the mayoralty primary race and it is believed that some of the eight Republican petitions still on file at the city hall will be pulled down before nightfall.

For several days there have been rumors that Thomas J. Houston, head of the Medinah Athletic club, and Newton Jenkins, one of the insurgent type of Republicans who is backed by some service men, will aid in narrowing down the field against Thompson by throwing their support to some candidate stronger than themselves.

Houston's petition was filed by a group of his friends during his absence from the city and he has never declared his candidacy. Jenkins has said repeatedly that he would not consider himself a candidate until he had held a final conference with those who have backed him.

Schmidt Says He'll Stick.

Since the announcement of his platform on Saturday, George K. Schmidt, former city controller, has been silent concerning his candidacy, but he has told friends he intends to remain in race.

The politicians consider these three candidates as the "second class" of the field—those in "first class" being Thompson, Judge Lyle, and Ald. Arthur F. Albert. In addition to these two groups there are two other candidates referred to as "self-starters." They are John P. Walsh, 28 years old, 2341 North Racine avenue, and Eugene McCaffrey, a former police sergeant, who has put himself forward for several offices in recent years.

The petitions of these two—and possibly some of the others—it is said, are to be subjected to close scrutiny today by lawyers to see if they comply with the law.

All the major Republican groups were more or less marking time waiting for the arrival of the last withdrawal day so they might see the battle lines in their final formation. The one important withdrawal last week, that of Charles V. Barrett, still has them on their toes for Barrett and his group have not indicated to which candidate they now will turn.

Crowd at Lyle Meeting.

Judge Lyle was greeted by an overflow crowd at a meeting in his home ward, the 17th, last night. The throng filled the Lyle ward headquarters at 336 West 63d street and surged out over the pavement, delaying street traffic. In the emergency a loud speaker was rigged on the sidewalk through which the addresses were relayed to the overflow audience. Alderman James G. Coyle was one of the speakers.

Lyle headquarters announced that headquarters for the Forty-ninth ward, where a Lyle organization recently was formed with Harry F. Hamlin as president, had been opened at 6210 Broadway with Thomas Lindskog in charge.

The one announcement from Mayor Thompson during the day was that he had appointed Charles S. Peterson as city controller. To permit the appointment, Peterson resigned as city treasurer and Thompson appointed as treasurer August Singer, a henchman of Harry Klatzco, committeeman of the Forty-sixth ward, who has held the post of deputy treasurer.

The interest of politicians also was aroused by an announcement that William D. Saltiel, city attorney by Thompson's appointment of four years ago, had resigned to become special attorney for the school board.

MICHIGAN'S CAPITOL IS SWEPT BY FIRE; DAMAGE IS $10,000

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Fire caused by spontaneous combustion swept one corridor on the basement floor of the capitol here early today, causing $10,000 property damage and destroying relics of the civil war which cannot be replaced.

The entire interior of the building undoubtedly would have been swept by the flames but for firemen who checked the blaze within a few minutes after it had been discovered by a watchman. Sections of the glass floor under the rotunda were broken, a cigar stand and telephone booth were consumed, old pictures, guns, and other war relics in a museum were damaged, the main elevator was crippled and decorations were smudged, but they can be replaced.

FRANKIE LAKE PLEADS GUILTY TO TAX FRAUD

Beer Baron Liable to 27 Years in U. S. Cell.

Frankie Lake, who rose from a beer hustler in the old Valley gang to the eminence of a public enemy, pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Evan A. Evans to seven counts of income tax evasion.

Lake followed in the footsteps of his former partner in the beer industry, Terry Druggan, by reserving the right to withdraw his plea of guilty to felony counts in the event that the federal District court is reversed in the cases of Ralph Capone and State Legislator Lawrence C. O'Brien, in which the same propositions of law are involved.

Judge Evans deferred sentence to March 2, pending the outcome of the other appeals. Lake faces a possible maximum sentence of 27 years in the federal penitentiary and a fine of $50,000. He owes the government more than $200,000 in taxes and penalties for the years 1923, 1924 and 1925, according to the indictments.

Maximum Is 27 Years.

When Lake left the courtroom, accompanied by his attorney, Peter Sissman, he was arrested by detectives on a vagrancy warrant issued by Municipal Judge John H. Lyle. After being put through the bureau of identification and questioned by Chief of Detectives John Norton, he was released on bond of $10,000 pending his arraignment in the Felony court today.

Lake ridiculed the vagrancy charge, saying he was in the ice business with his brother in Detroit.

Third to Plead Guilty.

The former beer baron was the third gangster to plead guilty to income tax evasion charges, the others being Druggan and Frank Nitti, Capone hoodlum. Nitti is now in Leavenworth penitentiary. The plea marked the seventh successful termination of an income tax case in United States Attorney Johnson's war on gangsters and crooked politicians and maintained his batting average at 1.000.

Whether William E. Nichols, alleged tax fixer and former friend of County Assessor Gene Oliver; Sam Guzik, Capone gangster; or the Dowdle brothers, sanitary district contractors, will be tried next on income tax charges has not been determined, Mr Johnson said. Sam Guzik, it is reported, will plead guilty as a result of the conviction and sentence of his brother Jack.

STATE SENATOR MAKES ATTACK ON DRY LEAGUE

Body Working to Defeat Repealing Act.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The activities of the Anti-Saloon league were assailed tonight by Senator Earl B. Searcy as manifesting a "distorted psychology" and "a despairing effort to establish an invisible government" by a minority of professional drys.

The league is now concentrating on the state senate in an effort to defeat the O'Grady repealer of the state search and seizure act when it comes over from the house, where it is expected to pass with perhaps fifteen votes to spare.

In the senate, the liberals say, 26 votes—a majority—are lined up, with two others in sight, and the great battle over repeal will be staged in the upper house. Some of the downstate lawmakers report that they are being bombarded by letter writers instigated by the league urging them to ignore the November wet and dry referendum and to vote to kill the repealer.

May Seek Referendum.

When the O'Grady bill comes up on second reading in the house an effort is expected from the drys to tack on a referendum provision. Liberals point out that this is more than a superfluity, in view of the three referenda already held in Illinois, capped by the Democratic landslide last November, which rolled up a plurality of 744,747 for James Hamilton Lewis for senator on a wet platform.

Senator Searcy, who comes from Sangamon county, which Abraham Lincoln represented in the state legislature nearly a hundred years ago, is a Republican who has been independent in his voting, but more inclined in years past to dryness than wetness on liquor measures. Tonight he tore into the league's methods as subversive of the fundamentals of popular government.

"The Anti-Saloon league," said Senator Searcy, "is staging an orgy of letter writing. It is instigating a saturnalia of organized propaganda. I have been inundated with letters urging me to vote against repeal.

Expression "Conclusive."

"I cannot figure out the psychology of the league, which insists the referendum meant nothing. The expression was most conclusive. This district voted wet by almost 6,000. In addition, Sangamon county, which in 1925 went to Hoover by 10,900 plurality, last November turned these figures upside down and went to J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, on a wet platform by 10,300. Morgan county, which Hoover won by 4,300, went to Lewis by 1,560.

"Yet the Anti-Saloon league urges representatives of the people to ignore the expressed will of the people. It dares to clamor for subversion of popular government within the shadow of the tomb of Lincoln, who spoke of 'government of the people, by the people, for the people.' What is this but introverted bolshevism?"

MINNESOTA GAG LAW DEFENDED IN U. S. COURT BRIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Attorneys for the state of Minnesota and for Hennepin county, Minnesota today filed their brief in answer to the appeal before the United States Supreme court of J. M. Near, formerly editor of the Saturday Press of Minneapolis.

Near was a victim of Minnesota's new notorious "gag law" which provides that a publication may be suppressed by injunction without trial and without a jury hearing.

Attorneys retained on Near's behalf by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE took the case on appeal from the Minnesota Supreme court, where the injunction law was upheld, to the United States Supreme court and in a brief filed last December argued that the Minnesota law violated constitutional provisions guaranteeing freedom of speech and of the press.

In the brief filed by Attorney General Henry N. Benson of Minnesota and others today the argument is put forward that the law does not violate the fourteenth amendment.

NIAGARA SLIDE AERIAL SURVEY WILL BE MADE

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Niagara state reservation commission today ordered an aerial survey of the American falls to determine the extent of the rock slide Saturday night and Sunday, which changed the contour of the crest of the great cataract into a miniature of the Canadian, or Horseshoe, falls.

Two witnesses of the first tremendous plunges of rock and ice that rent the falls' brink were found today

Percy Frazer, superintendent of the docks of the Maid of the Mist Steamship company, who viewed the slides from the Canadian side, said there was a terrific rumble, and as he looked from a window of his home that nestles among the rocky crevices of the gorge a few hundred feet below the Horseshoe falls he saw the rock and ice give way. Tons of falling debris were thrown clear of the waterfall and plunged into the river.

The detonation was terrific, Frazier said. It shook the foundations of his home, the roar reverberating through the gorge and reechoing for several seconds.

LEVINE'S PLANES SOLD AT AUCTION TO SETTLE DEBT

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The aeronautical holdings of Charles A. Levine, missing aviation enthusiast and first trans-Atlantic air passenger, were sold today to the highest bidder to satisfy a rent claim.

The highest bidder was Paul Gillespie, an employe of Roosevelt field, who obtained three airplanes and equipment said to have cost approximately $350,000 on his bid of $3,000.

Among those not in attendance was Levine himself, who has been sought by the police for two weeks to explain his possession of securities allegedly stolen.

Levine, who made a fortune in the salvage of war materials, leaped to world-wide prominence in 1927 when he flew from Roosevelt field to Germany in a plane piloted by Clarence Chamberlin. On a recent visit to Europe he was arrested in Vienna on a charge of attempted counterfeiting but was absolved and returned to this country.

Acidity
Puts More Men "On the Spot" than All the Gangsters in the World!

More insidious than skulking assassins, Acidity lays more men low than all the guns of gangdom! Many a rundown condition, many a case of "nerves," sleeplessness and melancholy is really Acidity.

When the stomach secretes too much acid it causes acid-indigestion, with gas, sourness, and burning. It also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines, creating poisons which pull us down physically and mentally. A marvelous German development, called Magnesia Oxoids, corrects Acidity in the right way. Upon contact with the gastric juice, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent or active oxygen. The oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus which keeps the acid in check; corrects intestinal fermentation and stimulates peristalsis or the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary, and only Magnesia Oxoids supply them because it is the only magnesia product known to science which, when taken internally, releases oxygen to the system.

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores, or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly in full.

GIRL KILLS MAN BEING TRIED FOR SLAYING FATHER

Shoots Him in Court as Jury Retires.

De Witt, Ark., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A 17 year old girl in a crowded courtroom tonight shot to death a man on trial for the slaying of her father. The jury was ready to retire with the case.

The girl, Helen Spence Eaton, had sat in a front seat in the courtroom throughout the day listening to the trial of Jack Woris, 30, charged with killing her father, Cicero Spence, and throwing his body into the White river. When the jury was ready to take the case the girl rose from her seat, drew a pistol she had concealed in her clothing and fired four shots into Woris' body. He died 15 minutes later.

Remains Calm After Shooting.

Sheriff's deputies who were in the courtroom arrested her. She refused to discuss the shooting later, but remained calm.

Mrs. Spence, who was with her husband in a boat when he was slain and who told officers she was severely beaten by Woris and two other men, died two weeks ago in a Memphis hospital.

Spence was killed with his own gun. Woris claimed self-defense. He said Spence threatened him and the two other men. Mrs. Spence, however, was quoted by authorities as saying her husband was shot unexpectedly by Woris, and was thrown into the river an hour later while still alive. Spence at the time he was slain was facing a nine year prison sentence for killing a man.

Courtroom in Uproar.

The shooting tonight threw the courtrom into an uproar, women and children, many of whom were in the crowd screaming and fighting to get out.

Officers said the only statement the girl would make after the shooting was that "He killed my daddy." She showed no remorse.

They said the girl has been separated from her husband for some time and has been using her maiden name, although not divorced.

GLENN BILL ASKS STRIP OF LAKE FOR LINCOLN PARK

Plan to Fill Space for Plane Field.

A bill providing for the granting to the Lincoln park board of complete jurisdiction over a portion of Lake Michigan, extending 350 feet from the shore between Ohio street and Oak street extended, was introduced in the United States Senate yesterday by Senator Otis F. Glenn, [Rep., Ill.]

Under this plan, the Lincoln park commissioners would be entitled to build a breakwater from Ohio street to Oak street and to finish the incomplete breakwater which will conpect with the shore line at Oak street. It is planned to fill in the part of the lake over which the park board seeks jurisdiction. The made land would be used for an airplane landing field, Warren Wright, president of the Lincoln park board, said yesterday.

"There will also be an inclosed harbor for hydroplanes, yachts and motorboats," Mr. Wright said. "The Lincoln park commissioners have decided that, if those interested desire to present a bill at Springfield, requesting the legislature to authorize money for this improvement, the commissioners will be glad to maintain the airport and harbor, making only the proper charges for boats and airplanes." [This harbor would be beyond the strip of made land].

Col. William H. Bedeman, attorney for the Lincoln park board, who prepared the bill, said that, while the actual work on this project probably would not be started for some time, the necessity for proper breakwater protection for lake shore improvements now under way makes the passage of the bill a matter of immediate importance.

NOONAN RESIGNS AS ENGINEER ON SUBWAY BOARD

The resignation of Edward J. Noonan as a member of the board of advisory subway engineers was announced yesterday by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the council committee on local transportation. At the same time he announced that Edward C. Higgins and John G. Drennan, assistant corporation counsels, have been relieved of their duties as legal advisors to the committee at the rate of $100 a day. Noonan was paid $18,000 a year.

Ald. Bowler said he believes it a poor policy for a city employé to draw two salaries and as Noonan was already employed as engineer for the railways terminal committee the resignation was accepted. The two lawyers were sent back to Corporation Counsel Ettelson's pay roll, he said, on the theory that council committees should get legal advice from that office without any extra charge.

"It has been the practice of assistant corporation counsels when assigned to council committees to relinquish their salaries in the law department and charge the taxpayers $100 a day as attorneys for the committee," said Ald. Bowler. "It is the duty of the law department to advise council committees or members without extra compensation."

Konjola Ended His Nervousness

Chicago Man, Who Suffered For Ten Years, Surprised at Results from New Medicine.

Strange but true, Konjola, the new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, seems at the very peak of its powers when pitted against the stubborn ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and against rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness that have held on for years.

MR. ALONZO MEADER.

But this is not so strange after all, for Konjola's 32 ingredients—22 of them the juices of roots and herbs — attack at their very source the ills that Konjola is designed to relieve. Take, for instance, the case of Mr. Alonzo Meader, 1810 Monroe St., Chicago. Read his grateful words; ask your druggist—any druggist—about Konjola, and then decide what you will do about this modern medicine. Surely there could be no wiser plan than to profit by the experiences of those who have put Konjola to the test.

Mr. Meader says:

"For ten years I was troubled with nervousness. I did not care to eat, and was run down and weak. The least thing disturbed me. I was in such a condition that it was a job to open the garage doors. A friend told me how Konjola had helped him and I gave it a trial. Imagine my surprise when the second bottle gave me great relief. I am stronger now in every way; have a good appetite and my nervousness has disappeared. I am glad to endorse Konjola after what it did for me."

Konjola does work swiftly, yet it is best to take from six to eight bottles. Konjola is for the aged or the infant; for all the family.

free wheeling

—not the feature of a season but the future of an industry

INFORMED automotive engineers knew the whole future of the motor car was affected when Studebaker successfully introduced Free Wheeling with positive gear control on July 10, 1930.

These men spend their lifetimes designing the automobiles of America and Europe. They recognized at once that Free Wheeling, as presented by Studebaker, solved a problem as old as motoring — the problem of controlling momentum and putting it to work.

They knew that Free Wheeling, as Studebaker offered it, went straight to the root of applied dynamics—giving the car that offered it a superiority which no car without it could contest.

That is why you are hearing so much more about Free Wheeling today than you did when Studebaker first introduced it. If all cars had it now, the American motoring public would save hundreds of millions of dollars in gasoline and oil expense every year.

The results of Free Wheeling have become at once the goal and despair of the major part of the motor car industry.

They are results that have brought Studebaker thoroughness and Studebaker initiative into the limelight more conspicuously than ever.

Today every Studebaker gives you this new engineering essential that all cars will be aspiring to give you tomorrow—a pleasurable new sensation of freedom of movement—10,000 miles of travel for 8,000 miles of engine effort—greatly reduced operation and maintenance cost—new safety—new ease of driving.

It means much that these cars come to you with the greatest engineering advancement since the electric starter. But it means even more that they bear the name of Studebaker, distinguished in transportation for more than half the lifetime of the American nation.

Studebaker cars are priced f. o. b. factory from $795 to $2600

That will keep your mouth and throat clean and protected.

The "Ounce of Prevention"

Extol kills germs faster than any ordinary preparation yet known. And it reaches parts that other antiseptics miss. It penetrates the mucous membrane and reaches the germs that lie hidden underneath the outer layer of mucosa. Hence its action is complete and thorough. Extol is the best "ounce of prevention" you can use; but if you have already caught a cold or sore throat, it will relieve it in fast time. Extol is utterly harmless and most delightful to use. Also, it's economical. Costs less than other preparations and, as you can dilute it more liberally, goes further. All McKesson Service Druggists and other independent drug stores sell Extol. URGE REDUCTION OF GOVERNMENT BODIES IN COUNTY

Speakers Ask Legislative Aid to Cut Expense.

Legislative action to coördinate and simplify the overlapping activities of the 411 governmental agencies in Cook county in the interest of the taxpayers was demanded at two meetings last night by county officials and representatives of Chicago civic and business organizations.

Speaking at the Union League club before the Monday council of the Sunday evening club, President Anton J. Cermak of the county board urged the calling of a constitutional convention to straighten out the tangle if a full remedy is not provided at the next session of the legislature. He advocated the creation of a new citizens' commission to promote the reform.

Urge Government Reform.

Similar proposals were discussed at a session of 300 delegates of Cook county organizations held at the Great Northern hotel under the auspices of the Chicago Civic conference.

J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency advisor, speaking at the latter meeting, warned that another breakdown of local government finances is impending and asserted that an aroused citizenship must take a hand in bringing the tax spending bodies under one head in order to save themselves from ruin.

"You are going to have militia rule in this county if sanity, equality, and justice are not restored to the local governments," Hayden N. Bell, attorney for the county board told the gathering.

Sees $50,000,000 Annual Saving.

Mr. Cermark estimated that between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000 a year could be saved through coördination of the governmental bodies of the county. He, too, warned that further financial difficulties are ahead.

"There are definite signs of another serious break down of public credit," he said. "These recurrant breakdowns must be avoided, and the existing inequitable and burdensome taxes must be reduced while essential public services vital to public health, safety, and education must be extended.

"This can be accomplished only through rigorous economy and real retrenchment in public administration and through immediate constructive action in connection with governmental simplication and economy and efficincy in public administration."

Within the Chicago city limits there are now 31 distinct local governments and 380 in Cook county outside the city, Mr. Cermak pointed out. These include park, library, school, road, and sanitary boards as well as city and village governments.

Cites Increasing Governments.

"The tendency has been to create a new agency of government where a new service is to be taken up which requires the expenditure of public moneys," Mr. Cermak continued. "The result has been that the number of agencies spending public moneys has been increasing."

Mr. Cermak cited the benefits which would accrue from a metropolitan police department, coördinated water supply administration, and from wholesale buying of equipment.

"There are no more important problems facing the taxpayers of this county than these," he added. "With active citizen interest and support in the development and prosecution of the plans growing, substantial results should be obtained in the near future."

35 Million Due in County on 404 Million Bonds in 1931

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Property owners in Cook county must dig up more than $35,000,000 this year to pay bonds and interest on bonds. If any municipality defaults, its bonds are blacklisted from five to twenty years in various states as investments for insurance companies, savings banks, and certain trusts.

Some of these bonds have already fallen due and the municipalities, lacking cash, have borrowed money on tax anticipation warrants to pay bonds and interest.

This is one reason why Silas H. Strawn and other leaders have proclaimed that the 1929 taxes, due April 1, must be paid at that time. There is also concern about the fact that $51,000,000 of the 1928 taxes, which were due last July, remain unpaid.

Facts for Investors.

From a municipal bond investor's viewpoint—not from the taxpayer's—the Northern Trust company has compiled a booklet entitled "Important Facts Identifying the Bond Issuing Authorities of Cook County."

This booklet gives the total bonded indebtedness of 144 local governments in the county, together with the population of each and the valuation of property for taxation in each. This is the first time such a compilation has been given circulation.

It shows the total bonded indebtedness of the 144 governments is $404,735,486, but the data were gathered before the November election, when $28,465,000 more in bonds were authorized for the city, county, forest preserves, and Lincoln park. Still more bonds will be submitted to the voters for approval on Feb. 24.

But, without anticipating new bonds, the Northern Trust presents an impressive summary of the funded debt. This shows that the general local governments have bonded indebtedness as follows:

Government.	Total bonded debt.
City of Chicago	$116,015,100
Sanitary district	114,536,000
Cook county	27,290,000
Forest preserves	17,680,000
Total	$275,521,100

There are 15 park districts within Chicago which have issued bonds, all of which indebtedness must be paid, with interest, by the people of the city. The Northern Trust's tabulation follows:

Park districts—	Total bonded debt.
outh park	$ 62,610,000
West park	13,207,000
Lincoln park	13,965,000
Northwest park	3,733,000
Irving park	1,468,000
North Shore park	612,000
River park	1,279,500
Old Portage park	1,383,000
Ridge Avenue park	195,000
Albany park	195,000
Ridge park	924,500
Jefferson park	441,000
West Pullman park	61,000
Ravenswood Manor gardens	15,000
Hollywood park	81,000
Total	$100,170,000

These two tables show the bonds which must be paid by the property owners of the city. They are liable for the $100,170,000 issued by the park boards and the $116,015,000 issued by the city in their entirety. For the $27,290,000 issued by the county board and the $17,680,000 issued by the forest preserve trustees, the city property must pay about 84.1 per cent; because the taxable property of the city is 84.1 per cent of the total in the county. Of the $114,536,000 issued by the trustees of the sanitary district, city taxpayers are liable for 86.3 per cent.

City and Country Figures.

Thus it is computed city property owners must pay $352,889,438 of the $404,735,486 in bonds, listed by the Northern Trust as outstanding in the whole county. The territory outside of the city is bound to pay the $51,846,048 remaining.

This country town bond total is composed of the outside area's share of the county, forest preserve and sanitary district funded debts, $4,483,732 of bonds for 37 villages, villages and towns, $3,666,500 in bonds for 2 outside park districts, $8,535,500 in bonds for 15 township high schools, and $12,340,654 in bonds for 51 school districts.

Evanston has the largest bonded indebtedness of the country towns. It is given as $1,072,000. Chicago Heights ranks second with $431,000, Glencoe third with $348,500.

However, the bonded indebtedness of the country districts is only $86 per capita as compared with $104 within Chicago, on the basis of the Northern Trust data.

BUDGET HEARING ADDS $60,000 IN SALARY RAISES

Pleas for More Funds Mark Session.

Salary increases totaling $60,000 were approved by the finance committee of the city council yesterday following a public hearing on the 1931 budget of $173,321,260. The action raised the amount that it has appropriated above the estimated revenues to $85,000, which the aldermen expect to cut out tomorrow to make the budget balance.

In the public hearing which is mandatory under the financial relief legislation of last year comments on the budget in the main were confined to requests for salary increases. Representatives of the policemen, firemen, union labor, the communist party, and social agencies all asked for additions to the budget.

Speakers Give Warning.

The only criticism and restraining influence came from Harris Keeler of the bureau of public efficiency and Douglas Sutherland of the Civic federation.

"Both the water and the corporate budgets are riding on thin ice," Mr. Keeler warned. "The amount of estimated revenue for this year is swelled by a number of nonrecurring items, and while the additional expenditures you are authorizing will be with you next year the revenue to meet them will be less."

In the water budget Keeler found that the aldermen have estimated an increase of revenues over 1930 of $515,000. He said that it is unlikely that the 1931 collections will exceed those of last year by that amount, and that an adjustment in water rates might be necessary to justify the committee's figures.

Question Tax Loss Estimates.

Mr. Sutherland and D. Avery Kimbark, vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board, expressed uneasiness relative to the committee's estimate that the loss and cost in the collection of the 1931 taxes will be only 9 per cent.

"I wonder if you have made a sufficient allowance for loss in the collection of the taxes," said Mr. Kimbark. "I feel that the loss and cost may be as high as twenty-five or thirty per cent, not because the property owners will refuse to pay their taxes but because many of them will not be able to. We don't want the city to get into a financial jam as it did in 1930 so that citizens will have to raise money to operate the city activities."

The salary increases were given to playground directors and laborers, police station janitresses, chlorine attendants, rate men, shutoff men, and field assessors in the water department and to one individual, John McGurn, assistant sidewalk superintendent.

Hear Other Requests.

Other requests were for raises of $500 a year to the policemen and firemen and for appropriations for free dental service in the schools and for physicians and nurses to examine school children. Joel Hunter of the United Charities and Edward H. Stullken, school principal, asked school nurses and physicians.

The hearing was enlivened by the ejection of Phil Franfeld, who said he represented the Trade Union Unity league. It was brought out by Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th] that Franfeld had been in Chicago only nine months and a motion not to hear him was adopted. Franfeld insisted upon speaking and was led out by a policeman.

Preceding Franfeld, Otto Wangerin set forth the demands of the communist party, which he said he represents. He asked for an appropriation of $75,000,000 to be turned over to his party to distribute among the unemployed. He proposed that the council get the fund by cutting the police department appropriation in half and by reducing the salaries of city officials.

HOLD WOMAN'S DEATH SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while despondent over illness was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Mrs. Ida Maas Mier, 51 years old, who on Sunday leaped from her eighth floor apartment in the Del Prado hotel, 53d street and Hyde Park boulevard.

GERMAN BOASTS HE MADE GOLD FOR LUDENDORFF

Alchemist on Trial for Fraud in Munich.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Germany, Jan. 19.—An alchemist, Franz Tausend, today declared he was engaged to make gold for Germany's former war chief, Count Eric Ludendorff. He is on trial in Munich as an impostor and embezzler.

He revealed a sensational contract which he testified Gen. Ludendorff forced him to sign in 1925, providing that "Tausend should pay to Ludendorff for the national cause seventy-five per cent of the profits in the manufacture of gold and from other inventions," while the company financing Tausend would be given 20 per cent profit and Tausend, as the inventor, five per cent.

All Germany Chuckling.

All of Germany is chuckling tonight over the scientific theories with which Tausend's friends convinced Ludendorff's friends that they were able to make gold.

Tausend, who is 47 years of age, is the son of a village hardware dealer who wandered all over the continent in his youth. He took a degree in music in Switzerland, was an apprentice in the chemical laboratory of E. Volstead working on the theory of "harmony that keeps atoms together which reveals true relationship in different elements." He asserted this theory enabled him to transmute metals and create all chemicals needed by industry.

Tausend said in court today:

"The sense of music is what a chemist needs if he wants to understand the true nature of atoms, which, so far, has been grossly misrepresented by scientists."

Insists He Made Gold.

Although he has spent the last two years in jail while the state has been collecting evidence against him, Tausend insists he did manufacture gold in his experiments for Ludendorff. He claims he received only a tiny fraction of the $500,000 collected by divers companies backing him and that the bulk of it was spent by Ludendorff for his paper, Voelkische Curier.

Tausend netted two castles out of the transaction, which the prosecuting attorney declares is proof that he used the money intrusted to him for experiments in personal joys.

Forty-two witnesses were called in court to testify against the alchemist, who had promised to make 88 pounds of gold for them every month.

JIMMY IS ONLY CLEW TO $10,000 DEPOT ROBBERY

CRIMINAL COURT.

Nellie Cole, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Jack Robinson, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge John Prystalski.

A small steel bar, used as a jimmy, was the only clew left by the daring robber who early yesterday held up an assistant cashier of the Union station and escaped with more than $10,000 in currency.

The jimmy enabled the thief to pry open a window of the cashier's cage, through which he crawled and pointed a pistol at Hobart E. Smith, the assistant cashier, as he sat at his desk, going over the Sunday receipts and preparing them to be banked.

The robber held Smith at bay, scooped up the packs of currency and placed them in a briefcase. He then locked Smith in a vault and departed without having been seen by any one except his victim. Smith's cries finally attracted the attention of a ticket agent who had returned from an early breakfast.

PASS 5,000 MARK IN JOBS OFFERED THROUGH SALLY

Officials Happy as New Week Begins.

The five thousand mark was passed yesterday in the number of jobs offered to unemployed persons by readers of THE TRIBUNE through Sally Joy Brown. Her department for helping the jobless by turning over to the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, all offers of jobs, was organized last Oct. 18.

Simultaneously came an announcement from John Keane, superintendent of the Illinois Free Employment agency, that yesterday was the most cheerful Monday the agency had experienced for some time. Monday usually is its heaviest day, but yesterday fewer than usual applied for jobs.

Some Obtain Jobs.

In the clerical and professional division, one of the smaller divisions, only 27 applied, whereas the daily average is from 60 to 90. In the same division, several men notified the department head that they had obtained temporary jobs.

For the week ending Jan. 17, the Dearborn street branch of the Illinois agency registered 1,693 men who wanted jobs and placed 160. For the week ending Jan. 10, registration numbered 2,538, with 218 placements.

Stories of Two Applicants.

Here are the stories of two typical men registrants in the clerical department, as told by their application cards filled out yesterday:

J. A., 37 years old, has four children. The youngest, 7 months old, is ill in a hospital. The others are 5, 9, and 17 years old. In the space reserved for comment, he observed briefly: "Lost everything in business." It was a restaurant business, but J. A. does not aim so high now. He applied for a job as a store clerk or as a janitor.

A. K., 30 years old, is a clean cut young fellow, and, like J. A., a high type mentally and morally, according to the agency officials. He has three children, aged 18 months, 3 years, and 5 years. He has been out of work for three and one-half months, owes three months' rent, and has not one lump of coal or stick of wood left for fuel. Formerly A. K. made $3,000 a year as production clerk. He applied for a job as an assembler. An assembler makes 50 cents an hour.

ADD MORE NAMES TO LONG LIST OF GOOD FELLOWS

Every day a few new names are added to the ranks of the Good Fellows who are tiding families over the unemployment slack. Yesterday four new Good Fellows sent their contributions to THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow department, bringing the total number of Good Fellows to 1,492.

In the same mail with letters from the new Good Fellows came the pay-came this week's contribution of $300 ment of pledges. In yesterday's mail from Mr. W. "to help people in need." Mrs. F. W. K. sent $50 for "the M. family which I have been helping." Many of these pledges were made last October when THE TRIBUNE issued a call for Good Fellows to help maintain deserving families during the winter months.

All the money contributed goes for the support of these families. THE TRIBUNE bears the expense of administrating the Good Fellow fund. All the families being supported were investigated by the Catholic Charities, the United Charities, the Salvation Army, and the Jewish Social Service bureau. WAUKEGAN VOTES TODAY ON CHANGE IN GOVERNMENT

Waukegan will vote today on the proposition of returning to the aldermanic form of local government. The present form is that of a city commission, established in 1911. A heavy vote is expected.

Proponents of the plan to revert to the old system, led by R. H. Stripe, president of the Waukegan Taxpayers' association, argue that the aldermanic form is more representative, and necessary for Waukegan's population of 45,000. Supporters of the commission plan assert the present form is cheaper and more business-like. Most business groups are opposed to any change.

Mr. Stripe announced last night he would pay $100 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one committing ballot frauds today. He has $1,000 for this purpose, he said.

BRITISH MINER CHIEF LOSES LEG AS STRIKE ENDS

A. J. COOK.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A. J. Cook, spectacular and fiery leader of the men who muck for coal in British mines, fought the biggest of his many battles today. As his "boys" returned to their pits in South Wales after a 19 day mine tieup, Mr. Cook's right leg was amputated in an effort to relieve the intense pain occasioned by a 28 year old injury received in a coal mine.

Tonight physicians said that he was "doing as well as could be expected."

A soldier's son, reared in the atmosphere immortalized by Kipling's Barrack Room Ballads, the early training of the miners' leader stood him in good stead during his suffering of the last fortnight. Despite his pain, he refused to go to the hospital for observation until the government mediation between miners and owners in South Wales had proven successful.

Cook's career has been a kaleidoscopic one since he first occupied a Baptist pulpit at 17, to become finally head of Britain's mine union movement as secretary of the Miners' federation at 40.

It is a revelation to taste the wonderful flavor of Hills Bros Coffee... a flavor developed by roasting the blend evenly... continuously

a little at a time

COFFEE ROASTED IN BULK LACKS THAT RICH, FRAGRANT FLAVOR WHICH IS ALWAYS PRODUCED BY HILLS BROS' PATENTED, CONTINUOUS PROCESS... CONTROLLED ROASTING

OF ALL THE foods and delicacies that come to your table there are few that can inspire your taste like Hills Bros. Coffee. Every sip abounds in fragrant, savory, full-bodied goodness such as you will never find in any other brand.

It's the way Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted that makes it such a joy to drink. Instead of roasting their blend in bulk, Hills Bros. roast only a few pounds at a time. By exact control of heat, every berry is roasted evenly—to that degree where all of the flavor nature gave it is developed to perfection. How different from the bulk-roasting method in which exact flavor-control is impossible!

As fast as Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted and ground, it is packed in vacuum cans that keep it always fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out of the vacuum can. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Wages Are Always Spent Wherever Wages Are Secure

There are two factors in the consideration of wage-earning America which the manufacturers of America can count upon. And, it seems to us, both of these factors are of the greatest importance in the planning for any volume of mass production.

The one factor is that here in America wages are always spent wherever wages are secure.

The other factor is the capacity of the wage-earner to begin his expenditures more quickly than any other class whenever that security is assured.

The reason for the first factor, that wages are always spent, of course, goes back to the kind of people we are, the kind of experience we have had, the comparative youngness of our nation, and the comparative freedom from the terrible devastations that have repeatedly swept over a continent like Europe.

No man who has ever visited France and seen a French taxi-driver dive down into a long leather pouch and grudgingly fish out a copper coin, has ever failed to be impressed by the contrast between him and one of our own American taxi-drivers who thrusts a thumb and forefinger into a vest pocket, spreads out a handful of silver in his palm, and says, "How much do you want?"

The very contrast between the two methods of handling the change in a simple transaction is not only a complete commentary upon the entire lives of the two drivers, but opens up the whole historical background of the countries in which they live.

A continent like Europe that has been a battleground for a thousand years, where entire dominions have been turned into a shamble again and again, and where the property of a whole people has been devastated for a generation at a time, does not leave much of a heritage of ease and security.

And after all, we can only be the product of our inheritance.

Here in America we have only made a shambles of any part of our own country once in our entire history. And then only for a brief and bloody period of which we do not like to think.

For a hundred and fifty-one of our hundred and fifty-five years as a declared nation we have had a security such as Europe has never known.

That is why our taxi-driver spreads out a handful of silver on the palm of his hand and allows us to take out what is coming to us and throw back the change.

That is why wage-earning America spends its money whenever it has the money to spend without any deep and dreadful fear at its shoulder blade.

And that, in turn, is why the manufacturer of America has been able to go into mass production on a giant scale, knowing that the masses of wage-earning America would be ready at the other end to receive what he has made. It wouldn't have been possible out of high wages alone. Our glorious inheritance has as much to do with it as our glorious wage scale.

The second factor—the capacity of the wage-earner to begin his expenditures more quickly—is equally important but has a different significance.

This does not relate to any European comparisons. It simply relates to the weight of the social load which the different classes are obliged to carry on their backs. A business man who has taken a smash in the stock market or in his business affairs may have plenty of money left, but he certainly has plenty of places to put it. His obligations are numerous and his sense of security is in direct relation to the amount of his obligations.

Wage-earning America has no such weight of obligations to carry. Its obligations are to its belly, its back, and its roof—its food and its clothing and its shelter. Once these are taken care of, the man is taken care of and his spending can begin.

Here at True Story Magazine we see this exemplified in a most interesting way. Our circulation is practically all voluntary, news-stand circulation. We see that circulation move about as fluid as water to where that security exists. For naturally the wife of a man who is out of a job, or going to be out of a job, or out of a house, or out of food does not pay a quarter for a magazine. Her mind is not on reading; her mind is on more fundamental things. The moment he has a job and his job is secure, back she comes for her True Story Magazine. And just as surely, back his family come for their general expenditures.

It seems to us that these two factors—namely, the readiness of wage-earning America to spend wherever it has the security of a job, and the capacity for quick expenditure when it gets the job—are tremendously important in America's present economic situation.

For mass production must have its wage-earning mass outlet, and it is absolutely essential at all times to know where that mass outlet is able to buy.

And here at True Story Magazine, very fortunately we are always able to tell you exactly not only where two million of them are able to buy, but are buying.

JUDGE SCHILLER IS HONORED AS HE STARTS TERM

Praised at Dinner Given by 700 Friends.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Jay Schiller, beginning his term of service as Municipal judge, was the guest of 700 of his friends last night in the ballroom of the Hotel Sherman.

"Judge Schiller was the city's lawyer in the real estate expert fee trial," said Weymouth Kirkland, the toastmaster. "I saw him practically every day for more than two years. There was a point in that case when Judge Schiller came to the fork in the roads. To take one road probably meant political preferment, but Jay took the straight road and thereby created powerful political enemies."

Judge Schiller was assigned to that case by the then corporation counsel, Francis X. Busch, former president of the Chicago Bar association.

Praised by Busch.

"I taught Jay in law school," said Mr. Busch last night. "I knew when I assigned him that he was capable and trustworthy.

"There came a time in that expert fee case when two defendants realized the wrong they had done. They wanted to make restitution. Each had collected more than $570,000 from the city. One of them returned in cash and property to the city $108,000 and the other more than $30,000." This referred to Ernest H. Lyons and Arthur S. Merigold.

Mr. Busch went on: "In returning that money to the city they assigned to the city their claims for income taxes. One had paid $183,000 and the other $165,000. Jay Schiller was assigned by me to obtain that money and he was given the assistance of an expert income tax firm. Jay looked upon that money as a trust which belonged to the city of Chicago. He wrote his brief with the purpose of retrieving that income tax money for the city treasury.

Declines to "Play Ball."

"But there came a change in the city administration and my successor (Samuel A. Ettelson) soon dispensed with the expert income tax firm. Jay was expected to write a bluff brief. He had the opportunity to 'play ball' with the new city administration. He was expected to do just that; but the powers in control did not know Jay. He presented a brief with the sincere purpose of winning the money back to the city.

"When the corporation counsel saw that brief he said it would never do. Jay was called upon to change his brief, to take the punch and point out of it. But Jay had written a brief with a sincere desire and purpose and design to win the money back for the people. That brief he told the corporation counsel would be filed or he would resign. That kind of courage makes powerful enemies and the community is to be congratulated in getting a man of such character and ability on the Municipal bench."

"Type Needed for Bench," David.

"God knows we need men of such fiber on the Municipal bench," exclaimed Judge Joseph B. David at the height of his tribute to the young lawyer.

President Cermak of the county board added to the tribute with a short speech. Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court added complimentary words on the honesty and ability of Jay Schiller. Seven judges of the Circuit, Superior, and Municipal bench sat at the speakers' table among as many more public officials.

Veteran Salesman, Retired on Pension, Ends Own Life

Harry Zimmer, 57 years old, who for 25 years was a salesman for the Home Insurance company, 175 West Jackson boulevard, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by drinking poison at the home of his brother with whom he lived at 11334 Lothair avenue. Zimmer had been retired on Jan. 1 and his pension was to have started on March 1. His brother and sister-in-law said he had been despondent.

RULES LAWYERS MUST TELL OF CANAL SERVICE

Disbarment Defense Loses Point.

The fifty-three lawyers employed by the sanitary district during the whoopee days must take the witness stand for examination in the disciplinary action brought against them by the Chicago Bar association. This was the ruling yesterday of Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, sitting as commissioner for the Illinois Supreme court.

The information of the association, which the Supreme court delegated for hearing to Judge Taylor, alleges that the 53 attorneys accepted money without rendering service to the district's law department. Two additional respondents, Hector A. Brouillet, chief attorney for 1925 and 1926, and Maclay Hoyne, chief attorney from 1927 to 1928, are charged with permitting excessive pay rolls.

Defense Attorneys Object.

At the outset of the hearing yesterday Attorney Willard Matheny, representing the association, asked that the court call the 53 attorneys to the stand, beginning this morning. Attorney Michael J. Ahern, representing two of the number objected. He was joined by Attorney Thomas J. Symmes, representing twenty-six.

"My clients do not wish to place themselves in an adverse position by appearing to avoid taking the stand," he said. "But the bar association has thus far failed to make a case. The case should be dismissed now or a continuance taken to ask the Supreme court to dismiss the charges for lack of evidence."

"This is a unique proceeding," the judge declared in dismissing Ahern's motions. "The right of a lawyer is in the nature of a privilege and a franchise. The Supreme court is making an investigation to determine whether the respondents are to keep or be deprived of their rights as attorneys or are to be disciplined by fines or censure."

Attorney Ahern suggested that the Supreme court rule on the form of procedure because of the peculiar form of action.

"Let me decide," Judge Taylor said. "I am not timorous. It is perfectly proper for me to ask that they take the stand because of the character of the case. This is not a civil suit or a criminal action."

Attorney Ahern asked that the witnesses by subpoenaed by Attorney Matheny rather than by the court. Attorney Matheny said he had suggested calling of them by the court so that he would not be put in the position of impeaching his own witnesses. The judge held that Attorney Matheny should call the witnesses.

Attorney Matheny explained that he had two witnesses yet to take the stand, who could not appear for a week as they were engaged in a trial. Those of the respondents, who might be involved in the testimony of these additional witnesses, need not take the stand until later, the judge ruled.

Hoyne Recalls Work of 5.

Throughout yesterday's session former State's Attorney Hoyne was on the stand for questioning on the management of the district's law department during his administration. He explained that he had no power to hire or discharge attorneys.

Attorney Hoyne was asked in what legal work the attorneys named in the bar association's action were employed. As the list was read to him he could recall the work of but five of the lawyers. He explained that he was busy with important matters and did not often confer with the bulk of his assistants. These, he said, worked under the supervision of his chief aides.

He stated he was not able, under the rules of the district, to prevent an excessive number of attorneys; nor could he regulate the amount of their compensation.

"SENTENCE TO SENATE" WINS JURY EXCUSE

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—"My father is serving a sixty-day sentence in the state senate."

This was the reason advanced by A. J. Ballard of Marion, Ind., called to South Bend for federal grand jury service in an effort to be excused today. He explained that he is associated in business with his father, Jesse Ballard, state senator for Grant county—a farmer, packer and banker.

Judge Thomas W. Slick excused the son.

LEAGUE TO BID RUSSIA TO JOIN U. S. OF EUROPE

Iceland and Turkey Also to Get Invitations.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Jan. 19.—After wrangling for three hours in a secret session, a subcommittee named by the delegates of the league of nations commission to study a proposed United States of Europe tonight decided to invite Russia, Turkey, and Iceland to participate in the discussions of the economic phases.

Tomorrow a resolution will be put to vote among delegates of 27 nations represented to make a final decision. It is then expected that the Pan-European session will adjourn until May, the next session of the council at which time the Ankara, Moscow, and Reykjavik governments are expected to send delegates.

The center of today's row hinged on inviting the bolsheviks with Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, insisting upon the futility of any negotiations without Russia, which occupies more than half of European territory.

Asks Iceland Be Invited.

Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain supported the Italo-German attitude, but compromised by suggesting that an invitation also be sent to Iceland, which has the oldest parliamentary system in the world.

Giuseppe Motta of Switzerland and Nicholas Titulesco of Rumania objected to inviting Russia on the grounds that Moscow might reject the invitation and thereby put the conference in an embarrassing position.

Aristide Briand of France finally agreed with Mr. Henderson on an invitation to the soviet government.

Alimony a League Problem.

The council of the league of nations rattled through a long agenda this morning, but struck a snag when it encountered a proposal for an international agreement for enforcing the payment of alimony when abandoned children are involved.

Eighteen states agreed to the scheme, but Great Britain and the observer for the United States refused because courts of certain European states sometimes order fathers of illegitimate children to pay mothers for their support. This is contrary to American and English jurisprudence, which does not take into account the support of children born out of wedlock.

HELD AS BOOZE VENDERS.

Thomas White, alleged operator of a saloon at 1849 West 79th street, was held to the federal grand jury in bond of $1,500 by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday. Charles Fentano and Hyman Kaplan, alleged operators of a still seized in Lansing, were held in bonds of $2,000.

PROFESSOR NAMED IN DIVORCE ACTION STARTS LIBEL SUIT

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—In filing a cross-bill to his wife's suit for divorce, Dr. Charles William Margold, sociologist and student of sex, named Dr. Clarence Linton Meader, 62, professor of Latin, Sanskrit and general linguistics at the University of Michigan, as corespondent. As a result Dr. Meader today filed a suit for $50,000 against Dr. Margold alleging libel.

Petitions for divorce were filed by Stella K. Margold, through her attorney, George Burke, in October, with all papers suppressed.

In his cross-bill Dr. Margold declared that Mrs. Margold "became very much infatuated and very intimate with Clarence L. Meader, a member of the faculty of the University of Michigan."

Dr. Meader has a wide reputation here and abroad as a scholar.

Mrs. Margold, who served as Dr. Meader's assistant in Russian literature last summer, declared the charges "preposterous." She promised to reveal details of Dr. Margold's life in Vienna, Moscow and Leningrad while he was gathering statistics for his book on "Marriage and Divorce" but which, Mrs. Margold alleges, seemed to call for the employment of many beautiful secretaries and translators.

Mr. Margold, in his cross-bill, insists his wife twice deserted him. She declares that the doctor forced her to leave, "as he said he could not get the real facts about sex with a wife tagging along."

WAR'S ABOLITION URGED IN SPEECH BY JANE ADDAMS

National Women's Groups Meet in Capital.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—"The Abraham Lincolns and the Harriet Beecher Stowes of today" are faced with a problem every whit as challenging to their "moral enterprise and collective energy" as the problem of slavery was to their spiritual ancestors, Jane Addams of Chicago's Hull house tonight told the sixth conference on the cause and cure of war.

And that challenge, she declared, is the abolition of war, "that hoary abomination of mankind."

Six hundred potential Harriet Beecher Stowes—for the conference is a federation of eleven national women's organizations and the men appear only as guests—clapped and cheered their acceptance of the challenge.

Speaks on Achievements.

"We are told," said Miss Addams, "that the great achievements of the human race are those which have brought deliverance from some form of terror or of oppression. These achievements have gained foothold for freedom, have released the human intelligence so that it might move forward.

"What might the present generation not achieve if it could be relieved of this old fear of war, and cease preparations for war? Warfare goes back into the very beginnings of human history, but so did slavery, which our immediate forebears got rid of. Small groups of people in one country after another declared that slavery as a human institution had become intolerable, and gradually one government after another declared slavery illegal until the civilized world so completely banished it that it is only to be found now in remote countries where it may be ingloriously hidden."

Ways Are Contrasted.

Contrasting the English and the American way of doing things, Miss Addams added:

"England abolished her slaves in 1832, through a gradual control of the slave trade. More than 30 years later the United States manumitted her slaves by proclamation. England joined the league of nations and the world court; we hold off, but signed the Kellogg-Briand pact. If this is our way, let us at least live up to it, and not be impatient if it does not work all at once."

During the afternoon session repeated reference was made to "the men on the hill," who, as senators and representatives have not demonstrated too great an interest in the conference.

"Time to Be Brave."

"If the men upon the hill are timid," announced Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, "now is the time for us to be brave."

And James G. McDonald of the foreign policy association in discussing economic crises in other countries, said, "The men upon the hill may shrug their shoulders and say, 'Well, what of it, if the rest of the world goes to th devil,' but we don't believe in that policy."

Meanwhile word came "from the hill" that Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, scheduled to tell the women about the naval conference in London, was too busy about the senate's business to get down Pennsylvania avenue a mile to the women's meeting.

A hurry up call was then sent to New Jersey's new senator, Dwight Morrow, importuning him to pinch hit for Senator Reed. But he, too, found himself too busy to leave the capitol.

Although the thermometer dropped to twenty-eight degrees at Pomona and a degree lower at Riverside, no damage was reported. In Los Angeles a low of 47 degrees was recorded.

THE NYE COMMITTEE AND BISHOP CANNON.

Senator Nye's committee having run out of cash, the senate has voted an additional $50,000 and has extended its life until next January. Mr. Nye and his associates have constituted a special commission on qualifications and eligibility, sanctions, rights, and privileges. They have been authorized to determine who might and who might not be elected to the senate and in what manner.

With these censors on the job it is becoming increasingly difficult for outsiders to obtain acceptable credentials to the senate. It has a preference for its sitting members and a dislike for any such innovation as the swearing in of new ones. The Nye associates have added to the senate's peace of mind by working toward the doctrine of life tenure. They are particularly severe against the spending of private funds in a campaign against a senator.

When this useful body was voted a replenishment of funds and an extension of activities Senator Carter Glass of Virginia called its attention, by resolution, to an instance which has annoyed him. He requests that steps be taken. The case is that of Bishop James Cannon Jr.

According to testimony given before the senate lobby committee E. C. Jameson of New York gave the bishop $65,300 to promote the Hoover dry campaign. Bishop Cannon did not make a full accounting of this sum. He reported only $17,300, and when asked to explain the rest of it declined to give satisfaction. All efforts to dislodge him from his position have failed. He has stood pat with the declaration that it was nobody's business. He has fought Senator Glass, and hence the latter's desire to have the Nye associates take the matter up.

It may be doubted that they will do so. The government willingness to drop the matter equals Bishop Cannon's demand that it be dropped. The censors may not care to make any discoveries in this direction, even if a senator raises the point that he has been annoyed.

RIDING HERD ON THE MOVIES.

Occasionally Elder Will Hays must observe Judge Landis with envy. The judge's only disturbance in baseball for a year or so has been What-a-man Shires, the comic spirit of the game who never should be too severely repressed and who always comes about smiling when corrected. The judge as a moderator and censor hardly has to shift his feet or raise his voice. He can do a day's work in an easy chair, but the elder, endeavoring the same in the movies, is loafing if he takes an hour's sleep. The judge may say that for himself he is only enjoying the advantages coming from an early laying on of the paternal hand. Mr. Hays probably feels that this is not the whole difference.

Virtue and innocence are qualities really priceless in the movie business. The instincts of the personnel are to raise hell. The loyalties given the screen by most of the customers wistfully ask for idealism, sweetness, purity, courage, and strength. The purveyors to these sentiments ask for everything else. They want the good old days of Silenus. They are quickly inebriated by the fumes of publicity and adoration, being not on the strong side of self-restraint, and the gin merchant does the rest. A little lady can take a reputation worth a half million on the lot, tie a red ribbon in its hair and send it out dancing, a dryad for the vestry to contemplate.

Elder Hays may well ask the judge how he would like that job. The elder, with his transparent rectitude, no sooner succeeds in allaying the apprehensions or skepticism of the parent-teacher associations, the woman's clubs, ministerial organizations, and boards of censors than shrieks of laughter reveal that something has broken loose again. Dionysos and Eros are out for another round of revels. Mr. Hays must ask to be excused for a few moments and tiptoe away to quiet the disturbance, knowing that when he gets the upper hand of one, another will be on its heels. What a job!

TO MAKE DRY STATES DRY.

The manner in which Mr. Woodcock, the prohibition director, indicates he will distribute his 500 additional agents reveals a mistaken idea of enforcement. It has been the popular and prevailing one, but it lacks reason and logic. The policy has been to concentrate in states which vote against prohibition and treat lightly the states which vote for it. Thus Mr. Woodcock would give New York 90 additional agents and give only 40 to the district made up of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, and Mississippi.

It may be that a dry vote is taken to demonstrate a truly Volstead condition, but that cannot be. The facts are too well known to the contrary. It might be that a dry vote is the only thing required under Volstead and satisfies the enforcement demand, but that would not be just and therefore in prohibition cannot be true. More likely it is only a mistake in judgment, but the rational procedure is self-evident. The enforcement agents should be concentrated upon the states which vote dry, say upon one selected because of its earnestness in support of prohibition. This would be a noble experiment, indeed. If the whole effort of the federal government could make one dry state dry then there might be encouragement to undertake a similar experiment in another dry state. The effort should begin where there is the loudest political dry sentiment.

The dry states are entitled to this attention from the government. They should not be allowed to conduct themselves contrary to their expressed political wishes if the federal prohibition bureau can prevent it. Possibly Mr. Woodcock could make Florida dry. A doubt prevails, but until he tries no one will know.

REAL ESTATE VALUES: A CONTRAST.

The south park board is preparing to extend the outer drive southward from Jackson park and the Lincoln park board each year pushes its outer park and drives closer to Evanston. There appears to be no lessening of the willingness of north and south siders to be taxed for the lake front improvement. At relatively small cost, large areas of park lands have been obtained and more especially high speed motor roads into the heart of the city have been provided. The result is a considerable and widespread enhancement of property values.

Meanwhile the west side has no comparable automobile routes. It takes about as long to reach State and Madison streets from Ashland avenue as it does from the Chicago Beach district, more than three times as far away. Naturally, the residential and business areas to the north and south have enhanced in value more rapidly than those to the west. Better transportation offers the principal explanation.

The west side, if it wishes to keep pace, must provide similar high speed motor roads into the heart of the city. The engineering problem is different, but the results to be expected are identical. As the north and south sides have been able to provide an uninterrupted road along the eastern margin of the city, the west side can avoid cross traffic by double decking its motor roads. The cost may well prove to be considerably less than for the outer drives, for the south and Lincoln park boards have provided large recreation areas in addition to motor roads. All the west side need do is provide the roadways.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY JOHNSON.

It is good news for Chicago that the attorney general has no thought of replacing District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, if he will consent to continue at his post. Mr. Johnson has rendered important service to this community in its effort to destroy the power of organized criminality and, as the struggle is still on and our purpose not accomplished, his energy and enterprise are as much needed as ever. By forceful prosecution within his jurisdiction Mr. Johnson has carried on an effective flank movement against the entrenched powers of the underworld. He has acquired knowledge of conditions a new man, even if he were equally able and resourceful, which is by no means certain, would have to acquire before he could be as efficient an agent of justice.

BARGE AND RAIL COMPETITION.

A proposed reduction in the railroad rates on sugar between Chicago and California is being opposed by the Inland Waterways corporation operating the federal barge line. The general freight agent of the barge company testified at an interstate commerce commission hearing that sugar constitutes more than half of his line's business and he feared that much of this traffic would be lost if the rail rates were lowered.

This plea reflects no credit upon the management of the barge company. The commission is required by law to adjust rates for the preservation of both rail and water routes. At present only a small fraction of the nation's traffic moves by inland waterways. If the barges are to justify the investment made by the government in river improvement they must carry a larger proportion of the total traffic; they must get business which otherwise would have gone, as a matter of necessity, to the railroads.

For every complaint that the barge line makes against loss of business to the railroads through rate reductions the railroads will have a dozen similar complaints to enter against the barge companies. If the commission listens to the water carriers' objections today it must give equal consideration to the railroads' objections in future. Loss of traffic by the rival will be regarded as confiscation of its property. Thus the strongest weapon in the waterway armory—cheaper rates—will be blunted.

Editorial of the Day

NOT ONLY MUSCLE SHOALS.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]

In calling on the business men of the country to oppose pending legislation which would commit the government to the commercial manufacture and distribution of power at Muscle Shoals, Mr. Julius H. Barnes points out that the issue is not confined to the ownership and operation of this single enterprise. A government policy of foremost importance is in the balance. A victory for government ownership advocates at Muscle Shoals would have far-reaching significance. They would then press on to attack other forms of public utilities, including the railroads, and have them taken over by the government.

The compromise arrived at by the conferees on the senate and house measures is really a surrender to government ownership. The house has yet to give its approval. In the discussion as to whether or not President Hoover would veto a bill embodying the senate plan the fact that he is already on record on this precise question seems to have been forgotten. On July 24 last, in a letter to Representative Reece, Mr. Hoover said he would not approve the senate plan, if passed, "because it is not in the interest of Tennessee or the rest of the nation."

The organizations composing the United States Chamber of Commerce have voted, 2,640 to 157, for the sale or lease of Muscle Shoals to private enterprise. They have also voted overwhelmingly against any further invasion by the government of the field of private business. But the disposition in congress to plunge the government into this costly experiment still continues. The house should not leave it to the President to kill this pernicious legislation. It should itself administer the knockout blow.

DISEASE CARRIERS.

WILD animals, as a source of disease in man, are being extensively studied, and some worthwhile results have been obtained. In Panama, Dr. Clarke has proved that wild monkeys have relapsing fever, and that this disease can be transmitted to man by insects. He has also proved that monkeys harbor malaria, but the indications are that monkey malaria is about like bird malaria in that it does not directly threaten man.

In West Africa, effort is being made to establish a relationship between yellow fever and jaundice in jungle animals and the menace of yellow jack to man in both Africa and America. The wild animals of the sleeping sickness areas in Africa carry the parasites of that disease. The fly carries the disease from the wild animals to man as well as to his beasts of burden. Bubonic plague got into the wild rodents of the Pacific slope about thirty years ago and, at intervals of several years, they fed it back to man.

The broad tapeworm has become something of a nuisance in Minnesota, Michigan, and the Canadian central west. Man gets it from eating undercooked fish. The wall eyed pike and the pickerel appear to be chief offenders. But how do the fish get their infection? This is a subject to which Mr. Vergeer has been devoting his attention. He holds bears principally responsible, though dogs play no small part in the process. He has found that wild bears in that region not only catch and eat fish but they eat the garbage around the camps of hunters and fishermen.

Their droppings are washed into the lakes and streams and, being eaten by the fish, serve to infect the latter. Thus the circle is made complete. The remedy he offers consists of several parts. First, all fish should be thoroughly cooked before being eaten by man, or by his dog, or by bears.

Second, all garbage and toilet material should be covered with some repellent and buried deep in the ground. In Panama the rot repellent used is a mixture of crude oil 8 parts, kerosene 1 part. Perhaps extermination of wild animals, as a measure of disease control, may be justified.

AGED NORWEGIANS.

R. V. N. writes: A friend, returning from Norway, makes the statement that Norway, with its population of three or four millions, has more centenarians than the United States. I cannot believe this and do not like to have others credit it if it is not so, and would greatly appreciate information regarding this, if you have access to it.

REPLY.

I do not know just what the figures show, but there are many old people in Norway. The stock is a hardy, long-lived one. Emigration leaves the old behind. America is too young and has benefited too much from immigration of young people for us to have our proportion of centenarians. Give us time.

THE LONG ARMED IRISH.

A. C. writes: Are there any people in a certain part of Ireland that have arms that reach below their kneecaps and heads as big as watermelons?

REPLY.

Although I have never seen all the people in Ireland, I feel certain that none have arms that reach below their knees when they stand erect. There are doubtless some cases of hydrocephalus in Ireland as elsewhere, but none of these has a head as big as a respectable watermelon.

FREE BOARD IN JAIL.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My husband is in arrears in alimony. I am having him put in jail. Do I pay to keep him in jail, or who does and how much? 2. Does that clear up for what he was in arrears or does he have to pay what he owed before he went to jail when he comes out? 3. How long does he stay in jail? Can he be put in for six months at a time if he comes out and doesn't pay my alimony? E. T.

1. Presumably you were represented by an attorney in the divorce proceedings. Such attorney is in a better position to advise you than we are.
2. Yes, after six months he would be released as to the original debt.
3. Yes.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JUNK YARD OVERFLOWS.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—Please notify the proper authorities about the deplorable condition of the northeast and northwest corners of Ogden and Sawyer avenues, which for the last several years have been used for a junk yard. The street and sidewalk are lined up day and night with old, junky cars, even sometimes blocking the alley, causing a hindrance as well as a menace in the event of a fire. W. D.

Report is made that proprietor of junk yard has been notified to remove obstructions from street and sidewalk and has given assurance this would be done at once. Location, however, will be kept under surveillance to see that this is done and that there is no further cause for complaint.

ONE NOTE AS COLLATERAL.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A banker is holding a note I signed with the privilege of renewal. He sent me notice the note was due, but due to my change of address I did not receive the notice immediately. I sent him my note for a ninety day renewal and he did not return the canceled note. The banker persuaded my mother also to give him her note for this same loan. Can he hold both notes for the same loan? P. L.

There is no legal objection to holding two instruments on one loan, one being in the nature of collateral security for the other. Of course, he should not collect twice.

WANTS MONEY BACK.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About twelve years ago I invested $1,500 in the stock of a life insurance company and now wish to withdraw my investment, as the prospects of any dividend are remote. Kindly advise me what would be the proper course to follow. C. C.

You are not entitled to get your money back on the bare facts stated.

THE GOVERNMENT TO THE RESCUE!

THRILLING SCENES yesterday of army trucks, automobiles, freight trains, hand cars, and baby buggies loaded with provisions dashing to the relief of our starving farmers. The government picked up the army, the navy, the marine corps, the national guard, and everything we've got and told 'em to step on the gas and let 'er go; and as a result the supply cars of all description went so fast you could hardly see them, as you will notice by studying the picture. Notice the big army tanks carrying water into those districts where the drought has dried up everything so badly that people hardly have drinking water. And lookit the marines! Handing out hot chocolate, roast beef, and butter 'n' eggs. Yessir, the U. S. put the marines and their food trucks into America as quick as it put 'em into Nicaragua, Haiti, and China. And our government foodstuff has flowed into Kentucky and Arkansas as fast and in as generous quantities as it went into Belgium.

I SHALL REMEMBER.

I shall remember . . . but I shall not want to . . .
A wet blue wind some evening in late fall
Will hurt my heart a little, just a little,
And I shall wonder why you came at all.

For you were youth, you wore your jazz heart gayly,
You sang your prayers, you danced, there was no lull,
Your carnival was lovely while it lasted,
If you were fickle, you were never dull.

A green spring when the lilac trees have blossoms,
A violet scent, and maybe mignonette,
A scarlet moon, a kiss from other lovers . . .
You made no vows . . . but I shall not forget.

AFTER A NICE long struggle through the mud, sleet, snow, and slush, what we simply adore is to pick up on top of the mail an envelope containing a large folder in seven colors which shrieks, "Why Spend Your Winter in the Frozen North? Why Not Sit in the Shade of the Sheltering Palm?" If the party who sent us the folder will send us a self-addressed envelope with a two cent stamp stuck so tight to it that we can't steam it off we won't mind telling him why. Publicly, we'll say that we don't go to Florida because we simply hate palm trees. But that isn't the real reason.

A MAN down in Ohio, tired of having his cow slap her tail in his face when he was milking her, tied a big heavy brickbat to the animal's tail. The cow, disliking to have her tail weighed down by a big heavy brickbat, swang her caudal appendage with great fervor and binged owner in the bean and knocked him senseless. And yet science is still asking do animals think.

R. H. L.: A friend of mine, Junior Utley, advances this bright bit about Bow (the one and, thank heaven, only Clara). My guess is that he made it all up. Anyway, during the current trial, La Bow indulged herself in a stormy fifteen minutes of tears. Later, an admiring reporter whispered in her ear: "THAT is what I call SOME histrionics." Says Clara: "Hell, I was only actin'."

GENE TUNNEY, so the newspapers announce, has "turned his back on society" and is going to spend three years in wildest Asia hunting the devious trail of Marco Polo. But since the New York Blue Book has omitted Mr. Tunney's name this year, it might better be said that Mr. Tunney and society have mutually turned their backs on each other. But when he comes back from Asia he will rate as an explorer and not a prize fighter, and the Blue Book will grab him. For, in the words of the dear old song, a greenhouse has a fragrance that a livery stable hain't.

THE WANDERER'S RETURN

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 20, 1915.

LONDON.—A German air fleet composed of six Zeppelins raided the English coast and dropped bombs in six towns in Norfolk county. Heavy damage and loss of life resulted in Yarmouth, Sandringham, King's Lynn, Cromer, and Sheringham. Bombs also were dropped at Beeston and the villages of Dersingham, Grimston and Snettisham, but no one was killed and the damage was light. One of the invading airships was brought to earth by gunfire from a British warship at Hunstanton, a few miles north of Sandringham. A telephone message received at 1 o'clock this morning says that aircraft were passing over Graves End, 20 miles from London. At Sandringham the invaders tried to destroy the royal palace. King George and Queen Mary left the palace yesterday for London, but Alexandra, the queen mother, was there. The palace was not damaged.

PARIS.—Snow fell in Belgium, in northern France and in the Vosges, but nevertheless there was severe artillery fighting in those sections of the line of battle. French troops have reoccupied the trenches at La Boisselle previously taken by the Germans.

CHICAGO.—The Progressives ratified the fusion action on Judge Harry Olson as Republican candidate for mayor. They were awarded the nominations of Charles H. Sergel for city treasurer and John Siman for city clerk.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 20, 1901.

COWES, Isle of Wight.—Queen Victoria of England lies at death's door. The aged sovereign was stricken with paralysis at midnight. It is the general belief that the prince of Wales has received authority to act in her majesty's stead and that thus has been created a practical, though not constitutional, regency. All members of the royal family not already here have been summoned. The prince of Wales, the princess of Wales and their son, duke of York, are here, and the duke of Cambridge and the duke of Connaught are on their way. Emperor William of Germany, the queen's grandson, left Berlin by special train for Flushing and is expected to arrive this forenoon. A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company at 8:05 a. m. says: "It is learned unofficially this morning that the queen was alive at 7:15 o'clock. Her condition is extremely grave and hopes are growing fainter."

CHICAGO.—The division of Cook county into the county of Chicago, which shall include the city entire, and the county of Cook, which shall comprise all that part of the present county lying outside the city limits, is the object of an amendment to the state constitution adopted by the Civic federation's committee on legislation. In addition to this the committee agreed on a bill providing for the consolidation of the park systems of Chicago under one board, of seven members, to be appointed by the mayor to serve seven years.

WEST POINT.—At tonight's session of the congressional investigating committee, which has been inquiring into the death of Cadet Booz, it was handed a written pledge from all classes at the military academy that they will discontinue hazing.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 20, 1881.

INDIANAPOLIS.—The Hon. Jesse D. Bright, who was expelled from the United States senate in 1861, died at his home here. He was one of the ablest lawyers in the state. He was stricken with paralysis 16 years ago and had been an invalid ever since. Among his survivors is his son, R. J. Bright, sergeant at arms of the United States senate.

FORT BUFORD, Dakota Territory.—Chiefs Good Bear, Big Skirts and Crow King at the head of fifty lodges of Sitting Bull's Indians, numbering about 350 persons, at last reports were on their way to this fort to surrender to the United States authorities. Sitting Bull with 300 of his followers has gone across the border into Canada.

CLEVELAND, O.—Three places in President Garfield's cabinet are believed to have been definitely settled. These are Senator James G. Blaine for secretary of state, Senator Allison for secretary of the treasury, and Gov. Foster for postmaster general.

THIS DAISY.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—What reason has this Daisy for bringing up a lot of Clara's personal affairs? When a girl takes the position of secretary it means that she is not to discuss the affairs of her employer. If some of the other stars' secretaries would do what Daisy is doing, they would, no doubt, have something a little spicier to tell. Clara just happens to be the unlucky one.

I like Clara Bow and I only hope that after she is through with all this publicity she will be a little more careful as to the people she takes into her confidence and will also show the public her real acting ability and that you can't keep a good girl down.

JOANNE GREGG.

PRO-CLARA.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—I think it is ridiculous that Paramount withdrew Clara Bow from the picture, "City Streets," in which she was to have appeared with Gary Cooper, and gave a New York stage actress the part. I, for one, will not go to see this picture.

Clara hasn't done anything wrong. Having three or four boy friends is no disgrace; neither are love letters.

STALLING AT GRADE CROSSINGS.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—If your correspondent, William C. Walker, drives a car he should know that if you give a slow turning motor too much gasoline at once you kill, or stall, the motor. How often we've seen a careful driver come to almost a dead stop at a railroad crossing, and then step on the gas, seemingly to get across before a train comes along. Half the time the car jerks along for some distance until the gasoline pressure is lessened. If every driver who virtually stops at a crossing would get into the habit of shifting into second gear he would get across much faster and with no danger of stalling.

JUDGES.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—It makes my blood boil when I read the way Judge David raps the Hon. Judge Lyle. What in the world did David ever do for the people of this big city? If he could do half the good Judge Lyle is doing for us I would say he is an efficient judge.

ELMER L. NORDEN.

THE LINCOLN CABIN.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—In 1891 the log cabin built by Abraham Lincoln and his father, in the year 1831, was taken down, brought to Chicago and rebuilt in the north annex of the old Exposition building on the lake front, where it was recognized as the most interesting and attractive exhibit of the interstate exposition. I will greatly appreciate hearing from any one who saw the Lincoln log cabin at that time.

ELEANOR GRIDLEY,
President, Abraham Lincoln Log Cabin association.

TO IMPROVE BUS SERVICE.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—I would like to give the bus company a tip. Let them put running boards and straps on the sides of the buses. They would be able to carry more passengers, and if some of the people who pack into the aisles could stand on as small a space on the outside as they can inside the running boards would not have to be very wide; just make the straps good and strong.

RIDER.

A CHANGE IN TEACHERS.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—The Englewood Evening High school has for a number of years been conducting an Americanization department where foreign born people may go to learn the English language, as well as to complete their grammar school educations and become naturalized citizens of the United States. It is obvious that this is a particular type of grammar school work and would, naturally, require teachers of long experience as well as teachers fitted by long contact with this type of student. The teachers at Englewood were ably fitted for their positions. The students were quiet, kept up a better attendance than any other division of the school, were better boosters for every activity in which the school participated, and had nothing short of sheer admiration for every member of the faculty. The students returned from year to year until, after long study and hard work, they were graduated. After that a great many of them continued their high school work at Englewood in the evening.

Now, then, the board of education has a little consultation and suddenly removes all of these teachers from the evening school for the reason that "they cannot have teachers in the grammar school departments of the evening schools who are members of the faculty of some day grammar school." They replace these teachers with youngsters just out of Normal—teachers that are incompetent from the standpoint of handling Americanization work. They try hard. I grant that, but on the other hand they are ill fitted for the work ahead of them, the students feel that something has been taken away from them which cannot be replaced [which is, in a way, the case] and they lose interest in their studies, finally dropping out of school altogether. For every one of these who drop out of the Americanization work we can count [almost certainly] one citizen lost, for where else will they carry on their studies?

I, along with a number of other evening school students, feel that the teachers should be reinstated.

THOMAS M. JEWELL.

DARK SCHOOLROOMS.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—The new building of the Austin High school was placed in use last September. So far no lighting fixtures have been installed in the classrooms and during the dark days we have been having the pupils are obliged to hold their books and papers up close and strain their eyes badly in order to carry on their work. This is a disgraceful situation and whether due to politics, labor trouble, or just plain neglect and inefficiency something should be done to protect the eyes of the boys and girls.

REFLECTIONS ON COMMUNISM.

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 14.—In this country we have bread lines for the ones out of work; in Russia they are even for those who have work. Communism has been tried over and over again and proved a failure, but it has never been tried on a huge scale. I am sure we do not find our politicians public spirited and conscientious enough to manage all our industries, yet they are far better than those of Russia, for here the man who has a job can eat all the bread he wants; many can even afford silk socks who have no job. THE EVENING BULLETIN REACHES 91% OF THE HOMES IN PHILADELPHIA'S BILLION DOLLAR MARKET

You can't sell to prairies at a profit

SALES can't be figured on a square mile basis. Some of the richest land in America houses only a handful of people per acre.

Many a city office building holds more consumers than any one of a thousand towns can boast.

You can't sell to prairies at a profit; you can't scatter advertising now, with the lavish hand of boom times, and show a net profit on the balance sheet.

Compact groups of consumers, in great metropolitan centers, are today's fertile soil for sales cultivation. The vital force of newspaper advertising provides the profitable way to reach them.

And among great city markets, Philadelphia stands out . . . with one newspaper —The Philadelphia Bulletin — giving the greatest coverage at the lowest cost of any great market in America.

Ninety-one per cent. coverage of 572,600 homes is its own testimony of reading interest. Sixty-five cents a line is its own answer to advertising cost.

The Philadelphia Bulletin, in 1930, went on to a new high peak of 560,855 net paid sales every day.

YOUTH ARRESTED IN STRANGLE CASE PRESENTS ALIBI

Seen in Rockford Night of Murder, Police Told.

Detectives who are striving to solve the murder of Miss Eppie Moss, eccentric business woman who was strangled to death last Thursday in her garage, were confronted yesterday with an alibi by one of the two suspects held in connection with the slaying.

The suspect is William Stone, 20 years old, of Rockford, who, according to Rockford police, was in Rockford on the evening of the murder, and was seen in the Rockford billiard hall two or three hours after the slaying here. Stone, arrested in Lincoln, Ill., and returned here for questioning after two witnesses identified his picture as resembling that of the slayer, who was seen fleeing from the garage just before the murder was discovered, was held, however, pending an investigation on his alibi.

Withhold Suspect's Identity.

The other suspect was held incommunicado by the Albany Park police and his identity was not made known. The police said this youth had been arrested as a suspect in numerous robbery cases, but that his description also closely fitted that of the youth seen running from the garage. The police said this suspect wore a leather jacket such as was worn by the slayer of Miss Moss. A button had been torn from the jacket, they said. The murderer tore a button from his coat when he crawled through a window of the garage to escape.

Investigators are continuing their inquiry into the slain woman's past in hope of finding some clew to a motive for the murder. They have learned that Miss Moss often posed as a man.

Her Roommate Vanishes.

Miss Belleta Morse, who shared an apartment with Miss Moss and who discovered the slaying, has perplexed the investigators by her disappearance since attending the inquest the day following the murder. She was then on the verge of a collapse and is believed to have gone to a sanitarium, but the police have been unable to trace her.

GIRL STANDING ON CURB KILLED AS 2 AUTOS COLLIDE

Miss Sylvia Kuhlmann, 16 years old, 6029 North Maplewood avenue, was killed last night when struck by one of two automobiles that collided at Peterson and Maplewood avenues. She was standing on the curb waiting to cross the street when the accident happened.

According to the police a car being driven by James H. Johnson, 4136 Sheridan road, was headed east in Peterson avenue when at Maplewood avenue it was struck by the auto of Oscar Peterson, 2017 Jarvis avenue, who was southbound. The impact knocked both cars against the curb where Miss Kuhlmann was standing. Police were unable to determine which machine struck the young woman. Both drivers are being held for the inquest.

This death and one other raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 77. The victim:

Lee Farmer, 30 years old, 421 Willcox avenue. Killed when the truck he was driving was struck by a Chicago and Eastern Illinois train at the Glenwood-Dyer road crossing in Glenwood. Farmer was thrown from his truck, which caught fire and was destroyed.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: A Promise

COURT WARS ON FIXING OF AUTO ARREST TICKETS

Must Stop, Order of Officials.

The fixing of traffic violation tickets, which during the last five years has assumed all the proportions of a political racket and has resulted in an average daily decrease in Traffic court fines from $3,000 to $125, may soon be as out of date as the old beer and free lunch.

Elimination of fixing was ordered yesterday at a meeting called by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court and attended by high police officials and officers of the leading motor clubs.

Politicians of No Use.

No more can the speeding motorist smile sarcastically at the motor cop, give the ticket to a minor ward heeler and proceed blissfully on his way. For the minor ward heeler himself will be unable to fix the ticket. However, the issuance of tickets will not be so free as in the past. Under instructions from the judge a "friendly warning" will suffice for respectable citizens who have merely been careless.

Failure to appear in court will result in receipt of a letter from the office of the commissioner of police, demanding court appearance within six days. Failure to comply will call for the issuance of a warrant.

Tells of Declining Fines.

Judge John F. O'Connell, presiding in the Traffic court, informed the committee that although as many tickets were being given out at the present time as at any time in the last five years, cases appearing in court had dropped to a minimum. "It is easy to see," he said, "what becomes of the others." He requested that neither political nor social prominence should sway officials in their campaign to stop the fixing racket.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Feb. 9, at which time accident prevention and problems of the Speeders court will be discussed. The police departments of all park systems, the city police department, and motor clubs are cooperating with the court in the drive.

Dies of Wounds Received in Dispute in Card Game

Martin Balsman, 29 years old, of Calumet City, died last night in St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond, Ind., of a bullet wound received early yesterday in a quarrel over a card game. Balsman, Thomas Marsiglia, also of Calumet City, and the alleged killer, whose name is being withheld, were playing at Marsiglia's home when the shooting occurred.

BRITISH PRINCES SAIL FROM SPAIN ON TRADE TRIP

VIGO, Spain, Jan. 20 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The liner Oropesa sailed at 2:15 o'clock this morning with the prince of Wales, Prince George and members of their party for a trade trip to South America. Their next stop will be Hamilton, Bermuda.

The princes came here by motor car from Corunna today, stopping en route in the city of Santiago. After a welcome by the populace, an official reception and dinner at the city hall, and an informal call to the Vigo Yacht club, they completed their last visit on the continent.

SOOTHSAYER SEES NEW DISASTER; THOUSANDS FLEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 19.—A soothsayer in Oaxaca City, which was nearly ruined in last week's earthquake, has terrified the people by predicting the utter annihilation of that and other towns in the state by a new quake. Twice before, he says, Oaxaca was almost wiped off the map; but this time, he predicts, it will disappear forever.

J. H. Kahler, First to Build Hotel-Hospital, Dies at 67

Rochester, Minn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—J. H. Kahler, organizer of the hotel and hospital system here which bears his name, died tonight. He was 67 years old. Mr. Kahler originated the plan of operating a hotel, hospital, and convalescent home as a single unit.

LAKE COUNTY TO DOUBLE CAPACITY OF PRESENT JAIL

Lake county's jail at Waukegan has become too small.

Prohibition and norcotic cases, principally the former, officials say, have overtaxed the capacity of the institution. Within ten days, ninety, instead of forty-five prisoners will be accomodated. The plan is to install double tiers in cells which while admittedly affecting the general privacy of the inmates is expected, one official said, to redound to the general weal.

According to Sheriff Lester Tiffany, the jail was so overcrowded recently that many prisoners were compelled to sleep in corridors. He set out immediately to correct this situation which, he said, was largely caused by an overflow of federal violators sent up for infraction of the dry and narcotic laws. Within ten days, Sheriff Tiffany said, the cells will be equipped for double occupancy.

An allowance of 85 cents per day is made for each federal prisoner. This allowance is considered part of the earnings of the sheriff's office. A share of this income will be used, Sheriff Tiffany said, to employ additional highway policemen.

GUNTOTER, UNDER YEAR SENTENCE, FOUND ON STREET

Robert Emmet Ryan, south side hoodlum, sentenced on Aug. 5 by Judge John H. Lyle to serve a year in the Bridewell for gun toting, was discovered yesterday evening to be atill at liberty when Sergt. John Benson of the Stanton avenue station arrested him and Ralph Rubenstein, 96 East 43d street, in a parked car at Indiana avenue and 36th street. They were unable to give a satisfactory account of themselves and the sergeant charged them with disorderly conduct.

Ryan, who is also under a $50,000 bond for alleged extortion from a La Salle street broker, was arrested on the gun toting charge last August after he had terrorized a night club at 943 Rush street.

Inquiry last night developed that Ryan's attorneys have an appeal pending before the Illinois Supreme court, and that pending its decision he is at liberty on bond.

FALSE TEETH BECOME CRUX OF BITING CHARGE

Fred Butt, 53 years old, manager of a rooming house at 1018 North La Salle street, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Leon Edelman in Chicago Avenue court charged with disorderly conduct. The complainant was Dr. George York, 742 North Wells street, a Chinese postgraduate student of medicine at Northwestern university. The testimony was that Mr. Butt threatened to bite Dr. York during an argument over anatomy, but Mr. Butt told the judge he removed his false teeth. The case was continued.

ALFRED W. M'CANN, PURE FOOD AUTHORITY, DIES SUDDENLY AT 52

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Alfred W. McCann, widely known as an authority on food, died suddenly in his apartment in a mid-town hotel today. He had just ended one of his regular addresses on good food. He was 52.

An illness he suffered in youth from eating impure food was said to have started him on his life long career in the interest of pure food.

Much of his work in the early years was carried on in conjunction with Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, author of the pure food and drug law, who encouraged him in the investigations he made in packing plants and canneries. In later years he carried on most of his activities in New York city, running down violators of the pure food laws, writing books on the subject, conducting a newspaper column and in recent years giving radio talks.

In his crusades against improper handling of food products he frequently was sued for libel, but although called into court more than 50 times, he never lost a suit.

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Dixon Larrabee, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frame-up by Owen White, neighboring rancher and banker. Everything he owned was mortgaged except the home ranch, which Gram refused to sign. Chuck, Dix's young brother, was being sent to medical college, at great expense to Dix.

Dix rejects the idea given him by Mort McGuire, ranch helper, of changing the brand of the cattle from White's O T ranch to a coffeepot, symbol of Dix's own.

INSTALLMENT II.

THE BRAND OF TEMPTATION.

Dix didn't forget. Facing Mart's weather beaten countenance across the supper table, he saw that brand in every glance of the old cowpuncher's eyes.

Gram wanted to know all about the lawsuit, and Dix had to tell enough to satisfy the old woman who had come to Whistling Creek just about sixty years ago and had seen her babies grow up there. She had seen one of them die. She had walked the floor with Dix, her first grandson, when he was a baby; had snatched him away from the creek and the old turkey gobbler and the heels of half broken bronks; had held the others in her strong, brave arms and had yearned over the last one and rejoiced in his lusty yelling. That was Charlie, who grew up to be Chuck.

Gram had leaned dry eyed over the bed in the big front room and seen the others go, one after the other, until only these two grandsons were left to her on the old ranch. So, having looked upon many poignant scenes in her eighty years, Gram's eyes were keen and her brain was shrewd and her interest undulled by the years. No getting around Gram. Dix had to tell her all about Owen Gray and the failure of Graypoint Oil.

"Well, it's no more'n I expected from the start," Gram commented. "If you'd done as I told you, Dixon, you wouldn't have touched that oil company with a ten foot pole. How much've you lost?"

"O, not much. Maybe nothing." Dix stared into his coffee cup and wished he could stop seeing those lines Mart had drawn in the dirt.

"You needn't tell me that, Dixon! Here's Minny and Tom—they was as big fools as the rest of you. Can you sit there and look me in the eye and say they won't lose their money?"

"Yes, I can. I'll see to it that they don't lose a red cent. I got 'em into it, Gram. I'll get 'em out."

"Pay 'em out of your own pocket, I s'pose!"

"Not necessarily," replied Dix.

"Well, I'd like to know whose, then! You needn't sit there and tell me the O T is goin' to pay 'em back," scoffed Gram. Then another thought struck her. "How about Charlie's schoolin'?"

"I'll tend to that all right, Gram."

"I wouldn't want for Charlie to have to give up his school," she said

"I never lost enough to hurt anybody."

wistfully. "If we'd had a doctor in the family maybe your pa and ma would both be alive today. Eighteen miles from the nearest help, and nobody knowin' what to do for Spanish influenza——" her jaw trembled.

"I know, Gram. You did all a human could. You sure pulled me through in good shape that winter." Dix forced himself to smile. "Don't you worry. Chuck'll get his diploma, all right."

"He won't without money, and you've lost——"

"I never lost enough to hurt anybody." The lie came hard, but Dix held it with a cheerful grin.

"If that's the case, why did you want I should sign a mortgage on the ranch?"

"Well, you didn't, so we saved a bunch of money right there. Forget it, Gram, nobody's hurt any."

She eyed him dubiously, leaning forward and peering through her glasses, trying to read his face.

"You told me, Dixon, you didn't have any money to put in, and it was such a sure thing——"

"O, for criminy sake, Gram! I meant I didn't have any money to spare from Chuck and runnin' the ranch, and so on." Dix gulped half a glass of milk in two swallows. "You don't suppose I'd run us short on working capital, do yuh, Gram?"

Gram leaned back in her chair and shook her head with a feeble motion.

"That ain't the way I remembered it," she mumbled. "Seems to me you told me you'd put in every nickel you could raise——"

"And you don't remember anything about a reserve fund that I wouldn't break into?" Dix lifted his head and looked her straight in the eye, the way he had been taught to do since he could toddle. Gram had a streak of superstition in her nature. She believed that a liar couldn't look you in the face. Dix knew different, but he played upon her weakness now, meeting her gaze full and unflinching.

"No, I don't remember anything about a reserve fund." Gram reached out and patted his hand in a way that made Dix turn a guilty crimson to his collar. "I guess I'm getting old and forgetful—but I'm glad this ain't going to stop Charlie's schoolin'. You was cheated out of your schoolin' when your pa died. You had to take hold here and run things. I couldn't spare you and I couldn't spare the money. But Charlie's got to have his chance——"

"Well, he's gettin' it, Gram." Dix shook his head at the pie proffered by Minny and pushed back his chair.

"Don't you worry, Gram."

Dix managed to put a good deal of hearty assurance into his voice, but when he left the house he walked with his shoulders drooped and his feet dragging. He kept seeing those diabolical lines Mart had drawn in the dirt and both had scuffed out with their feet, aghast at their sinister meaning.

As if he were avoiding some unclean thing he walked wide of the bunkhouse, going to the stable by way of the garden patch down by the creek where old Tom was raking up the litter of last year's garden, now that a warm spell lent a brief feeling of spring to the air. Old Tom leaned upon his rake like a staff and waited for Dix to come up.

"Minny says you think we ketchum our money someday bimeby. Thasso?"

"That's what I told Gram." Dix knew he was in a bad way when he had to draw comfort from an evasion like that.

"Mart, he was talkin' to me jus' now. Mart says O T never pays back a dolla. Tells me——"

"You keep away from Mart and his talk. He's too smart for his own good."

Old Tom had nothing to offer in reply to that rebuke, and Dix walked on, a reflected glow from the sunset upon his lean brown face. For once he had no eye for the gorgeous coloring of the clouds, but stared moodily upon the ground. The white faced cattle browsing among the willows nearby got only a cursory glance as he passed, for there was no pleasure in looking at mortgaged cattle now that he had no tangible hope of paying the debt. He did not feel that they belonged to him any more. The outcome of that lawsuit against the Graypoint Oil company had practically transferred the Coffeepot cattle to the bank.

His trail took him down past the corrals and the open yard, where a few belated chickens were walking about searching for stray grains of wheat the flock had overlooked after Tom's late feeding. Gram's tame mallard ducks came gravely waddling single file from the creek, flirting their stubby green tails after an evening swim in the creek which some warm subterranean stream kept from freezing.

He looked in upon the horses munching hay in the dusky warmth of the stalls, but left the stable when he heard Mart coming with a battered pail bucket of oats. From the tail of his eye he saw that Mart stopped to stare after him, but Dix gave no sign. He went up the trail through the lower pasture, and finally wound up at the gate. Beyond, the upper pasture lay all blurred and shadowy with the dusk now filling the valley. The stark brown cliffs that walled it in loomed high and dark and somehow sinister.

Like a rustler's hideout.

Good Morning!

The Cohens and Kellys having been taken to Africa—should be left there. Because the Cohens and Kellys are getting to be a terrible bore.

This picture, which is the fourth of a series of so called comedies dealing with the adventures of a pair of business partners and their respective spouses, could only appeal to the most naïve twelve year old mind. Most of the gags are old. All of the dialogue is stupid. The only acting worth mention is done by some monkeys—and even they seem to mug at the camera. Photography and sound are nothing to waste space on.

Such story as there is concerns itself with what happens when Cohen and Kelly, now partners in the piano business, and their wives beard the jungles in search of ivory for key tops. The jungles are, to all appearances, just some picnic grounds dressed up to look wild. Natives are impersonated by a troop of extras. Some amiable animals from a zoo do what they are told to do.

I certainly hope you find this picture funny, but never a smile did it give me—and I love to laugh.

See you soon.

Dr. Walmsley Again Is Head of Milk Council

Dr. F. D. Walmsley of the Borden Dairy Products company was reëlected president of the Milk Council of Greater Chicago at the annual dinner in the Midwest Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue, yesterday. Charles Wieland and F. H. Kullman were elected vice presidents; John Laue, treasurer, and M. O. Maughn, secretary. W. B. Wanzer is chairman of the board.

Bert Metzger, all American guard of Notre Dame, who was introduced as a "summer milk man," was the guest of honor. He told the guests Coach Rockne had advised him it would be "good for his wind" to run up and down back stairs in Chicago delivering milk during summer vacations.

Dean Ralph Heilman of Northwestern university spoke on "Coöperation in Business," while other speakers pointed out that the farmer receives 40 per cent of the retail price of milk while he gets only about 15 per cent of the proceeds from most other products. Members of the council distribute about 95 per cent of Chicago's milk.

British Woman Prefers Home to Parliament

Austen Chamberlain's Wife Here with Son.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Lady Chamberlain, wife of Sir Austen Chamberlain, when asked on her arrival in Chicago yesterday if she meant to join her famous British sisters in politics, said she did not. "And I'm not at all sure they're particularly effective," she added.

"After all, of what use is it for women to go into parliament? Why shouldn't we leave something as the exclusive province of men? I think it's much better for a woman to take care of her home and bring up children. Of course, Lady Astor has children. But what I mean to say is, I should be too busy to go in for politics, and I don't see how any woman with children can spare the time.

"Of course," she added, "the time may come when we have women diplomats, and so on—but I rather hope not."

Not that she disapproves of women being on "local boards, interesting themselves in child health and welfare work." Nor does she disapprove of women doing political organization work. She does that among the factory women in West Birmingham, her husband's constituency. But she never makes a speech herself, she said apologetically.

"I work altogether with the labor women in the constituency, which was my husband's father's before him. They work in factories, because they have to, but they work with me in politics for the love of, politics. All English women are interested in politics, more so than the women over here, I think, but I believe women can accomplish more outside of parliament than in it," she said.

Lady Chamberlain is staying at the Drake hotel with her son, Joseph A. Chamberlain. He is 6 feet 3 inches and has red hair, as has his mother. With Lady Chamberlain is her sister, Mrs. M. Dundas. Young Chamberlain is a lieutenant in the Coldstream guards. She has two other children, one of them 14 years old and the older, Diane, a debutante in London.

"I hope to avoid much social life while I'm in Chicago," she said in her direct manner. "Society people are the same the world over. I want to wander around by myself, watching things, seeing everything."

She spent the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Dawes in looking over the Century of Progress buildings under construction.

ROOSEVELT HIGH WINS FIRST PLACE FOR CHORAL SINGING

The champion high school chorus of Chicago was chosen last night at Orchestra hall. Contestants were from twelve senior high schools, whose choruses and glee clubs had already won their spurs in a preliminary contest of Dec. 11 in which all the high schools of the city participated.

Replacing Cyrena Van Gordon and Frida Leider, who were ill, the judges were Vanni-Marcoux, Rene Maison, and Rene Devries. Dr. J. Lewis Browne, director of music in the public schools, presented shields as awards to the four honored schools. H. Ray Stuater, supervisor of vocal music, presided, and Superintendent William J. Bogan spoke.

Chorus winners of the four coveted places were: First, Roosevelt; second, Morgan Park; third, Harrison, and fourth, Lake View.

Christian Teachers Urged as Need for Schools, Colleges

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

"Have religion recognized by schools of all grades," is the present cry of many Protestant church leaders. Spiritual affairs in relation to secular instruction were discussed by a group of clergymen assembled yesterday to honor the ten year pastorates of the Rev. Frederick L. Gratiot of the Episcopal Church of Our Savior, 530 Fullerton parkway, and of the Rev. Dr. D. N. Ester of the Diversey Parkway Evangelical church.

At about the same hour claims of religion in colleges were being canvassed by national leaders of the Congregational-Christian church in conference at the First Congregational church at Evanston. Before the Evanston sessions close op Thursday it is probable that resolutions will be presented protesting against such policies as that of the Carnegie Foundation, which demand that colleges be severed from denominational control before the foundation recognizes them for purposes of assistance.

Dr. D. N. Ester told of the religious educational experiment now being conducted in the Lake View public school district under the approval of the city board of education.

Pupils of various grades are excused from school at certain periods each week to attend outside classes of religious instruction. This plan has been in operation a little more than a year and several denominations are coöperating.

The main idea of the experiment, Dr. Ester asserted, is to find a greater opportunity for such instruction than now afforded in conventional Sunday schools. He declared the experiment can be successful only through fuller coöperation between various Christian communions.

Speaking to Episcopal clergymen yesterday, Bishop George Craig Stewart took much the same view as that taken by President Irving Mauer of Beloit college, Wisconsin, at Evanston the previous day. Both agreed that the campus and classroom religious problems lie in securing more thoroughly Christian teachers and not in demands for specific religious instruction in secular schools.

Bishop Stewart referred to the religious instruction carried on by the Evanston public schools. He declared the Christian character of each teacher is considered, as well as academic degrees and scholastic merit, when they are elected to the teaching staff. If the teachers are Christian, that fact together with home and church training for the pupils is the answer to the problem, he said.

"We need more Christian teachers and professors in schools, colleges and universities," Bishop Stewart said, "and not enlarged religious educational programs on the part of the various churches. I do not condemn the experiment in the Lake View district. But there are basic difficulties which we must face. There is the apathy of the children and the apathy of the parents. There are the large funds to be raised and the difficult problem of providing adequately trained instructors and leaders for the weekday classes.

"I am convinced that if we could pack our public schools, colleges and universities with instructors who themselves are Christians, we would have less difficulty with our children. And then, of course, there is the permanent and definite influence of the home life on the children. With proper religious training in the home the children's spiritual life is certain to be strengthened."

THE STAGE

THE new administration at the Blackstone theater has progressive ideas. Witness the following announcement, which marks a minor revolution in the economics of the theatrical business:

"The Blackstone company, Tracy C. Drake, president, and John B. Drake, treasurer, operating the Blackstone theater, makes the announcement that an arrangement has been completed with the ticket agencies of F. Couthoui company and Waterfall whereby tickets for the Blackstone may be purchased at box office prices at all branches maintained by these agencies. There will be no additional service charge and the established price on the ticket will be what the patron pays. This plan becomes effective Monday, Jan. 19."

The Adelphi theater, which has been inactive since the departure of "Mendel, Inc.," two weeks ago, will reopen Sunday evening, Feb. 1, with "When Women Love," a new comedy by Vincent Lawrence. Eugene O'Brien and Edna Hibbard will be its co-stars. Mr. O'Brien is now returning to the stage after a cinema career. Miss Hibbard, of course, is the same Edna who kept the drama alive at the Apollo all last summer in "Sisters of the Chorus." The company is now in rehearsal in New York.

Ralth T. Kettering, manager of the Adelphi for A. H. Woods, has just returned from New York with bookings that will keep this playhouse open through the rest of the season and probably through the summer as well. He announces that "Five Star Final," the play savagely satiring tabloid journalism, may be expected to come to the Adelphi next September. It has entered the "smash hit" class in New York, which means that it will stay there until spring at least. Arthur Byron has the leading rôle in this play.

Fred Stone's engagement in "Ripples" at the Illinois theater may end Jan. 31. On the other hand, the run may be extended for a week or two. Overnight changes of plan are the custom of the stage these days. . . . Last Sunday night's performance of "Ripples" for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America netted $3,101 in spite of the hostile weather conditions. . . . After "Ripples" departs, the next attraction at the Illinois may be Lenore Ulric in "Pagan Lady."

The impending première of "The Man in Possession" at the Selwyn means, of course, that "Berkeley Square" is now in the final week of its Chicago engagement. Leslie Howard will take the company to Los Angeles for a two weeks' stay at the Belasco theater, opening Feb. 2; and on Feb. 16 he will begin twenty weeks of service for the talking films, under the management of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer firm. After that it will be "home"—which means London—for Mr. Howard, and a new play next fall.

"I've an idea," says Mr. Howard, "that henceforth London, New York and Chicago will be the only cities of my stage appearances."

The "box office boys," organized as the Chicago Theatrical Treasurers' club, will give their twelfth annual ball Wednesday night, Jan. 28, in the Bal Tabarin room of the Hotel Sherman. Stage celebrities will contribute to the entertainment. The treasurers in charge of the affair are: George T. Rochford, the Erlanger; Al Eckhardt, the Grand Opera house; Max Hirsch, the Erlanger, and John P. Stroth, the Apollo.

Students Tell President How to Run College

Rollins' Chief to Put Plan Before Experts.

Winter Park, Fla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Rollins college students have some ideas of their own on how to run a college.

A voluminous report, submitted to President Hamilton Holt today by a student committee appointed him to study contents of course, recommended among other "improvements" that the college give students the opportunity to grade their professors, eliminate hazing, limit enrollment to 500 and remove any tendency to overemphasize football.

The students also would have the college degree recognized as "little more than a certificate that might well be discarded."

President Holt will submit the report to Professor John Dewey of Columbia university, and other educational experts meeting at Rollins this week to outline an idea group of courses for liberal arts colleges.

First of all the students would abolish the present class system of freshmen, sophomores, etc., and substitute two groups, a junior and senior division. The junior division would study health, mental and physical; value of money and time; the individual and the family; citizenship; appreciation of the arts; philosophy and religion, and "the world we live in."

The purpose of the senior division would be specialization, each student being given an opportunity to determine his main interests and study along those lines. In the senior division the committee recommended that there be neither required courses nor recitations.

As for the professors they would come under critical scrutiny. At the completion of a course the students would be given an opportunity to grade the professor on: [1] ability to put his subject across; [2] personality; [3] knowledge of the subject he teaches; [4] personal interest in the student; [5] personal interest in his work; [6] value to the college.

The report ridiculed the belief that all students can be given an education with the limits of four years and recommended that individual students "should be given every opportunity to cover as much ground as he could while working at his own speed."

Science Finds Bones of Americans of 20,000 Years Ago.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Proof has been found that man lived in the southwestern America 20,000 years ago with giant sloths for companions.

Dr. James A. B. Scherer, director of the Southwest museum, said today the first sure proof of a dawn age man's existence on this continent had been uncovered with the finding of human bones in a gypsum cave near Las Vegas, Nev.

Before the cave was excavated paleontologists and geologists believed man had appeared in North America not more than 10,000 years ago.

The first evidence yielded by the cave was a dart. It was found beneath refuse left by sloths, but was not considered sufficient proof that man had been there before those giant creatures disappeared from the earth. Later pieces of baskets were found. The bones of some luckless man, who probably was killed by a sloth or other animal which wanted his cave home, were found at last by Mark R. Harrington of the museum's staff.

JOB AS AMBASSADOR HAS TAKEN 50 YEARS OFF AGE, WILLYS SAYS

LODZ, Poland, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Patience, optimism and international common sense will pull the world through the prevailing depression to better times, United States Ambassador John N. Willys predicted at a dinner given in his honor tonight by the Lodz branch of the Polish Y. M. C. A.

He prefaced his remarks with the observation that becoming ambassador had taken fifty years from his age, in that as a diplomat he was once again like a little boy, supposed to be seen and not heard.

Nevertheless, he ventured to point out many reasons for optimism in both the United States and Poland.

The whole world, he said, was faced by the necessity of "regarding conditions with all the patience and equanimity we can muster, until the guidance of business leaders and the shaping of events shall bring about the essential readjustment necessary to save us all from the paradox precipitated by abundance."

Nervous People Will Benefit by Increase of Weight

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I heard of a case the other night of a physician recommending ten pounds of fat to a patient who was heading for a nervous breakdown.

"Nothing," the doctor told his patient, "like a good deposit of fat under the skin for a quieting effect on the nerves."

The fat prescription was offered about three months ago. The patient herself told me she put on twelve pounds. Her family threatens to throw her out on the street if she ever gets rid of them again, for now she is a human being in her relations with her intimate kin. And she has got rid of her obsessions, her gloomy spells, and her temper outbursts.

Emotionally unstable people have always been advised not to let their weight get below normal, and, if possible, to raise the normal weight requirements five or ten pounds. I did not know the woman referred to above before that evening meeting a few days ago, but her friends reported so great a change in her looks that I became interested.

"Nothing like a deposit of fat under the skin for a young face," one of them paraphrased the doctor's comment, thereupon hitting upon a vital beauty truth. There is nothing like fat under the skin for facial preservation. Wrinkles never would accrue, except for eye lines which seem to develop in spite of everything, if the fat deposit were not withdrawn and the skin left to sag.

I am constantly reminded of this fact when I look into the faces of women of 40 and 50, say, who are what you might call plump women. Their faces and necks never have the deeply etched lines of the skinny sisters. And there's a health about the coloring in their faces that is infinitely pleasing after so much of the pallish massaged skin seen about.

A point brought out by the woman who put on her ten pounds at the doctor's order has great beauty value also. She said that now she seems to need more sleep than she used to. Anyway, she gets it: I enjoys it and her face certainly looks as if it were not denied its rightful quota thereof.

Shorter Frocks Appear for Informal Evenings

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Paris fashions are turning practical again and they are doing it without losing one whit of their charm. The shorter evening gown is one of the distinctive signs of this change of heart. Patou, Chantal, and Lucile Paray, to name only a few Paris couturiers, are all making evening gowns that are not a bit longer than afternoon gowns, which is to say eight inches from the floor.

Of course, these shorter gowns are not intended for the grandest evening occasions. They are designed rather for the restaurant dinner, the informal party, the theater and so on, and they are constant life savers to the business girl, who is no longer obliged to trail to the office if she doesn't want to feel different on evenings when she can't go home to dress before the theater.

Lucile Paray makes the ideal short evening gown, sketched. It's all in black satin, which makes it inconspicuous, while its new, one sided, double looped pannier gives it a festive air.

The bodice is cut in a tunic effect, edged with two bias folds of the black satin. It's bloused at a slightly low waist line. The pannier is set into a cut on the left hip under five horizontal tucks. It's made of two loops of the satin and continues in a full circular panel that hangs a little below the skirt hem. The short sleeves are frilled by means of a group of vertical tucks on the outside of the arm. The irregular draped décolleté, tied in a bow on the left side and cut out below, strikes just the right note of dressy informality.

Young Chap Says He's Lonely; Wants Congenial Friend

BY DORIS BLAKE.

With all the girls looking for companions to share their loneliness, or rather dissipate it, it comes as a shock that a young man of 24 should appeal to this department for the name of a candidate. Yet it is "March's" wish that we help him find a girl, a considerable task for us to assume, but an inconsiderable one for him to tackle himself, one could presume.

He says he has a good income, more than sufficient to take care of two, to entertain two well. He's ghastly lonely and wants the companionship described as he wants nothing else in the world.

Offhand, one thinks that young men get all the breaks in the matter of keeping lonesomeness out of evening, Sunday, and holiday hours. One thinks in terms of girls as lonesome sufferers far more often than you visualize young men letting hours drift by in futile musings. They, one says to oneself, have the advantage of being able to project themselves as girls cannot do.

Why are they lonely, then? Why, if they are presentable, have pleasing manners and money enough to show a girl a good time, are they not having the pleasure they want?

Possibly because they are made of the same shy, retiring stuff that the lonely girls possess. They are waiting, like the quiet girls, to be pulled out of their shells by some one with more boldness than they can muster.

Possibly, again, they lack the same graces of manner, of making others feel at ease in their company, that the lonely girl so frequently suffers. Still again, perhaps, they may shut themselves off too much from contact of that very human sort so that should opportunity for companionship arise they are not equal to it.

Now, it is one of our unbroken rules that we furnish no partners for man or girl. We cannot assume so great a responsibility. But, above all, we feel that we do not need to play any matchmaking rôle. We might introduce two people and it would still be up to them to furnish the qualities that would make them attractive to each other. One has to know something about qualities that attract and repel.

One has to possess certain graces in addition to the solid virtues. And, chiefly, one has to believe in self before he (or she) can sell himself or herself to another as a bright solace for otherwise empty hours.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

STRAW STARVES PLANTS.

Applications of fertilizer sometimes work just opposite to the user's intentions, it has been discovered by Dr. F. B. Smith, assistant chief of soil chemistry at the State college, Ames, Ia.

He explains that micro-organisms in the soil often use straw, manure or other carbonaceous materials to convert nitrogen into forms unavailable for plant use—"locked up in the soil."

Protein substances are formed which plant roots cannot pry loose from the soil solutions. The result that is apparent is that the plants develop a greenish yellow color or become stunted. This happens often as the direct result of gardeners applying material which they thought would enrich the soil and cause more healthy plant growth, according to the soils specialist.

Straw in most cases was credited with the most serious results. In most cases it was found that ordinary farm manure caused the least nitrate assimilation or "locking up," except in a few tests, especially those made on a type of soil called Carrington silt loam. Prevention of injury to crops is possible through three methods. One is to apply manure or straw that is so thoroughly decomposed that little carbonaceous material will be placed in the soil.

The material may be applied late in summer or early in the fall, so that decomposition will be completed or well along by spring. If it is necessary to apply strawy manure or straw shortly before spring crop planting, Mr. Smith advises an addition of 35 to 50 pounds of nitrogen fertilizer to each ton of coarse material. This is calculated to make up for any assimilation the hungry micro-organisms may effect.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Keeping Out Agents.

One morning before Mrs. Brown [the woman I work for] had dressed, some one knocked on the door. Mrs. Brown had a hunch it was an agent, so she told me to say she was not home. I answered the door and a nice looking woman asked if Mrs. Brown were home.

Politely, I said, "I'm sorry, but she isn't."

"Well," she continued, "Mrs. Johns told me I should see her before I left."

I thought then she must be an old friend of Mrs. Brown, so I said, "Come in. I just told you she wasn't home because I thought you were an old agent."

Imagine how I felt when she stammered around and told me she was an agent. But I still believe she was as embarrassed as I was, or even more so.

HE CAN EAT ANYTHING NOW

Acidity, Heartburn Suffering Ended

Severe attacks of heartburn, pain from acidity no longer torture Frank [illegible] Youngstown, Ohio, who says "ACIDINE has helped me very much. I had been annoyed with acidity of the stomach and heartburn. These attacks, coming about one hour after eating, would sometimes be very severe. I find, as your advertise, that I can eat anything I wish, and eat heartily; then use ACIDINE and have no ill effect."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests, digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at Walgreen's. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Make refund money if not delighted.

Kitchen Party Hailed as New Thing for Season

BY THALIA ——.

EVERYBODY who's been invited to one of Leonard Prince's two forthcoming "kitchen parties" is tickled to death with the idea. The parties are to be given on the next two Saturday nights, and they are in the plural because the popular "Stu" could not possibly squeeze in all the people he wanted to ask at one time.

The parties are to be at the residence of Mr. Prince's mother and stepfather, the George Halleck Taylors, at 19 East Division street. The kitchen is to be all fixed up as a grill and the dinner served cafeteria style from a long table. Benches and tables in the chintz curtained laundry will accommodate the diners, and afterwards there will be backgammon in the library, contract somewhere else, and dancing downstairs.

Junior League's Home Talent Show Proves Big Success.

The Junior league's "home talent" recital at the Drake yesterday afternoon was a very nice party indeed. The Tower room was filled to the doors, and more chairs had to be dragged in to take care of the large attendance. The program displayed the quite remarkable virtuosity of the young musicians and its moments of informality were the most delightful of all. Pretty Louise Badgerow blushed and forgot part of the words of "Mighty Lak a Rose," and Helen Rend stood up before her last piece to say, "I've forgotten the 'Blue Bird,' so I'll play the 'Tango' [if you've ever heard Helen Rend's "Tango," you know what a treat that is].

Mrs. Merrill Hubbard was encored, and Jean Adams' torch songs "Without a Song" and "Lost in the World" almost brought down the house. The programs were typewritten—probably in keeping with the times. Afterwards there was tea and much sociability. Roberta Harvey looked darling in a Russian outfit of gray astrakhan and wool, and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. did, too, as she rushed about, helping out. She wore a grass green wool dress with brown shoes and a trim little hat with little plumes in the back.

Practically all the officers and board members of the Vocational Society for Shut-ins were reëlected at the annual meeting yesterday at the Casino. There were a number of reports, telling of the society's good work in keeping its wards busy and about the acquisition of a Ford so that more frequent visits could be made to the workers, and about an appreciable increase in membership and income during the last year.

After luncheon Lillian Nicolson played, Fannie Cole Semple sang, and Mrs. Laird Bell did two of her priceless monologues, "At the French Dressmaker's" and "Early Morning Call in the Suburbs." All three are members of the Vocational.

Dr. Wilhelm Kroll Will Speak After Dinner Party at Tavern.

What sounds like a most learned and imposing dinner party is the one to be given at the Tavern on Thursday evening in honor of Dr. Wilhelm Kroll, professor of classical languages at the University of Breslau. Dr. Kroll has been visiting professor at Princeton, and is to give a series of lectures at the University of Chicago. He speaks English fluently, according to the invitations, and will talk briefly after dinner. The committee arranging the dinner are Max Epstein, Adolph Kroch, Walter Lichtenstein, William F. Petersen, Ludwig Plate, Lessing Rosenthal, Otto L. Schmidt, Hugo F. Simon, Berthold L. Ullman, and Henry M. Wolf, and Mr. Rosenthal is taking care of the reservations.

In short——The Gilbert E. Porters, senior and junior, and Burt Porter, the Sterling Mortons, and Mrs. Walter Jarratt of the Drake are among the Chicagoans taking what is known as the Malolo boat train tonight, bound for Honolulu [the boat train method gets people to Honolulu in record time, six and a half days]. . . . the Stuart Logans have as a house guest an attractive St. Louis friend, Mrs. Auguste Chouteau . . . Ellen Root's role in "Rebound," to open at the Goodman next week, is similar to the one she did so successfully last winter in "Holiday" . . . the Tavern's annual meeting is to be on Monday, Feb. 9 [members are adjured to "please omit guests"].

From Florida to Opera, Crib Society and Concert.

More jots . . . Mrs. Charles Edward Brown has taken a house at Mountain Lake, Fla., and has gone there, taking the baby with her, to stay until April. . . . The Friends of Opera meeting is to take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Casino. . . . The George Richardsons of Lake Forest are visiting for a fortnight in Thomasville, Ga. . . . Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas John Ryan of Washington, D. C. [Mrs. Charles King Cormatt's son-in-law and daughter, the former Josephine Fish, announce the birth of a son on Saturday last. [Mrs. Cormatt is in Washington now.] . . . Mrs. E. I. Cudahy, president of St. Vincent's Crib society, and the board members are managing the box sale for the John McCormack benefit concert at the Opera house next Sunday night. . . . The George Rasmusens have gone to their Palm Beach place. . . . Mrs. Fred A. Poor gave a luncheon for Princess Alexandra of Schleswig-Holstein one day last week at the Bath club at Miami Beach.

In yesterday's mail bag—announcement of the annual meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of the Grant hospital to be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Albert F. Madden residence at 4 West Burton place . . . Junior Friends of Art monthly meeting to take place this afternoon at the Art institute [there's to be a lecture on "The Development of Modern Austrian Art, a tour of the Frederic Bartlett collection afterwards, and tea at the Tea Room] . . . a reminder of the fourth and last of the American Indian lectures at the Petit Gourmet—Fay Cooper Cole is to give it with illustrations on "Mound Builders of the Mississippi Valley." Whistling Thunder will sing and dance, and Mrs. James W. Young and Mrs. Sidney Clark will pour . . . invitation for a Chicago Drama league lecture by Hatcher Hughes on "Hell Bent for Goodness" and tea at the Blackstone on Monday, Feb. 2 [my goodness! Isn't the league doing a lot this winter].

SOUTH OBSERVES 124TH BIRTH ANNIVERSARY OF GEN. ROBERT E. LEE

Richmond, Va., Jan. 19.—(AP)—An affectionate south turned today to memories of Robert E. Lee on the occasion of the one hundred and twenty-fourth anniversary of his birth.

At Washington and Lee university in Lexington, where Gen. Lee took up his share of the task of rebuilding his beloved Virginia, students and alumni assembled today to hear his name praised by R. Gray Williams, Winchester, Va., lawyer, in a Founders' day oration.

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A large portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee, who ruled the United States Military academy as its ninth superintendent, was presented to that institution today by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The portrait replaces a small painting of the famous confederate leader. The presentation was made at ceremonies in Memorial hall by Mrs. L. M. Bashinsky, president-general of the society.

The portrait was painted by Ernest L. Ipsen and depicts Lee in the uniform of a lieutenant colonel of cavalry, the rank he held from Sept. 1, 1852, to March 31, 1855, while superintendent of West Point.

Belgian Prince Charles May Select Bride Among English Girls

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Jan. 19.—Because Prince Charles, youngest son of King Albert, and the British Ambassador to Belgium, Lord Granville, left at the same time hurriedly for London yesterday, Brussels is full of rumor tonight that there may be wedding bells ringing pretty soon at the palace here.

Prince Charles, so the story goes, might become engaged to an English lady of a wealthy Catholic family. THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent learns that Lord Granville decided to go to London after having talked with the king and queen at the Brussels court ball on Saturday night.

Prince Charles, 26 years old, is a tall blonde and is fond of England. He was there as a boy during the world war and served later in the British navy. He pays frequent visits to London. He is extremely popular in Belgium. He loves horses and motoring and he is considered a flirt.

Prince Leopold, an older brother, married Princess Astrid of Sweden four years ago and he has a son and a daughter.

Prince Charles' only sister, Princess Marie José, married Crown Prince Umberto of Italy last year.

Food Talk.

The average American feels that he treats himself to a real luxury when he eats caviar. It does seem a bit of extravagance when one compares the quantity one gets with what one pays. But as it is used on dainty sandwiches or canapes to make tempting appetizers it is not so expensive as one at first concludes.

There are two methods of preparing caviar for market. For fresh caviar only roe in the best condition is suitable. This is salted in the proportion of 2 to 5 pounds of salt to each 100 pounds of roe. As soon as a brine forms it is drained and put up in air tight packages or glass jars. This mild salting is confined to large, high grade roe.

Inferior grades of small eggs and a less uniform product in which the eggs are too soft or too far ripened for fresh packing is cured with 10 per cent salt. The roe is carefully stirred until a brine is formed and packed in barrels. Then it is drained and the eggs remaining are for export to be later repacked and cooked in tins for retail handling. This style is a staple food in Russia and eastern Europe and is the sandwich and canape caviar used here.

Eggs vary from small to as large as a pea. The color is generally black but varies in shades of yellow, gray, red, dark green, and brown. The real test of the quality of caviar is its flavor. Good flavor is found in any color and size. The yellow or gold caviar is rare and therefore quite expensive.

CAVIAR CANAPE.

Cut bread ¼ inch thick in diamond shaped pieces. Toast on one side. Dip the edges in melted butter, then in finely chopped parsley. Divide the top in 4 sections. Put the caviar in opposite sections and chopped hard cooked egg whites in the others. Cover egg white with mayonnaise and garnish with stuffed olive or pearl onion.

SPAGHETTI WITH TOMATO AND MUSHROOM SAUCE.

2 tbsp. chopped bacon or uncooked ham
1 slice onion
6 slices carrot
Bit of bay leaf
2 sprigs thyme
Sprig of parsley
2 cloves
¼ tsp. peppercorns
Few gratings nutmeg
2 cups tomatoes
3 tbsp. flour
1½ cubs meat stock
Salt and pepper
1 cup mushrooms, fresh or canned, cut in quarters

Have the spaghetti well drained and keep it hot. Cook bacon, onion, and carrot 5 minutes; add bay leaf, thyme, parsley, cloves, peppercorns, nutmeg and tomatoes and cook 5 minutes. Add flour blended with enough cold water to pour. As it thickens, add stock. Cover and cook in the oven 1 hour. Strain, add salt and pepper to taste and mushrooms. Cook 5 minutes and serve immediately with the cooked spaghetti.

Yield: Five servings. One serving: Total, 158 calories; protein, 26 calories; fat, 14 calories; carbohydrates, 118 calories.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the systems after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

Two Women Run Orchestra During Concert

BY HAZEL MOORE.

THE Women's Symphony orchestra presented their third program of the season last night at the Goodman theater to an audience both large and enthusiastic. Two soloists and two conductors ranged through a program that made no concessions for the so-called weaker sex.

The major number of the program was the Schumann D minor symphony. In this the orchestra responded to the first reappearance of Conductress Ebba Sundstrom in no uncertain fashion. It was an excellent performance in all respects.

Previous to this Gladys Welge had led the orchestra in the "Rosamunde" overture by Schubert, and accompanied Evelyn Levin Davis, concertmeister of the orchestra in a splendid performance of Mendelssohn's familiar violin concerto.

Miss Davis proved herself no mean artist. Easy to look at, she was also good to hear, playing with superlative tone and technic. After receiving applause and flowers, she donned the orchestral garb and returned to her position as first violin.

The second soloist of the evening was Arthur Landers, pianist, who chose the Cesar Franck Symphonic Variations as his offering. "From Blackbird Hills," by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, and "The Bamboula [rhapsodic Negro dance], by Coleridge-Taylor, closed a well arranged program.

Catholics Will Recall Council of Ephesus by Restated Doctrines

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 19.—Publication today in the official Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, of the Catholic church's plans to celebrate the fifteenth centennial of the council of Ephesus has aroused interest in ecclesiastical circles here almost equal to that caused by Pope Pius' recent encyclical on Christian marriage. It is the general belief that the ceremonies will mark an important date in the history of the church.

The first phase of the celebration will begin next Sunday with a commemorative mass in the historic church Santa Maya Maggiore. That the pope attaches extraordinary importance to the celebration is demonstrated by the promise to grant 100 years' indulgence to any one who attends the mass and receives the Eucharistic blessing.

The major ceremonies of the centennial will not take place until after Lent. They will continue throughout the summer, coinciding with the celebration of the anniversary of the issuance of the encyclical Rerum Novarum, which will draw delegations of capital and labor from all parts of the world in a pilgrimage to Rome.

It is learned that the celebration will be the occasion for a ringing restatement of Catholic "fundamentalism" against any tendencies towards relaxing and modernizing rigid adherence to the doctrines of the church.

Mother Writes of Child Victim of Overwork at School

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There are letters which present a case more vividly than I possibly could. The following is one:

"It is seldom I bother to write letters about other folks' problems, but just this time I hope you will print this in order to help some other mother. My little girl was 9 years old and the sweetest, healthiest child you would find anywhere. She was so smart in school they skipped her. She was in all the entertainments and chairman of the entertainment committee, as well as editor of the class paper.

"Suddenly I noted she was very nervous, couldn't sit still at all, and talked in her sleep. Her home work, especially the arithmetic, became a hideous nightmare, because she got so nervous and my husband would lose patience with her because he said she knew how to do it, but didn't want to. On top of all her other work my husband insisted on her practicing on the piano until the poor child just went to pieces.

"I couldn't stand her twitching and jerking, so took her to the doctor. He told me she had the dreadful St. Vitus' dance [chorea]. She was put to bed for ten weeks and what I have been through I wouldn't want any one else to have.

"She is much better, but not cured. After eighteen months I may still have to wait two or three years before she is fully recovered. Mr. dear Mrs. Bevans, write this in your own way so that foolish parents will take heed before it is too late."

If I could write a more forcible warning than this I surely would, but I cannot. This is not an isolated or even an extreme case, though in this instance the result in a definite nerve condition was of a very noticeable sort. A result might have been equally serious with some other child under the same circumstances, but it might not have shown itself so plainly on the surface. The effects might have been more insidious, but might have cropped up in a less recognizable form.

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.
In Desperate Circumstances.

"I am a man, out of work, and the father of six children. I used to be in the cleaning and dyeing business, but can't find anything in that line nor any other despite the fact that I can drive a wagon, have clerked in stores and am willing to do anything. The children all need clothing and I cannot buy it for them. Do you think you can get them what they need through your column? The girls are 9, 7, 5, and 4, and the boys are 3 and 2. G. M."

This family is in most desperate circumstances.

Here's Sanitary Protection that really fits, really protects

Kotex is specially designed to fit inconspicuously; and it is so soft and comfort-giving besides.

YOU know what a relief it is to feel entirely free of self-consciousness at times when sanitary protection is necessary. To feel well groomed, comfortable, at ease.

That's the feeling Kotex gives you. Kotex, with its skilful shaping; its rounded corners; its soft filler. And it is so easy to dispose of!

Why Kotex is so absorbent

It is amazingly absorbent, you know. And there is a special reason for that. You see, it is made of fold upon fold of a dainty material, and each of these delicate layers is a quick, complete absorbent in itself.

Kotex absorbs laterally, not in one concentrated area, but away from the surface. That is why it stays comfortable so much longer than the ordinary sanitary pad.

It may be worn on either side, with equal efficiency, with no danger of possible embarrassment from wrong adjustment.

Try Kotex yourself. Enjoy the same care scrupulous hospitals give their patients.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

IN HOSPITALS . . .

1—The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

2—Kotex is soft . . . not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness.

NORTHWESTERN RALLY BEATS MICHIGAN, 26-21

SCOVILLE, IN PRO CUE DEBUT AT 52, UPSETS LAYTON

Beats Champ, 50-35, in 55 Innings.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Frank Scoville, a sprinkler salesman from Buffalo, who was playing his first match as a professional, stunned the billiard fans of the nation last night when he defeated Johnny Layton, the world's three cushion champion, 50 to 35, at Benziger's recreation rooms, 31 East Congress street.

He met and defeated Layton in the first match of the world's three cushion championship tournament. Before the game started Layton was a 6 to 5 favorite to retain his crown. Scoville was quoted at 30 to 1 and was the extreme outsider in the field of eight.

Gets Going Early.

The game was under way some 15 minutes when the amateur from the east, who only a few days ago turned pro in order to play for the world's championship, demonstrated to the crowd and to Layton he was no set up. And as he continued to poke the ivory balls around with the skill of a great engineer and with the wizardry of a magician he had some 300 spectators cheering him as no billiard player has ever been cheered in Chicago. And when he clicked off his 50th billiard at the end of the 55th inning his followers in the crowd tried to carry him away on their shoulders.

Let's picture the beginning of this first match of the 1931 world's championship tournament. There wasn't a vacant seat in the smoke laden, yet brilliantly lighted, miniature amphitheater surrounding the same old brass bars which inclosed the playing arena when old Jake Schaefer was playing Frank Ives thirty years ago.

Introduce First Champion.

As the gong in the clock sounded the signal for the beginning of the match Leon Magnus, now 81 years old, who was the first world's three cushion champion, capturing it at St. Louis in 1878, was introduced.

Then came Layton, the pink faced champion, who claims Sedalia, Mo., as his home, but who really picked up his billiard skill in Kerry Patch, St. Louis. He was garbed in a dinner jacket, his stiff bosomed shirt glistening beneath the high powered light.

When the demonstration for Layton ended, the sprinkler salesman from Buffalo slipped into the playing section from some remote corner. Many thought he was just in there to brush off the table or present Layton with a cue. The crowd got its first shock when he was introduced as the world champion's opponent. For Scoville, mind you, had forgotten his Tuxedo. He was wearing a black sweater.

Schaefer Were One.

When we remarked about the missing Tuxedo and the absent "boiled" shirt to an old time billiard expert, he cautioned us to be silent.

"He's dressed all right," said the old timer. "Old Jake Schaefer wore that kind of a cardigan jacket thirty-five years ago."

Mr. Scoville is no youngster, mind you. He admits to being 52 and also confesses that he watched old Jake Schaefer play some games. He won the National amateur three cushion championship back as early as 1918, but preferred selling sprinklers for a livelihood to becoming a billiard professional. His head is bald. His eyes are black and they fairly sparkle. He is calm but shows you he is very determined.

He successfully negotiated hard and easy shots. He made billiards which Layton failed on. And when he went into the lead at the end of the 17th inning this calm, bald headed man from Buffalo looked like the champion. Layton looked like the novice who was trying to make a name for himself. But Layton's 17 to 10 lead, which he had rolled up in the first 16 innings, melted away so fast that neither the champion nor the spectators realized what was taking place.

Scoville Runs Six.

Scoville got a run of six. A little later he followed it with a cluster of four. Then he got three more. When he came along with another run of four Layton was in complete retreat. From the 30th inning on it was just a question of how much Scoville would win by. At times he was 15 and 16 balls in front. Layton was still in complete rout when Scoville scored the 50th billiard.

Only twice did the dark horse show signs of nervousness. He missed both balls on his first two shots and was penalized a point. When he was within one point of victory he miscued.

The tournament continues for ten days, with two matches scheduled each afternoon and one at night. Mr. Scoville may never recover from the surprise victory over the world's champion. If he plays the same sort of billiards there is liable to be a strange name at the top of the three cushion roster of notables.

LONDOS TOSSES GARDINI IN TWO STRAIGHT FALLS

Steinke and Zaharris Draw.

The pathway for the challengers to Jim Londos' heavyweight wrestling crown continues to be a rocky one. Renato Gardini tried last night to defeat the Greek at the Broadway armery and was tossed in two straight falls before a crowd of 3,000 in the feature match.

Jimmy required 27:16 to gain the first fall in a spectacular rally and came back after the intermission to defeat his Italian rival in 3:46.

The match was rough from the start, but Londos showed his superiority most of the way. Londos zoomed Renato to the mat with a flying tackle to set the stage for the first fall. He used two flying mares, his airplane spin and clamped on a headlock as the final gesture.

The second fall started out to be a duel of headlocks, but Jimmy took command when he clamped on seven in a row and Gardini was through for the evening.

Hans Steinke, giant German contender, drew with George Zaharris, in one of four supporting matches. They wrestled for a 20 minute time limit battle.

Kola Kwariani, Russian, disposed of Milo Steinborn, German strong man, in 12:40 with a body lock.

Fred Brobmler, Iowa, used his pet hold, the body scissors, to down Pat McKay, Kentucky, in 20:47 of a spirited match.

Frank Brunovicz, New York, defeated Ben Ginsberg with a reverse body lock in 11:41.

Frank Judson of Detroit, defeated Jack Wagner in two straight falls last night in the main attraction at the Dreamland arena before 1,500 people. Judson won the first fall in 10:51 with a crotch hold and the second with a body scissors and wrist lock in 19:33.

Johnny Meyers, former middleweight champion, and Jack Sterling wrestled 30 minutes to a draw. Ton Hadjich tossed Rudy Hoffman with a head lock in 12:19. Pietro Baccini threw Steve Russo in 15:24 with a scissors and arm lock. In the opening bout it took Nick Lutze 15 minutes and 36 seconds to toss Dick Soldat with a flying mare.

lead. That was reduced to 1 point, but again they went ahead to hold the lead until the last gun.

Schoening Tops Gophers.

Capt. Harry Schoening, who missed two free throws in the last 25 seconds of the Chicago game Saturday night, made it up tonight. Four times he hit the nets and three times he found the laces for free throws to compile a total of 11 points for the evening's work. But Earl Loose and Don Boudy were just as effective, with Cielusak doing valuable work at guard until he was sent out of the brush on four personal fouls.

Paul, husky center, was the Badger's best scoring bet with four field goals and a free throw. But it was largely the all around work of Capt. Chmielewski that kept them in the fight.

INDIANA, 28; IOWA, 20

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Indiana's brilliant spurt in the final ten minutes of play enabled the Hoosiers to defeat the University of Iowa basketball team here tonight, 28 to 20. It was Indiana's third victory in four Big Ten games, and Iowa's third defeat in the same number of conference contests.

The Hawkeyes took an early 7 to 1 lead, the game being ten minutes old before Indiana scored from the field. Indiana went ahead on some spectacular shooting by Miller, but the score was tied, 13 to 13, at half time.

Indiana got a two point margin early in the second half, only to have the Hawkeyes take the lead, 19 to 16, on a pair of baskets by Koser. The Hawkeyes were held scoreless during the remainder of the period except for Koser's free throw just before the final gun, while Dickey, Indiana center, led a twelve point Hoosier rally.

Cleveland Buys Third Baseman from Waco

Cleveland, O., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Outright purchase of Ralph Winegarner, third baseman, from the Waco, Tex., club was announced tonight by the Cleveland Americans. With completion of the deal it was understood Winegarner will be left at New Orleans this summer for seasoning to replace George Detore, promoted from the Pelicans to the local club last season.

Gorman Rallies to Win Decision from Peters

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Staging a comeback with a two fisted attack, Britt Gorman of Minneapolis, 113½, defeated Ernie Peters of Chicago, 115½, in ten rounds here tonight. Peters scored a knockdown in the fifth.

MICHIGAN DEER HUNTERS LEAVE TRAIL OF GOLD

BY BOB BECKER.

The 400,000 small game and deer hunters in the state of Michigan literally left a trail of gold behind them last season, when they took up their arms and went into the field for sport. According to figures on the money expended by this great army of hunters no less than $12,000,000 was paid out by them in order to have their fling with shotguns and rifles.

Thus the 400,000 move into the "big business" class and hunting in Michigan is shown as a sport in which the jingle of gold can be heard quite plainly. To pile up that $12,000,000, each rifle or shotgun toter averaged $30. This certainly is low for the duck and deer hunters. We couldn't chart any kind of a waterfowl or deer hunt on that budget.

Equipment Worth Big Sum.

Michigan estimates that the 400,000 small game and deer hunters also have approximately $10,000,000 invested in guns and other equipment which is used for hunting, such as boots, hunting coats, and gun cases. The department of conservation figures that this investment has an annual depreciation charge of about $1,000,000 a year and it takes about $5,000,000 to cover the items which the hunters buy each year under the head of "sundries."

Included in this annual expense of $12,000,000 is a gasoline item of about a half million. In order to enjoy their sport the boys contribute approximately $600,000 in license fees. This money goes into the game protection fund of the state.

Brings Business to State.

These figures serve to stress the importance of waterfowl and upland game shooting in a state, if for no other reason than the income which it produces. Laying aside, for the moment, the recreational value of a sport which takes thousands into the country and teaches them the use of firearms, the hunting army keeps the gas stations busy and makes store clerks trot out merchandise.

Fortunately Michigan is using the best brains and all that science can do to solve its conservation problems. The same cannot be said of many other states, which struggle along in a haphazard, indifferent fashion, wasting the hunter's money and setting up no constructive program except that of building a political machine with conservation money.

HIGHWAY DRIVING TOO RISKY FOR RACING CHAMP

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Billy Arnold doesn't like to drive an automobile fast, that is, on the highways. It's too dangerous.

"It's risky with all those Sunday drivers to outguess," the country's auto racing champion for 1930 and winner of the Indianapolis speedway grind, last year, explained. "Those amateur speed demons who like to tell their neighbors how they 'hit 70' on the Boston Post road never have had a front tire go out when they were making 50 miles an hour. A blowout would muffle them, sure enough."

Auto racing—on a track—is hard on the hands, Arnold said, and on the shoulders. He thinks the football he played at the University of Illinois helped him develop muscles that aid him in his driving. He won $60,125 in prize money last year, but he does not rate for the money.

"If I had a million dollars salted away in the bank I'd still be driving racing cars," he said. "What good is money to you if you can't do the thing you like best?"

Babe Stribling Defeats Stevens in Ten Rounds

Springfield, Mo., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Hubert [Babe] Stribling, Macon, Ga., decisively outpointed Roy Stevens, Springfield welterweight, in a 10 round boxing bout here tonight. Stevens was the aggressor throughout but Stribling hit him at will. Stribling weighed 143; Stevens, 147.

Shakeup Is in Offing for Shamrocks

A shakeup in the lineup of the Shamrocks for Wednesday night's game at the Stadium with the Duluth Hornets is probable. Tip O'Neill, one of the most promising rookie forwards in the American Hockey league, and a new defense man whose identity was not revealed, are expected additions.

Weak defensive play has marked the efforts of the Shamrocks since Bouncer Taylor was forced out of the game with a broken ankle. The defense man the Shamrocks are after is said to be one of the best in the league, and is sought either on a trade or by purchase.

Injuries have reduced the Shamrock available playing strength to nine men. Capt. Corbett Dennenay is still out with a broken foot suffered three weeks ago, and Pnewee Wiseman was kept out of Sunday's game at Tulsa on account of a torn ligament in his knee.

O'Neill will automatically revert to the Shamrocks if the St. Louis club does not exercise its option on the player today. Inasmuch as Manager Kenny MacKenzie has recently signed up several Winnipeg stars, the Shamrocks hope the Fliers will surrender their option.

The Shamrocks at noon today will hold their first practice in three weeks. A heavy schedule and lack of ice at the Stadium have prevented their holding much needed workouts.

JOE SHARKEY SPOILS HANSEN'S COMEBACK PLAN

Joe Sharkey, Albion, Mich., middleweight, spoiled Haakon Hansen's comeback in the ring last night by winning a decision over the Norwegian after eight fast rounds at White City.

Spotting his opponent almost ten pounds, Sharkey scored repeatedly with a sharp left hook and captured five of the eight rounds. There were no knockdowns. Hansen, back in the ring after a six months' rest, weighed 158½; Sharkey scaled 149¾.

In the eight round semi-final Harry Dillon, Winnipeg light heavyweight, won a technical knockout over Al Wilkins of Niles, Mich., in the sixth round. Wilkins suffered a badly bruised eye and the referee refused to let him continue.

BANKING POWER GROWS IN SPITE OF DEPRESSION

Big Banks' Deposits Up 300 Millions.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The vast banking power of the United States expanded last year in spite of depression. And more and more, both as the result of mergers and a trend for funds to flow to the larger institutions, this banking power is being concentrated. These and other interesting data are presented in a compilation by the American Banker.

Deposits aggregating $22,158,278,318 were concentrated in the 100 largest American banks at the end of 1930. This marked an increase of more than $300,000,000 during the year. Moreover, the deposits of these banks have increased more than $7,000,000,000, or almost 50 per cent, since 1924.

At the same time, the aggregate capital stocks of these banks were $1,566,444,566 at the end of 1930, marking an increase of more than 93 per cent over 1924. Moreover, total surplus and undivided profits now stand at $2,256,396,034, an increase of 110 per cent since 1924.

Stronger Than Ever.

It is evident from these comparisons that the big American banks are in stronger position than ever before. While their deposits have increased nearly 50 per cent in the last six years, their total invested capital, which now stands at $3,622,840,600, has increased more than 104 per cent. Whereas total invested capital six years ago was less than 12 per cent of deposits, now it is more than 16 per cent.

As the results of mergers last year, the United States now boasts the largest bank in the world. It is the Chase National bank, New York, whose deposits of $2,073,775,993 exceed those of the great British banks, according to their latest statements. In addition, New York has nineteen other banks ranking among the 100 largest American institutions.

The other eighty ranking banks are located in 30 other cities, as follows: Chicago, Philadelphia, and San Francisco, eight each; Pittsburgh, five; Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles, and Boston, four each; St. Louis, Kansas City, Buffalo, and Baltimore, three each; Minneapolis, Cincinnati, Rochester, N. Y., Jersey City, and Providence, two each, and Milwaukee, St. Paul, New Orleans, Brooklyn, Tulsa, Okla., Oklahoma City, Savannah, Atlanta, Dallas, Seattle, Portland, Ore., and Syracuse, N. Y., one each.

How Chicago Banks Rank.

The Chicago banks among the 100 largest American institutions and their rankings follow: Continental Illinois Bank and Trust, fifth; First National, thirteenth; Foreman-State National, twenty-ninth; First Union Trust and Savings, thirty-fifth; National Bank of the Republic, thirty-sixth; Central Trust Company of Illinois, thirty-eighth; Harris Trust and Savings, fifty-fourth; Northern Trust, ninetieth. Most of these banks raised their ratings compared with a year ago.

Bank deposits throughout the country moved up during the second week of this month, according to the federal reserve board's weekly report on the position of the reporting member banks. Their total deposits on Jan. 14 were $20,921,000,000, which marked an increase of $57,000,000 over the preceding week and also a gain of $676,000,000 over Jan. 15, 1930.

With a slack demand for credit both for commercial purposes and speculation, the banks turned their excess funds to investment in government securities. They increased such holdings by $57,000,000 during the week but disposed of $25,000,000 of other securities. Their loans on securities declined $131,000,000 and all other loans receded $11,000,000.

Many Transport Regulation Plans Lack Merit: Scrutator

BY SCRUTATOR.

The air is thick nowadays with proposals for changing the relative status, as to regulation, of the railroads and competing forms of transportation. A great many of them lack the merit of practicality.

Prominent advocates of the cause of the rail carriers protest that there is great unfairness in compelling them to live under a strict system of regulation by the interstate commerce commission and permitting highway trucks and busses and waterway carriers to govern themselves virtually as they will so far as rates and scheduled service are concerned.

They desire equality of regulation for all, but assert that this cannot be had except by placing the competing transportation agencies under the same strait jacket conditions the rails endure. In regard to trucking interests this probably is the most impractical of all the suggestions.

Extent of Regulation.

It is conceivable that common carrier trucks doing an interstate business can be brought into regulation by the interstate commerce commission. They could be compelled, if the regulations were enforced strictly enough, to charge certain rates and to maintain certain schedules, to issue their securities only by authority of specific law and to keep their financial standing high enough to guarantee reparations for losses and damages to shippers when they occur.

It would be, however, difficult to conceive any theory of law that would practically limit the range or the rates charged by contract haulers. Beyond these lie the corporation or individually owned trucks which carry goods only for their owners. More than 90 per cent of the trucks now competing with the railroads, on the authority of Ralph Budd, are noncommon carriers.

The question arises, naturally, as to why hard roads by the hundreds of thousands of miles have been built in the United States. A fairly correct view is that they were built to aid in transportation of goods as well as for the pleasure of the motorist in his own car. Certainly the argument about "getting the farmer out of the mud" was freely used in getting them built.

Sees Weak Argument.

Obviously there should be regulations as to the size and destructive power to the roads that can be permitted truck owners. Most states have laws of this kind. They may need revision; many need enforcement. But the argument that the truck operator, if he gives a service that is worth the money to the shipper, is stealing something of the public's right of way, does not hold up well.

The public which taxes itself to build and maintain the roads is, in fact, getting a little dividend if the transportation service is better or cheaper over the highway than over the privately owned railroad right of way.

No one seriously contends that the railroads should be thrown completely out of regulation at once. It is hardly likely that such a course would enable them to take away much trucking business up to a couple of hundred miles. Merchants have come to expect a good deal of store door delivery. Railroads should be permitted, if they wish, to enter freely into giving such service on a competitive basis. Merchandising and distribution have been revolutionized in many ways by highway transportation, and this condition must be met.

Repeats Proposals.

Some tentative suggestions often made as to how regulation may be lifted from the rails are repeated here.

First, allow rail carriers to get competitive business, like that from Chicago to the Pacific coast, on a competitive rate basis, without disturbing noncompetitive rates. Next, give them a more liberal abandonment policy where roads are not paying. It has been urged also that the idea that mileage as the governing factor in freight rates should be discarded.

These appear to be more feasible than any proposals to regulate trucks so much that the rails can take business from them.

EASY CREDIT CAUSES SHARP DROP IN NET OF RESERVE BANK OF N. Y.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The effect of an era of extreme ease in credit conditions is mirrored in the annual statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank, issued today, which shows that net earnings dropped from $12,263,000 in 1929 to $4,588,000 in 1930.

Under the federal reserve act, member banks, holding stock equal to 3 per cent of their capital and surplus, receive dividends at the rate of 6 per cent, payable semi-annually, so that all but $574,605 was distributed in that manner. The rest was carried to surplus.

Dividends were larger, although the paid in capital shrank from $67,301,450 to $65,577,650 due to a reduction in capital of banks and the closing of the Bank of United States, a private institution which was in no way connected with the government. Dividends, however, are paid on the average amount of capital outstanding.

The shrinkage in income was mainly attributable to the reduced earnings from loans to member banks and discounting of eligible paper for them, the rates on which were, of course, much lower in 1930 than 1929. The rediscount rate dropped from 6 per cent in 1929 to 2 per cent at the end of 1930. Earnings from this type of business alone dropped from $12,492,000 in 1929 to $1,910,000 last year. Loans and investments decreased $100,000,000 to $560,352,000.

The reserve bank's cash reserves jumped in a year from 800 millions to 1,047 millions.

Reserve Reports on Trade Decline in Last Two Months

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Further decline in output and employment in most manufacturing industries and in wholesale prices of important commodities during November and December of last year was reported today by the federal reserve board in its monthly review of business and financial conditions.

"Business activity, which began to recede in midsummer, 1929, after the rapid expansion of the preceding year and a half, continued to decline at a rapid rate during the last half of 1930, following a brief recovery in the spring," the review said.

"Almost all branches of industry shared in the decline. Employment declined, and total income of both wage earners and farmers decreased. At the same time wholesale prices throughout the world declined considerably and retail prices reflected this decline, although in smaller degree. Conditions in the money market were easy during the year, and money rates declined to low levels.

Those Affected Most.

"During the entire period of declining activity, which has lasted about eighteen months, the major groups of American industries most affected have been building, in which the decline began as early as 1928; the automobile and steel industries, and their accessories, and the railroads, which have reflected reduced activity in other lines of industry.

"Agriculture output for the year 1930 was smaller than in the preceding year, largely as a result of the prolonged drought. At the close of the year stocks of raw materials, especially agricultural products, were large; in some manufacturing industries, notably cotton textiles, automobiles, and tires, inventories were reduced considerably in comparison with the preceding year."

Turning to employment, the board said it had declined substantially in the last eighteen months.

"Manufacturing industries which employed approximately 8,600,000 wage earners in June, 1929, when industrial activity was at its height, had laid off about 1,000,000 workers by June, 1930, and by mid-November, the latest date for which comprehensive data are available, another 600,000 had been laid off, partly in response to seasonal influences.

"Allowing for the usual seasonal changes, it is estimated that the decline in number of wage earners in factories during this period was approximately 21 per cent, a relatively less severe decline than in the depression of 1920-'21. Total pay rolls for manufacturing industries have shown a decline of nearly one-third since June, 1929. . . . In aggregate, factory wage payments amounted to about $97,000,000 in the month of June, 1929, and by November, 1930, they had been reduced by approximately $300,000,000.

"In this same period railroads laid off about 280,000 workers, while employment at coal mines, which was smaller in the summer of 1930 than in 1929, subsequently showed a seasonal increase."

The board said international trade had declined in value, reflecting both the influence of declines in prices and a reduced demand by consumers, while profits of American corporations were estimated to be 30 to 40 per cent less than for the preceding years. In the first three-quarters of 1930, it continued, those profits have been 35 per cent smaller.

Retail Sales Fall.

Reduction in earnings of industrial workers and in farmers' income, the review continued, was reflected in decreased volume of retail sales to consumers. Prior to the holidays department stores sales, it said, dropped off 14 per cent.

Reduced volume of business activity, the board said, was reflected in a decreased demand for bank credit and money rates moved downward and the low levels brought about a gradual rise in bond prices. In the autumn bonds declined, a factor of which was sale of bonds to establish losses for income tax purposes.

Preliminary statistics for the year, the review said, showed there had been 1,326 bank suspensions in 1930, as compared with 642 in 1929 and 491 in 1928. Of the suspended banks, 138 reopened. The suspended institutions had deposits of $903,954,000, while the reopened banks had deposits of $54,678,000. The failures in 1930 brought the total for the last ten years to 6,968.

New York, Jan. 19.—There was hardly enough business on today's stock market to keep the ticker moving and what there was represented merely the time-marking give and take activities of the rear guard professional element.

Leading shares moved within narrow and irregular limits and numerous issues failed to appear on the tape at all. The turnover was only 1,114,830 shares.

Trend is Lower.

Price trends were generally toward lower levels. A fairly long list of issues declined from a fraction to more than a point and several important stocks touched new low levels for the year or longer. A study of the final tables shows that the average run of stocks are now within striking distance of their lows of the bear market of recent memory, with the tendency as established by the last three or four sessions toward still lower levels.

Bear interests launched a rather blustery little drive at the opening with a view to facilitating this downward movement but their hopes of bringing on liquidation from the interior failed of its purpose. Thereafter they settled back and took things easy. The opposing faction couldn't

LOREE DECLARES VAN SWERINGENS WON'T GET D. & H.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Col. J. Taber Loree, vice president and general manager of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, said today there was little or no possibility of the Van Sweringen interests acquiring the Delaware and Hudson.

Col. Loree's statement was made in commenting on a dispatch from Providence stating that William H. Boyd, general counsel for the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad and adviser to the Van Sweringen brothers, and President John J. Benet of the Chesapeake and Ohio, a Van Sweringen road, would announce plans for extending their road to Providence. The proposed connection, it had been reported, would be made through acquisition of the Delaware and Hudson, connecting with the Boston and Maine at Mechanicsville, N. Y.

Ward Baking Factions Canvass Stockholders

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—Stockholders of the Ward Baking corporation who have been canvassed recently for proxies were bombarded today with additional statements from the management and a group headed by George K. Morrow, chairman of the Gold Dust corporation, which is trying to oust the present management. A special meeting of stockholders has been called at Baltimore for next Monday by the Morrow group, which announces proxies for over 60 per cent of the stock favoring a new management. Ralph S. Kent, president of Ward Baking, defended the management and denied the company had been purchasing its preferred stock in the market to retain control.

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING MOVES SLOWLY ALONG

Auburn Auto Earnings Equal to $5.43 a Share.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Business moved slowly on the Chicago Exchange yesterday with stocks keeping well within the confines of last week's narrow trading area.

To that considerable section of the La Salle street community which favors the long side there was encouragement in the fact that no fresh selling of substantial volume appeared. To some Saturday's unimpressive close had boded evil, but their fears were not realized.

Closing quotations told the story in fractions. It was about a fifty-fifty split in gains and losses. The annual reports which were issued during the day furnished no arguments for the bulls but they were brushed aside because the business world has long since discounted the statements and is awaiting somewhat impatiently for the initial reports on first quarter trade.

Auburn Net Is $1,018,331.

Auburn Automobile company issued its statement for the year ended Nov. 30, showing net earnings of $1,018,331, equivalent to $5.43 a share on 187,533 shares outstanding, as compared with $3,303,200, or $19.20 a share, earned on the same capitalization in the preceding fiscal year.

Current assets at the close of the period stood at $12,270,159 against current liabilities of $2,830,735. Inventories amounted to $5,158,143, as compared with $8,753,850 at the beginning of the period.

In a letter accompanying the report President E. L. Cord said: "It should not be necessary to tell you that the company has been affected, like practically all others, by the curtailed public buying power and other adverse conditions that existed during 1930.

"The company has continued to spend considerable sums for the design, engineering, and amortization rates, as in the past. The management views the future with conservative optimism."

Estimates placed Borg Warner corporation earnings at about $2,650,000, equivalent to less than $2 a share after preferred dividends for the year ended Dec. 31. This would compare with $7,682,590, or $6.02 a share, on common in 1929.

Shows $19,397,594 Assets.

An interim statement as of Jan. 10 of the National Securities Investment company, of which the allotment certificates are traded in the exchange, disclosed net assets of $19,397,594. This is equivalent to $108.79 per share on the outstanding preferred stock. The allotment certificates, which are exchangeable for one share of preference and one share of common on Aug. 1 this year, closed yesterday at 66. The common closed at 4¾.

The statement revealed that $4,785,204, or 24 per cent, of the total assets was in cash. Securities held valued at cost or market, whichever is lowest, totaled $14,838,728.

Loss on securities sold since July 1, 1930, the start of the fiscal year, was $146,670. An unrealized loss of $4,420,361 was written off. During the period the company purchased for retirement 10,550, or its allotment certificates. Income, including a discount of $357,487 on certificates bought, totaled $796,271. Expenses and interest paid amounted to $559,500. Stock dividends were not treated as income.

The continued pressure on the Greeaby-Grunow issues has lent new life to old rumors. A statement from officials clarifying the company's position is expected shortly.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Bond issues called in whole or in part during 1930 numbered 966, against 1,177 in 1929, and were for a total of $667,533,102, against $1,059,140,940 in 1929, according to the Standard Statistics company. The decline in 1930 was registered in the industrial and real estate divisions, as utilities, rails, and foreigns all showed an increase.

Lyon Metal Products, Inc., manufacturer of storage and display equipment made of steel, office furnishings, shelving, automotive parts, and lockers, announces the appointment of Erwin, Wasey & Co., Ltd., to direct its advertising.

New Fixed Trust, which is sponsored by Hemphill, Noyes & Co. and James C. Willson & Co. of New York and Louisville, is to be called "Low Priced Shares." The trust shares will be offered on the basis of 50 shares for each unit of 25 stocks held in the portfolio, and the holder of 50 of the trust shares is given the option of converting them into the underlying 25 shares of stock.

The Chicago Bank of Commerce has been appointed real estate loan correspondent in Chicago for the Provident Mutual Life Insurance company of Philadelphia. In connection with this new business, George W. Springer has been appointed a vice president of the bank.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

Charles T. O'Neal, president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway, said that car loadings have shown a noticeable upturn in the last week compared with the like period in December and that passenger traffic, especially to Florida points, is only slightly below a year ago. "At several important points in our territory," he said, "industrial activity in a number of plants has been rising since the beginning of the year and there appears to be a feeling of conservative optimism among industrialists along our lines."

Last year's volume of business transacted by Manufacturers and Dealers Finance corporation, Chicago house engaged in commercial banking, was $570,000 ahead of 1929, according to Edward N. Meyers, president of the organization. Profit before chargeoffs was approximately the same as in 1929, he said.

Cyrus H. McCormick Jr., vice president of the International Harvester company, stated that the outlook for the coming year indicates that the Canton, Ill., works will show an increase in production over last year. The Canton plant, after operating on a capacity basis until midsummer of 1930, has been on a part time schedule and only recently began adding to the force of workers.

The Standard Oil Company of New York announced it had increased the tank wagon price of gasoline one cent a gallon effective in New York and New England. The retail price remains unchanged.

Sales of electric refrigerators in 1930 totaled 1,002,000 units, of which 770,000 were household and 232,000 commercial machines. Dollar volume was $223,320,000 household and $156,800,000 commercial, or a total of $380,120,000, according to the Electrical Refrigeration News.

Employment in the twenty Chevrolet plants in twelve cities during the week ended Jan. 10 increased by 1,951 men, compared with the last previous week, bringing the total employment on that date to 34,266.

The Southern Railway system has ordered 30,655 tons of rails from the Tennessee Coal and Iron Railroad company and 4,445 tons from Bethlehem Steel.

A construction program of $10,100,000 for 1931 was outlined in an announcement by officials of the Southern New England Telephone company.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Sharp fluctuations in Hammond Clock featured an otherwise quiet Chicago curb session yesterday. Opening at 25, nearly 2 points below the last previous sale, the issue tumbled to 21 and then snapped back to 25, for a net decline of 2¾ points. Ford, Ltd., was off a point, and gas and oil stocks were easier. Chicago Rapid Transit common added 2 points on a single trade. A block of 1,110 shares of Greenebaum changed hands at a fractional advance. Corporate Trust Shares and Selected Income Shares were steady.

NOW WALL ST. BEFRIENDS LOW PRICED STOCKS

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Wall street is not so inclined to turn up its nose at low priced stocks as it once was.

This tendency appeared today in the announcement of the formation of a fixed investment trust based on 25 stocks selling at an average price of slightly more than $12 a share, on the theory that these low levels present most thoroughly deflated prices.

Stock splitups at the 1929 high prices, together with the drastic decline since then, has reduced the average prices of stocks to the lowest levels in years. The average price as of the first of the year of all shares listed on the stock exchange was $37.80 a share, against $89.10 a share two years previously.

Out of nearly 600 issues traded in today's market, approximately 200 closed at $

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 42,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep.

Top lambs soared to $9.50 yesterday, a new high for the season, which stands within 15c of the highest paid for lambs since last August. Receipts at 16,000 were smallest for Monday since the middle of last November.

Hog receipts at 83,000, the second largest in three years, sold at steady to 10c lower prices, the bulk of sales holding about in line with the close of last week, despite the immense supply unloaded on the market. Cattle exhibited weakness when only 15,000 arrived and had to go at slightly lower prices.

More than half of yesterday's hog receipts were billed direct to the three larger houses from outside points, and, with smaller packers, city butchers, and shippers buying a combined total of 30,000 head, buyers were unable to weaken the general market. Spots were off 5@10c, the extreme top at $8.25 showing 10c loss, but the top price was paid for a greater number of hogs than at the close of last week. Only 5,000 remained at the close.

Armour, Swift, and Wilson handled a combined total of 50,000 head. The general average was unchanged at $7.75, but compares with $10.10 on the corresponding day in 1930. Two years ago the average was $9.00 and three years ago $8.30.

Hog Futures Steady.

Little change was noted in the hog futures market. March and April light were bid $9.10 and February light carried bids of $8.50 although no offers were made in the light hog class. March mediums were offered at $8.60 and bid $8.35, while April mediums were bid $8.50. March heavy were offered at $8.65.

Yesterday's cattle offerings came on a weak and unsatisfactory market, which developed into a peddling affair soon after the few loads of top kinds had changed hands. Only highly finished steers brought last week's prices, others showing losses of 15@25c near the close when some had to go over in first hands due to the low level of bids.

Price, 1,433 lb. steers topped the list at $12.10. Few other sales passed $12.00, while the bulk sold at $8.25@11.00. Cows and heifers lost 25c more yesterday. Calves were weak to 50c lower.

Lambs in Demand.

Competition for slaughter lambs was brisk when supplies fell short at all points, resulting in a quick clearance at 25@35c higher prices. Sales were 50@60c above last Friday's market, the top at $9.50 comparing with $8.60 the middle of last week and with a low of $7.75 last November.

Large local packers were among the most aggressive buyers and some shipping orders went over unfilled, due to the scarcity of top kinds. About 25 to 30 decks of lambs reached $9.25@9.35. Yearlings shared in the upturn, the best going to $8.00, highest in five months.

WHEAT SELLS OFF EARLY, BUT BOUNCES BACK

July Closes ½c Above the Saturday Price.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain traders were bearish early yesterday as the result of rain and snow over the eastern part of the winter wheat belt and a slow shipping demand for cash corn.

Prices declined moderately, but toward the last many of the pit element reversed their position and evened up for the presentation of the Wickersham report. The buying disclosed a lack of pressure and all grains rallied sharply. Aggregate trade was not large and the markets were easily influenced.

July wheat, after selling off 1c early to a low of 65c, rallied and finished at 66⅝@66¾c, or ½c higher than on Saturday. Old crop months were ¼c lower, March being 80¼c and May 82¼c. The greater part of the news on wheat was of a bullish character, but the trade paid little attention to it toward the last. A decrease of 1,272,000 bu in the domestic visible supply in the face of a liberal movement to terminal markets was a surprise to the trade, but was not a market factor of consequence. Total stocks are 183,766,000 bu, against 168,583,000 bu last year.

Farm reserves of wheat in Kansas on Jan. 1 were estimated at 40,000,000 bu, against 30,000,000 bu a year ago, and on the basis of the harvested crop without allowance for carryover the disappearance since July 1 aggregated 116,000,000 bu, or only 8,000,000 bu more than during the same period in 1929, despite the fact the yield was 18,000,000 bu larger.

Export Demand Less Active.

Foreign demand for Manitoba wheat was reported as very slow. It is doubtful if the day's business aggregated over 300,000 bu, although in some quarters there were intimations that a liberal quantity has been placed abroad. The Winnipeg market eased early but rallied on short covering and the finish was ⅝c higher. Liverpool closed ⅝@⅞d lower on pressure to sell Argentine and Australian grain. It is expected that the latter country will continue to ship on a large scale, as the government has been unable to make good on its promise to advance growers around 72c per bu, the actual advance being around 36c. Buenos Aires closed ⅝@½c lower.

Private cables from France indicated that country would have to import 30,000,000 bu, but was making every effort to economize in its purchases abroad. The Peruvian government has ordered mills there to use 30 per cent of home grown grain in their grind. Cuba has enacted a law, effective July 1, 1932, which forces bakers to use not less than 10 per cent cassava flour. In 1929 Cuba imported 1,260,000 brls wheat flour from the United States.

Corn in Firm Close.

Corn made a weak start and a strong finish with the close at net gains of ⅝@⅞c, March being 68c; May, 70@70¼c, and July 71⅛@71⅝c. Prices advanced 1⅜@1½c from the early low as the result of short covering. Unsettled weather over the belt had some effect on sentiment, and prevented locals from pressing the selling side a good part of the day. Commission house liquidation was on early with some stop loss orders uncovered.

An increase of only 82,000 bu in the visible supply for the last week was a factor in helping along the rally from the low point, as last year there was an increase of 1,053,000 bu. Total stocks are now 16,358,000 bu, against 13,196,000 bu last year. An official report made Kansas farm reserves 48,000,000, against 71,000,000 bu last year, suggesting a disappearance of 28,000,000 bu between Nov. 1 and Dec. 31, compared with 45,000,000 bu during the same period in 1929.

It was estimated that about 75 per cent of the receipts of 194 cars went direct to industries from outside markets, leaving only a small amount for sale in the open market. Buenos Aires closed ⅝@⅝c lower, with February closing at 36¾c, a new low for the season.

Cash Houses Sell Oats.

Cash houses were fair sellers of oats futures at times and there was liquidation by tired longs early, but the market rallied toward the close in sympathy with corn and finished ¼@⅜c higher, with March leading. The latter finished at 33⅞@34c; May, 34c, and July, 32⅝c. A decrease of 93,000 bu in the visible supply was somewhat less than anticipated.

Rye prices held within a range of less than 1c, trade being mainly local. Final trades were ⅛@⅜c higher, in sympathy with other grains. March closed at 40⅝c, May 41⅞c, and July at 42⅛c.

ACQUIRE SITE FOR BIG GARAGE IN WESTERN AVE.

B. B. Clover Takes Title to Block of Frontage.

BY AL CHASE.

Final steps in the acquirement of the entire block of frontage on the west side of North Western avenue, extending from Haddon avenue to Thomas street, were taken yesterday by Burtt B. Clover of B. B. Clover & Co. The last parcel of seven purchased was secured from Arthur Edelstein. Other parcels were bought from Newman Cohler, Jacob Elloff, and others. Mr. Clover says tentative plans call for the erection of a large garage to cover the entire site, 208x 101.

John H. McGill bought 88x109 at 356-64 Wendell street, from Joachim Wax and Stephen Connolly, through Ward T. Huston & Co. The present flat buildings are to be wrecked to make way for a one story garage.

Title to the Winthrop Mansions at 6145 Winthrop avenue has been transferred by Jacob Falk to A. O. Altschul as trustee. The building, which occupies a lot 75x150, is operated as an apartment hotel and contains sixty suites of one, two, and three rooms.

Oil Company Leases.

O. K. Wing of Bartlesville, Okla., yesterday leased two more corners in the Chicago area for the Phillips Petroleum company. The southwest corner of Winnemac and Western avenues, 50x125, was rented for nine years from the Midwest States corporation at an annual rental of $4,200 for the first five years and $4,800 for the balance of the term. The lease includes a service station building and equipment to be erected by the lessor.

The other lease is at the southwest corner of First avenue and Madison street in Maywood, 91x125. The lessor is Sylvester, R. Bacon. The lease is for ten years dating from the completion of a service station erected by the lessor with a term rental of $39,000. The lessee has an option to purchase at any time during the first five years for $50,000.

Winthrop Avenue Deal.

Sigmund Einstein has sold the residence at 6228 Winthrop avenue, lot 61x150, which he has occupied, to Ida Simon for an undisclosed consideration. Mr. Einstein purchased the three flat building at 6235 Kenmore avenue, lot 42x150, from Sadie and Abe Smith. It is understood that Mrs. Simon purchased the Einstein residence with the idea of erecting a flat building on the site later on when conditions warrant it. Hyman Soboroff was attorney in both deals.

Fifty-two lots on Yale, Princeton, Harvard, and Wentworth, between 96th and 97th streets, were sold by Blanch B. Gay to Samuel Aberg, realty broker.

The International Tag company has taken title to the property of the Chicago Manifold company, which it purchased in bankruptcy proceedings. The one story structure is at the northeast corner of Franklin and Dorset streets, in Franklin Park. The transfer was made for a stated $50,000, subject to an incumbrance. R. J. Nordhold was attorney.

paign advanced rapidly yesterday final day for the withdrawal of

The Republican race narrowed to five entries—Mayor Thom
Judge Lyle, Ald. Arthur F. A
George K. Schmidt, former city troller, and Eugene McCaffrey, sonal candidate. On the Demo side the contest was reduced to a sided affair between A. J. Cermak
J. B. DeVoney, who has been on ballots of other years without ge which he declared that Thompso

That speech was made Mo night before 800 members of H

He was followed by Ernest J. M tax commission, also committed self to Lyle.

were sent to the newspapers and the way Harding wanted it. He insisted all along that, because of long friendship, he will not pu slap Thompson in the face.

Harding mentioned this when

There was only one protest, from a woman employe of the
